Tariff Cut Effort Has Beginning

JohnsonSendsHis Word to Meeting

GENEVA (AP) — President Johnson pledged United States help to bring the Kennedy round of tariff negotiations "to a happy and fruitful conclusion."

Former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, the President's chief trade negotiator, delivered Johnson's message to the formal opening session today of the Kennedy round.

The session marked the beginning of a marathon tariff cutting effort by the 75 members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade — GATT — expected to continue for at least two years.

"Upon the opening of this meeting of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, an important and effective instrument for the expansion of world trade, I should like to send you the best wishes for success from the people of the United States," Johnson said.

Has Same Faith

"Your meetings, universally known as the Kennedy round, exemplify the hope and commitment of our late president to bring together the nations of the world in peaceful pursuits. I believe, as he did, in the necessity of success in your work.

"We in the United States look upon these negotiations as an important opening to a better world. If we act together with dedication of purpose, all can gain and none need lose. Not only the major commercial nations, but all the countries of this shrinking world—poor and rich alike—have the right to expect success from our endeavors.

"For the United States, I can assure you that we shall spare no effort in seeking to help

DOWN AT THE STERN—The U. S. S. Card floats low at the stern at her berth in Saigon harbor May 2 some 10 hours after a blast ripped a hole below the waterline of the baby flattop. All 73 crewmen escaped injury in the predawn explosion. The Card refloated partially at high tide and it was hoped that makeshift patching and pumping would prevent its sinking again in the 48-foot deep river. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Saigon)

Ties Up Near Card In River

Transport Being Mended by Crews

SAIGON, Vet Nam (AP) — The U. S. Destroyer Lyman K. Swenson arrived in Saigon today for what could be an American show of force following the sinking of the aircraft transport Card in the Saigon River.

A Navy spokesman said the Swenson was on a routine operational visit. Aboard was Capt. C. C. Hartigan Jr., commander of the 7th Fleet's Destroyer Squadron Nine.

The Swenson tied up within sight of the Card, which has been partially refloated since terrorists tore a 28-foot hole in its side with explosives before dawn Saturday.

Saigon Tense

Salvage workers were patching the hole preparatory to pumping out the vessel.

Saigon still was tense and on the alert Monday with patrols checking downtown traffic and troops swarming around the dock area.

No one was seriously injured aboard the Card but eight Americans and a Vietnamese were wounded when another terrorist tossed a handgrenade into their midst in Saigon Saturday night.

Four of the wounded said they wanted to get back to the battle zone as soon as they could.

Safer There

"It's safer there than here in Saigon," said Lt. Hector Dittamo, 22, of West Paterson, N.J., with a wry smile.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge had driven along the Saigon Street Saturday night just 10 minutes before a Viet Cong terrorist on a bicycle lobbed the handmade grenade into a group of American servicemen.

Pfc. Joseph G. Gustafson, 25, of Bayfield, Wis., said he saw the grenade rolling at them.

"I hollered 'Watch it' and started to run. There was a tremendous bang. I kept running. I didn't realize I'd been hit until I looked down and there was blood all over me."

"It exploded two feet away from me. I guess it's a miracle I'm still alive," said Spec. 4 John Arnett, 19, of Louisville, Ky.

Watching Wallace Bid in North

7 Primary Elections Prep for Conventions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven primary elections Tuesday touch off one of the most active pre-convention weeks of the political season.

Voters in Indiana, Ohio, Oklahoma, Alabama, Florida, New Mexico and the District of Columbia and state conventions in Delaware, Michigan, Alaska, Nevada and Wyoming will:

—Express a preference for a presidential nominee.

—Choose 139 Republican and 202 Democratic delegates to their party nominating conventions.

—Nominate candidates for two governors' mansions, four Senate seats and 63 House seats.

—Decide other issues ranging from unpledged presidential electors to a right-to-work labor law.

Watching Wallace

Most of the attention will be on Indiana, where Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama makes another bid for Northern votes in his campaign against the Johnson administration's civil rights bill. He is opposed in the Democratic presidential preference primary by Indiana Gov. Matthew E. Welsh, a stand-in for President Johnson, and three other candidates. The winner can lay claim to 51 first-ballot votes.

Goldwater Favored

On the Republican side Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona is the odds-on favorite to top a field of four which includes Harold E. Stassen of Philadelphia and two lesser-known candidates. The winner gets Indiana's 32-first-ballot votes at the Republican National Convention.

Delegates to both conventions will be chosen next month.

Also at stake in Indiana are nominations for 11 House seats. Five incumbents have primary opposition, five don't. Rep. Donald C. Bruce is quitting to seek the Republican Senate nomination at the state convention next month.

Other Key Elections

In other key elections Tuesday, Ohio's Rep. Robert Taft Jr., son of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, seeks the Republican Senate nomination and former football coach Bud Wilkinson makes his political debut in Oklahoma's Senate Republican nomination race.

The 139 GOP convention delegates to be chosen this week will push the number selected to 652—almost half of the 1,308 authorized. It will take 655 to nominate a candidate.

Goldwater, leading with 209 of the 513 chosen according to an Associated Press survey, could pick up more support at the Delaware convention Tuesday and at Republican gatherings in Michigan and Wyoming Friday and Saturday.

To Pick Delegates

Delegates to both conventions also will be chosen in the Ohio and District of Columbia primaries. Democratic delegates will be selected in the Alabama primary and at conventions in Alaska, Nevada and Wyoming.

Goldwater won a thumping endorsement in a relatively light turnout of Texas Republicans for a preferential poll Saturday. His total was about three times that of the rest of the field, which included most of these mentioned for the nomination. Henry Cabot Lodge, whose

4 Candidates Seek Posts As Trustees

With four candidates seeking three places on the Board of Education of the Kingston School District (Consolidated) a large vote is expected at the annual election slated for Tuesday.

Polls will be open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. in the 18 districts. (See Page 16 in today's Kingston Daily Freeman for the list of polling places.)

3,200 Eligible to Vote

More than 3,200 residents of the district are eligible to vote tomorrow and candidates will make every effort to urge that number of persons to go to the polls and participate in the four-cornered election.

Howard Fox and Benson A. Krom, incumbent members, are not seeking re-election. Two five-year terms will be filled with the two candidates receiving the largest vote taking those offices. A candidate will be elected to fill out the three years of the unexpired term of former trustee Gifford Beal, who resigned last December after moving from the district.

Four Candidates

Candidates seeking election include, Richard P. Boice, operator of a dairy farm, and Lake Katrine resident; Harold E. Keator, also of Lake Katrine, a distribution superintendent for the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., in the Kingston district, and Francis Stern-Montagny, of Hurley, a senior engineer employed at the Kingston IBM plant. They have received the endorsement of the Non-partisan Nominating Committee and the American Association of University Women, Kingston branch.

The four candidate is Everette Hodge, Kingston mortician and president of the Ulster Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He has received the support of the Ulster County Ministerial and Laymen's Alliance.

State Director Of Travel to Talk At Resort Meeting

Joseph Horan, director of travel for New York State, will speak at a meeting of area resort operators and chamber of commerce members at 8 p. m. Monday, May 11, in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

He will discuss, "The Future of Ulster County's Resort Industry — Grim or Glorious?" Horan also will point out current problems and the "must steps" which should be taken in the area to improve the resort industry. A film will be shown.

Last for Listings

Michael C. Starkman, publisher of the New Ulster County directory, will answer questions about the officially-endorsed county literature he is preparing and with his staff will accept last-minute listings for the directory from hotels, motels, camps, bungalow colonies, restaurants and other businesses relative to the county's travel and resort industry.

Starkman urged representatives of businesses not yet listed to attend the meeting or send representatives. He said that no further listings for the directory will be accepted after the May 11 meeting.

Resort and vacation sport operators, allied businesses, chamber of commerce officials and town supervisors were invited to attend the meeting. Frank A. Byer, assistant on the Ulster County Publicity Committee, will also be present. Refreshments will be served through the courtesy of the hotel.

7 Are Hurt In Traffic On Weekend

Seven persons were injured in five weekend city traffic mishaps, one driver was charged with driving while intoxicated, a truck failed to clear the low East Union Street railroad bridge, and a driver was injured early today when he swerved his car to avoid a dog.

Three persons were injured in a three-car mishap at Broadway and Pine Grove Avenue, reported at 8:25 p. m. Sunday.

Police said cars driven by Philip J. Peters, 35, of 141 Primrose Street, Fall River, Mass., and Barney J. Millins, 25, of 41 Meadow Street, were stopped in a line of traffic, and a third, was driven by Elwyn Rosa, 62, of 29 Ridgewood Avenue, Rolling Meadows, who said he was distracted when another car nearly struck his in passing.

Winfred Roosa, 38, of the same address suffered a mouth injury, and Samuel Millins, 62, of 41 Meadow Street, reported a head injury. They were treated at Kingston Hospital. Philip Peters, one of the drivers, reported a neck injury and was to be treated by a doctor.

Officer Charles Diers investigated.

Hearing on Wednesday

Sylvester Beverly, 43, of 249 East Union Street, was charged with driving while intoxicated after a mishap near 19 Mill Street Saturday.

Police said the car he drove, as it pulled away from a curb, went across the street and struck the car of The Rev. (Bishop) S. B. Chappell, of 255 East Strand.

Will Assess Methods

To Probe Tactics Used In Liquor Law Battle

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A legislative committee is investigating to find out whether "improper" tactics were employed in the battle over Gov. Rockefeller's liquor-reform program, it was disclosed today.

Sen. John J. Marchi, R-Staten Island, said the Joint Legislative Committee on the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law was making an "assessment of the methods used by proponents and opponents of the new law" in attempts to influence the Legislature.

Marchi, who heads the committee, did not disclose details of the course of the investigation.

He mentioned it only at the tail-end of a statement in which he promised to push for repeal next year of any provisions of the new liquor law that might be unworkable.

He said his committee would serve as a "watchdog" on the law.

Approve Modified Form

The liquor - reform program was rejected in the closing hours of the 1964 Legislature's regular session but was approved in a modified form last month at a special session called by Rockefeller.

The Republican governor had angered rank-and-file lawmakers at the regular session by implying in a special message that they were knuckling under to the opposition of liquor lobbyists.

Wholesale and retail dealers bitterly opposed the key provision, which will repeal a law that guarantees minimum prices on the liquor they sell. Some have threatened a court test.

Lobby on Other Side

On the final day of the regular session, Republican Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney said on the Senate floor that Marchi had some information there might be "a lobby on the other side" that might bear investigation.

Mahoney said he was not referring to the efforts of Rockefeller or of the Moreland Study Commission that had drafted the liquor program. He did not elaborate, however.

There were reports at the time that some distillers were promoting the bill because they believed it would stimulate liquor sales.

Marchi said his committee was "going ahead with its as-

CORE to Send Own Delegates To Conventions

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Congress of Racial Equality, at a meeting of its National Action Council here, said it would stage nonviolent demonstrations in Washington to urge support for the civil rights bill and would send its own delegates to both the Republican and Democratic national conventions.

James Farmer, national director of CORE, told a news conference Sunday the civil rights organization would attempt to oust delegates from Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama at the Democratic National Convention in Atlantic City Aug. 24 and replace them with its own delegates.

Plan Mass Picketing

Farmer said CORE planned to hold rallies at the conventions of both parties, with mass picketing to dramatize its demands.

The Republican convention is being held in San Francisco July 13.

Farmer said one of the civil rights demands at the Democratic convention would be fair and full employment with a minimum $2 wage and a massive works and training program for the jobless.

At the Republican convention, he said, CORE would call for the repudiation of the "traditional alliance with 'Dixiecrats' on civil rights."

Fulbright Going To Two Nations With Cyprus Word

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is sending chairman J.W. Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to Greece and Turkey to demonstrate this government's concern with the Cyprus situation.

Fulbright long had planned a trip to Europe, but Athens and Ankara were not added to his itinerary until he called Sunday at the White House for a discussion with Johnson.

Afterward the White House announced that the President

Road Death at Mt. Marion Adds to State Toll of 26

Twenty-six persons lost their lives in weekend accidents, including 14 who died of injuries suffered in traffic accidents. An Airman was killed in a mishap on the State Thruway, at Mt. Marion, an eight-year-old Dutchess County boy was fatally hurt when hit by a car, and a 32-year-old Orange County woman died from injuries when struck by a car at Walden on Sunday.

Airman 1/c James Milton Burgh, 25, of 564 Summit Avenue, Schenectady, was injured fatally at 4:15 p. m. Saturday, when the 1955 station wagon he was driving north on the Thruway went out of control three miles south of Saugerties interchange near Mile Post 98.

Sergeant Henry S. Rhodes, Kingston sub-station, said the vehicle crashed into guard rails, hit a bridge abutment and overturned. Burgh was ejected from the vehicle and landed on his head. Death was due to a compound fracture of the skull, troopers said.

Ulster County Coroner William S. Keyser investigated with BCI Investigator Richard Ryan, Kingston, Sergeant R. M. Wolfe of the Thruway detail, several uniformed troopers and Saugerties Special Town Police Officers John Pavlak and Anthony Ventriglia.

Burgh was an advisor with the 8313th Air Force Reserve Recovery Unit, Albany.

Burgh was listed as Ulster

Westchester Criticized on Gambling In Open, Albany Hit on Probe Blocks

NEW YORK (AP)—The State Investigation Commission says its probe of enforcement of gambling laws by Westchester County cities uncovered "apathy, laxity and corruption."

In its annual report issued Sunday, the commission said it found wide open gambling in Westchester County and "failure on the part of public officials to enforce the law faithfully and to discharge their duties effectively."

The commission also told of running into obstructive tactics in its inquiry of Albany County purchasing practices.

The report noted that it was "most astounding that, although these obstructive tactics became quite apparent, they were, nevertheless, continued with brazen effrontery."

The commission, headed by Myles J. Lane, made two recommendations:

1. State and local governments should cancel contracts and blacklist those contractors who refuse to testify or waive immunity in official inquiries.

2. A state law should be enacted to provide for the seizure and forfeiture of vehicles used to carry gambling records. Use of such vehicles, the report said, "is a vital, basic function in illegal gambling operations."

Lane said the latter proposal had been submitted to the last legislative session, which failed to act upon it.

The bipartisan agency also urged police reforms in Westchester County.

Earlier recommendations for improvement in local Westchester police departments have led to some "steps in the right direction," the commission noted.

The proposal for a possible consolidated crime unit at the county level had met objections based on local pride and traditions of local police control, the commission noted.

Although the 148-page report dealt mainly with Westchester County, an eight page section spoke of the "strategy of delay" the commission met in Albany.

"Every tactic and device was utilized to obstruct and prevent the commission from examining records. . .and to block the interrogation of important witnesses," the report said.

He Also 'Talks American'

LBJ a 'Scene-Stealing' Prez; He Dances, Speeds and Hoes

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Actors wouldn't like to work with President Johnson. At 55, he is the greatest scene - stealer of our time except maybe for Soviet Premier Khrushchev and French President de Gaulle.

But Khrushchev at 70 has quieted down and De Gaulle at 73 makes only an occasional appearance.

In the Senate the civil rights fights, weeks old and far from settled, seems as remote as a debate in a cave compared with the single picture of Johnson holding a beagle by its ears till it yelps.

The United States says it will continue its U2 flights over Cuba, and Khrushchev insists there will be trouble if it tries, but at the moment that's not half so real as Johnson making a speech to people in his garden.

The Speeding President

Republicans torment themselves wondering about the presidential chances of Goldwater, Rockefeller, Nixon, Lodge and Scranton but on the day Johnson exceeds the speed limit who remembers about the Republicans?

The Vietnamese war is going badly, despite all the American help. But that's hard to visualize. It's a lot easier to remember Johnson on television and radio announcing the end of the rail dispute.

This country wants to see democracy in Latin America but, while a new military government runs Brazil with an iron hand, Johnson chewing the fat with newsmen sticks in the mind.

The Soviet-Chinese split may be one of the turning points in history but, with all its complications and ideologies, it's harder to understand than Johnson dangling the promise of another tax cut, if and maybe.

He Also Dances

Who is going to remember the dispute with Panama over the Canal Zone, lingering and unsettled, when his head is filled with stories about Johnson dancing?

It is simpler to imagine that picture of his boyhood home, which Johnson says he has hanging in his bedroom, than it is something as big and lumpy as the war on poverty and the medical care bill, now bouncing around on Congress.

The Cyprus shootings make growing ill will between Greece and Turkey, two American allies. But what that ill will can mean to the allliance, if it gets bad enough, is a lot vaguer in the memory than the Johnson statement that he rarely reads novels because his mother often used to say: "If they're not true, I'm not interested."

De Gaulle keeps on unscrewing the bolts that hold the Western alliance together but the way he does it, slowly and haughtily, doesn't seem half so real as Johnson touring the Appalachian states.

Let Us Reason

It is harder to understand the dispute in Congress over permitting prayers in public schools or the day-to-day racial disputes around the country than it is to recall one of Johnson's favorite saying: "Come, let us reason together."

Alabama's Gov. George C. Wallace spends weeks in Northern presidential primaries, proving the North has segregationists, too, but one guess on who captures the eye when Johnson makes one speech at the opening of the World's Fair?

The Johnson pace, indoors and outdoors, is enough to make kids wonder, when they have to stay glued to their books, how he ever finds time for his homework.

The arid soil of Sahara Desert oases is immensely fertile, and crops are very nutritious because soil chemicals have not been leached out by rain.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

The other day there was a question from A. V. Sutton, of 32 Spring Street, Ilion, New York, about the Black Smoke cement mine slide of Rosendale, sometime around 1897, My readers have no end of information on this incident, which may help Mr. Sutton write about it. He does The Good Ole Days with a by-line, Paddy Sutton, in the Citizen Herald of Walden, New York.

I had a call from Mrs. Louis Dubois of Hurley, White Port Road. Her husband remembers when he was a little boy, and the men were working the famous Black Smoke Quarry, in the Up and Bar Mt. in Rosendale. They first used striker and hand drills, later steam drills were used. He said, when the much talked about slide happened, it filled the road and the old D. and H. Canal for some three weeks, and folks had to go around about to shop in Kingston. It shook the earth like a quake, he said. He understood the pillars caved in. It seems they are the natural stone, around which the miners dig, and leave the pillars to hold up the hill. His father, Nelson Dubois was there at the time, but came out safely. No one hurt, although, no doubt they had to run for their lives.

I also received an interesting copy of a letter Lester G. Clark, of Clark Lumber Co. Inc. of 480 Washington Avenue, Kingston, sent to Mr. Sutton. It reads in part: "In your reference to the mountain slide which collapsed and closed the tunnel in the mountain above the Rosendale Village. My father told me a rather unusual story in so far as we were concerned regarding this accident. My father, Jesse E. Clark was working for one of the cement companies somewhere near the westerly end of the tunnel in the vicinity of Binnewater."

Mr. Clark continues: "At the time he was on an errand to the far end of the mountain and it was his custom to walk through the tunnel in the mountain. However, that day he decided to go through the village street and he was on Main Street of Rosendale Village at the time of the collapse. If it had not been for a fateful change of plans, he would have been somewhere in the tunnel at the time of the collapse. I thought this might be of interest to you."

Mr. Clark further writes: "I note that you (Mr. Sutton) lived on Hurley Avenue. That is right near our location and just a moment ago an old [illegible] of Hurley Avenue was in the office, Fred Suppies. He is an old native of Higginsville. We are located adjacent to the now discontinued Ontario and Western Railroad tracks and close to the Ulster and Delaware tracks. A number of people from my old home town of Tillson have moved to Ilion and no doubt some of them knew my family."

On the other side, of the sheet, Mr. Clark directs a letter to me. He speaks of the consolidation of the school system, which was voted down, and then passed over the people's vote, by, he understands, 8 to 1. The one who did not vote for the consolidation of the school system, stood by the people's choice in the referendum, as he was standing for a legal principle. He is today a judge, and perhaps, the others who voted against the people's choice, feel he was right, and they were wrong, but it is too late now. Perhaps that is the reason for the apathy in the present School Board of Education elections and small interest in the meeting of the candidates. Taxation without representation has been a touchy subject since history began in this country, and sometimes silcence speaks louder than words.

Strike Is Threat To Ruling Junta

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—A threat to the Dominican Republic's seven-month-old ruling junta appears to be developing from a transport strike which touched off violence in the capital.

Military and civilian leaders held separate conferences examining the situation.

Police failed to halt demonstrations Sunday that accompanied the strike of taxi and bus drivers.

Unruly crowds burned tires; smashed bottles and dumped garbage in Santo Domingo streets.

The government declared the drivers' strike illegal, saying it was politically motivated and that the union had failed to give written notice stating the date and reasons for a strike.

Repeated government radio broadcasts warned the public that a 1962 decree of national emergency still was in effect. The decree authorized deportation of any person endangering public order by agitation or subversion.

Military leaders ousted President Juan Bosch Sept. 25, accusing him of being soft toward the Communists. The military then relinquished control to a three-man civilian junta.

The present triumvirate — Donald Reid Cabral, Manuel Tavares Espaillat and Ramon Caceres Troncoso—is regarded as conservative and anti-Communist.

The transport workers struck in protest against three recent junta decrees.

These banned public meetings without authorization, increased duties on a wide range of imports, including automobiles and auto parts, and authorized the police to seize licenses of drivers involved in traffic violations.

Kepner said he's riding his bike to the fair because he likes exercise.

Southerners Are Glad of Forecast Floods Are Over

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Southerners, drenched with torrential rains which caused flash floods and crop damage, welcomed a promised respite from soggy weather as a storm spawned in the Gulf of Mexico moved out into the Atlantic.

Continuous rains and thunderstorms for almost a week caused small streams to rise over north Florida, southwest Georgia and southern Alabama. The heaviest rains came during the weekend. Nearly six inches fell during a 24-hour period in some areas.

Thunderstorms were accompanied by high winds in the Miami area which caused some property damage and two persons were cut by flying glass when a garbage can was blown through a window.

There were 21 traffic fatalities in Georgia during the weekend, and 16 in Alabama. Normally, there are about half that number. Most of the accidents happened on rain-slick highways.

Crop damage was extensive in south Georgia, where spring planting already was delayed by late freezing weather.

About 100 families were removed from flooded houses at Augusta, Ga., where nearly five inches of rain fell in a 12-hour period.

Two men drowned at Maxville, Fla., near Jacksonville, while trying to evacuate a flooded house.

Lefkowitz Says Highschoolers Favor Lottery

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Spokesmen for 10,000 high school pupils lean toward a state-controlled lottery to improve the public welfare without raising taxes Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz reported today.

The opinions were contained in essays submitted by pupils in more than 250 New York State Public, private and parochial schools for the annual "Attorney General For-a-Day" contest sponsored by the State Law Department.

Seventy-four per cent of the essay-writers favored a lottery, the attorney general said. The rest did not.

Utica Council Must Tell About Budget Rejection

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—The Utica Common Council is under orders to tell a State Supreme Court judge why it rejected Mayor Frank Dulan's $9-million budget.

Eight of the nine council members were subpoenaed Saturday to appear at a hearing Tuesday. The ninth councilman. Vincent J. Wreszynski, a Democrat, said he expected to be served with a subpoena today.

The five Democratic and four Republican members turned down Dulan's budget unanimously, contending it contained illegal provisions.

The subpoena action came after the council agreed to emergency measures Saturday allowing the city to hand out pay checks to about 1,000 city employes. The checks were two days overdue.

A council decision to issue tax anticipation notes cleared the way for the late payment.

The checks were released after Corporation Counsel George Betro received word from the city's bonding attorneys that employes could be paid under the special procedure.

The Dulan administration is seeking a court order to force the council to adopt the budget.

Hinkle, a native of Lenora, Kan., and a 1933 graduate of Kansas State University, came to Alfred Tech in 1937 as an instructor in the agricultural engineering division. He was appointed president in 1960.

Prince, New Bride Stay Away From Spanish Fiesta

MONTEJURRA, Spain (AP)—The Spanish Carlists, who have sought the Spanish throne in vain since 1833, held their annual rally Sunday without their new leading lady.

Spain's chief of state, Generalissimo Francisco Franco, reportedly passed the word that the Carlists' leader, Prince Carlos of Bourbon-Parma, and his bride, Princess Irene of the Netherlands, should stay away from the annual pilgrimage to Montejurra, a mountaintop shrine in northeast Spain.

The newlyweds stayed in Madrid and sent messages. Carlos predicted the cause would eventually succeed, and Irene said she would attend the rally next year.

An estimated 100,000 Carlists made the pilgrimage to the mountain.

Parents of 16 Boys Keep Check After X-ray Exposure

NEW YORK (AP)—The parents of 16 boys kept an anxious eye on the youngsters today for signs they might have suffered ill effects from playing near a radioactive device.

The boys, aged 10 to 14, were rushed to a hospital Sunday after they were spotted playing near an X-ray machine being used to test for flaws in steel beams in construction of the new Metropolitan Opera House.

The examining physician at Roosevelt Hospital said that in cases of radioactive exposure where there is no nausea or external burns, there is no test that could determine whether there was any injury.

He released the boys to their parents, telling them that if the children developed any unusual symptoms they would be returned to the hospital.

The X-ray device, contained in a lead box the size of an overnight case, is used only on Sundays when there are no workers about.

YOU GOTTA TALK BACK

Communication is a two-way street. For understanding, ideas and thoughts must travel in both directions.

What happens when, somewhere along the route, traffic snarls? Misunderstanding and confusion can result.

In a series of experiments, a Bell Telephone Laboratories scientist has graphically demonstrated the role of two-way communication in tackling a problem.

In each test, six people were divided into pairs. Each of the six was given a set of dominoes. The dominoes of one person (A) in each group were placed in a specific pattern; the dominoes of the other person (B) were unorganized. "A" was told to tell "B" by telephone how to set up his dominoes in the same pattern, but with this difference:

In Group 1, "B" could not talk to "A." Result: none of the "Bs" got the pattern right.

In Group 2, "B" could only indicate by pressing a buzzer that he didn't understand the instructions of "A," who was allowed to repeat the instructions. Result: some of the "Bs" got the pattern right.

In Group 3, "B" could talk to "A." Result: all of the "Bs" got the pattern right.

When interviewed after the tests, "As" in Group 1 thought the "Bs" were dim, since they couldn't understand simple instructions. But the "Bs" felt the "As" couldn't explain things.

The Group 2 participants expressed similar views, but not quite as strongly.

Only the Group 3 people, who had been permitted full two-way communication—felt happy about the experiment.

The tests seem to show that it's easy to misunderstand, misinterpret and become completely confused when two-way channels are closed.

Small wonder, then, that a common phrase these days is, "Well, what I meant to say was . . ."

WISE EMERGENCY FUND

The failure, last November, of the Allied Crude Vegetable Refining Corp. provoked a costly side effect in Wall Street. The collapse of Allied also brought down in ruin a member of the New York Stock Exchange, Ira Haupt & Co.

Though not legally obliged to do so, other member brokers raised sufficient capital between them (9.5 million dollars) to pay off Ira Haupt's creditors. Their motives were plain and compelling. Confidence in the whole Exchange would be set back severely could one of its members go under so quickly.

While the ad hoc arrangement worked very well in satisfying any losses to Haupt customers, raising so much cash was quite a strain. Consequently, the New York Stock Exchange has worked out an interesting plan to take care of future emergencies of this kind. Brokerage firms have agreed to set aside 25 million dollars in a contingency fund. Henceforth any member who, except through fraud, becomes over-extended may receive financial assistance from the fund. The fund will be there on a continuing basis independent of any emergency scratching for cash.

The stock buying public stands to gain from this cooperative effort. NYSE member firms, though generally rock-ribbed financially, can make unwise extension of credits as did Ira Haupt. Sadly, we now know this is possible. A 25-million-dollar fund is a comforting resource to have around should it ever happen again.

THE CONSPIRACY THEME

There are always those who refuse to accept the most probable explanation for anything, particularly a major crime. They prefer the cloak-and-dagger, conspiratorial setting to that which is direct, simple and logical.

Thus it is that many, particularly in Europe, refuse to believe that the presumed assassin of President Kennedy in Dallas acted without others' aid. They prefer to think—and are being deliberately incited to think—that he and Jack Ruby were agents in a ring of conspirators and that there was much more to the tragedy than has been revealed.

The possibility cannot be excluded. But indications are that, when the Warren commission reports, little will be told that has not already been disclosed.

The commission, certainly, has a more thorough knowledge of what happened in Dallas, and why it happened, than a lawyer now lecturing in Europe who was hired and fired by Oswald's mother, and a self-admitted former Communist living in Paris whose theories of the assassination even implicate the FBI and the State Department.

"Inside stories" and so-called "heretofore unrevealed facts" about the assassination will appear periodically for years. Most of them will be fiction. The Warren report may not satisfy those athirst for more sensation, but it will be based on evidence, rather than fancy.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

THROWING BOOMERANGS AT OURSELVES

Senator Kenneth Keating, Republican of New York, would like to know who owns the State Department. As a member of one of the coordinate arms of the federal government, he is, presumably, entitled to a straight answer from another arm. But he finds the effort to get anything that is meaningful out of Dean Rusk's minions is like punching a feather pillow. Or like asking Casey Stengel's opinion on the weather.

For almost two months the Senator prodded the State Department on the subject of those Indonesian military and police people who were, or were not, being trained in the U. S. Then, thinking he had nailed down some positive information, he passed the word along to his fellow Senators that some of the 280 Indonesians in question were "being trained in counter-insurgency—which is the latest $64 word for guerilla warfare." Nothing wrong in that, of course, if the Indonesians happened to be prepared to back up U. S. foreign policy. But training in "guerilla warfare" in the case of Indonesia means setting things up for boss man Sukarno to threaten our friends in the new federation of Malaysia, which the Indonesians have sworn to destroy.

No sooner had Senator Keating let slip the news about U. S. schooling of the Indonesian soldiers and police than the State Department tried to weasel out of what it had said already. "Counter-insurgency," it seems, may not mean "guerrilla warfare"; it may merely cover "rural rehabilitation" in depressed areas. Though the State Department did not deny that Indonesians were getting some sort of training in this country, it was not necessarily in techniques that would be used against Malaysians. No, indeed. The Indonesian military and police personnel were just getting some instruction in "operations" and "logistics," which are never, never, never used in warfare. The State Department would have us believe that Napoleon never heard of the subject of "operations." Or that Douglas Mac Arthur would have had to go to the dictionary to look up "logistics." If you can't follow this, don't blame Senator Keating. He tried.

More serious than the semantic fog that tops every other kind of fog in the State Department's home of Foggy Bottom is the fact that this nation seems to be forever throwing boomerangs at itself. The case of the Indonesian "rural rehabilitators" who will not use a knowledge of "operations" and "logistics" against Malaysia (no, indeed) is just the latest in a line of U. S. boo boos. Before we ever had "rural rehabilitators" we had "agrarian reformers" in Red China. And it wasn't many years ago that we provided the Cuban dictator Batista with some T-33 jet trainers. With beautiful consistency, however, we refused to provide Batista with enough ammunition to make his T-33s effective. Never mind; the State of Israel let Batista have some ammunition, which reached Cuba in unopened U. S. containers.

Thus having hit ourselves with a couple of boomerangs in the T-33s to Batista and the ammunition to Israel, we sat back and watched Castro take the T-33s over. It was the T-33s which sank the supply ship which was absolutely indispensable to the anti-Castro Cubans at the Bay of Pigs.

In a recent speech to the American Textile Manufacturers in Palm Beach, Chairman Gerald Phillippe of the General Electric Company mentioned U. S. tax money which has been used to rebuild the economies of Europe and Japan. Using the newest machinery, the West Europeans and the Japanese now sell us radios, cameras, electronic components and textiles at prices that undercut our own companies. Meanwhile, so Mr. Phillippe told the textile manfacturers, fully two-thirds of the metal cutting and forming tools used in American factories are obsolete.

Well, whatever became of the move to export our obsolescent machine tools to needy nations instead of new money for use in buying new machine tools? Senator Wayne Morse is for this approach to foreign aid. We don't often agree with Senator Morse, but in this case he is right. It's time to stop throwing those boomerangs.

THE WELL CHILD

Big Ears on Little Boys Can Be Corrected

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If your child has ever been called "Floppy Ears" or Jughead" because his ears stick out at right angles, you will appreciate what a psychological problem this condition can be. It is all very well to point out that this is a normal variation but this does not lessen the teasing to which your boy may be exposed. The situation may not be so acute with a girl because her hair can be used as an effective cover.

One bright boy of 14 I knew was falling behind in his school work until this defect was corrected by a very simple operation. His whole outlook on life was so much better after the operation that his parents wondered why they had not had it done sooner.

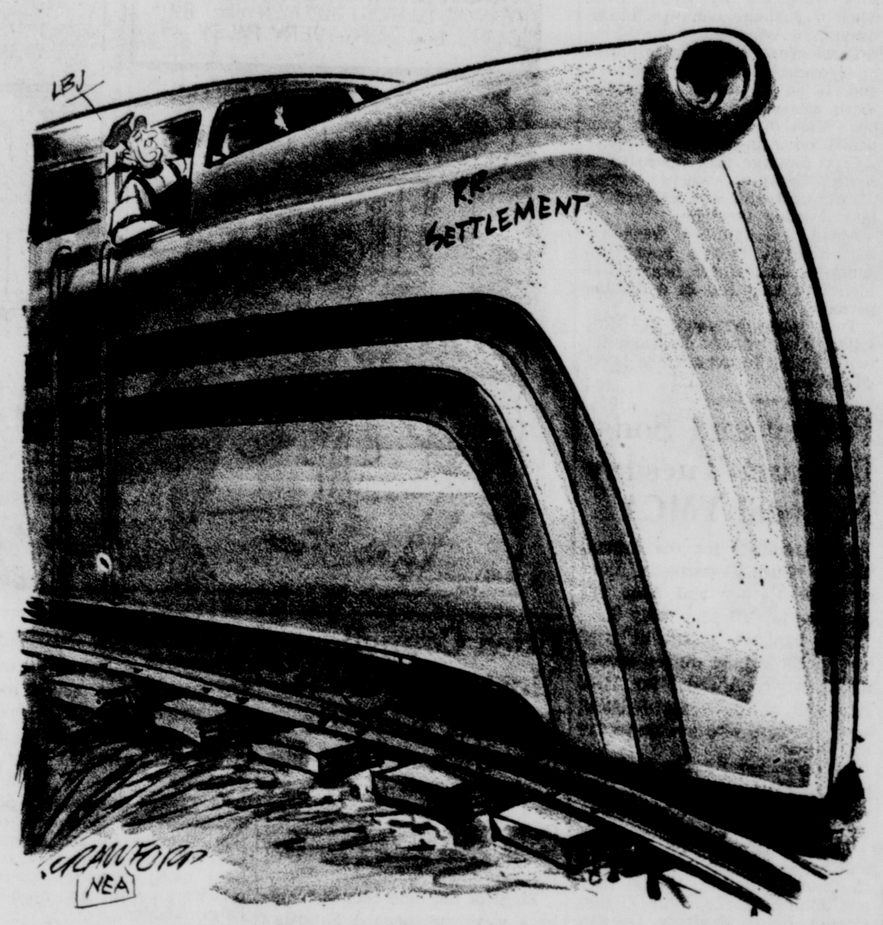
Q—We lost a grandchild with cystic hygroma. He was operated on for it at 9 months and got an infection. He could not take sulfa drugs or penicillin because he was allergic to them. What can you tell me about this condition?

A—Cystic hygroma is a development defect usually discovered after birth. It is a nonmalignant tumor of the lymph vessels and is found most commonly in the neck. It tends to grow progressively larger. When such tumor is recognized it should be completely removed as soon as possible to prevent both infection and the pressing of the tumor on the windpipe. These tumors become infected very easily. In a child allergic to antibiotics, the infection would be very hard to control.

Q—My son, whose IQ is high, has always been tense during examinations and this has pulled his grades down. Is there any safe sedative that will help his examination jitters?

A—Many tranquilizers (available only on a doctor's prescription) are manufactured and used. The chief trouble with using them before an examination is that they slow up the mental processes. Were your son to take one of them before an exam he might assume an attitude of "couldn't care less." The best preparation for any exam is thorough grounding in the subject so that cramming just before the exam is not necessary.

The Fall Whistle Stop Tour Begins



Washington News

BY BRUCE BIOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Federal grants-in-aid to state and local governments, amounting now to almost $10 billion a year, are becoming at once more popular and more controversial. A new, little-noticed official report jumps into the fray.

Just a few months ago the federal aid roster was augmented by programs covering vocational education, college facilities, mental health and retardation. The sums involved in these are expected to grow steadily in succeding years.

At present pace the total may rise to $12 billion or more within a very short span. Small wonder there is concern.

One sign of it is the stir in Congress for some kind of periodic review. The object would be, of course, to chop off or reduce federal aid where it was clear programs either had become self-sustaining at the state-local level, or no longer necessary.

The review idea, pushed by Maine's Sen. Edmund Muskie and some others, has developed some Hill support. But scaling down grants-in-aid would be about as popular with some lawmakers as closing down military and naval installations.

NOW WE HEAR FROM the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations in another ticklish area:

Should federal grants go in greater flow proportionately to states with above-average needs and below-average financial resources?

About a third of the aid programs enacted in the last decade have made some provision for assistance on this basis. The Social Security Act of the mid-1930s was the first to try it.

The Advisory Commission, in a thoroughgoing report beamed to this question, recommends that this so-called equilization of grants be applied in those programs specifically related to national policy goals, such as general educational uplift, improved health, etc.

But this body, a purely advisory group drawn from all levels of government, suggests at the same time that the "equalizing aim" of grant programs be held to "minimum service levels consistent with" national objectives.

This might be one way, perhaps, to take some of the sting out of the richer states' constant complaint that their heavier tax contributions "carry" the poor states.

THE COMMISSION HAS A FEW MORE BONES to pick. It doesn't think aid distributed on an equalization footing ought to be mixed in particular programs with funds handed out in proportion to population or according to some other formula.

And it sees no excuse for allowing rubbery yardsticks in gauging either needs or ability to pay at the state-local level.

Thus it recommends regular review by the involved agencies and departments to test the fitness of "need indexes" in the various grant programs. The obvious aim is to guard against overstatement of need.

The commission further would charge the President with laying groundwork for putting together data of use to the states in improving their fiscal capacity and hence their ability to carry their own load.

In a period dominated by more dramatic issues, there is no particular political sex appeal in these proposals. But they are highly responsible notions from a respected agency which probes the federal-state-local field thoughtfully.

It will be interesting to see how many "economy-minded" lawmakers in Washington grasp these proposals to put grant programs under tighter scrutiny. And how many state governments take up the challenge to improve their own financial resources.

Trial by Jury in CR Cases Not Easy Question to Answer

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — What's the jury trial amendment to the civil rights bill all about? On its face it seems to be a question of whether a person who could be put in jail on a charge of contempt of court should have the right to trial by jury. Would a person prefer to have judgment passed on him by a jury of 12 citizens or by just one individual—a judge.

This is not an easy question to answer. For sometimes a jury is not able to understand the fine points of the law and may make a mistake, whereas a judge who is familiar with all the intricacies of the statutes would presumably do a better job—though often some judges seem to be politically minded.

Basically, the whole controversy arises now in connection with civil right because of a fear that juries in the South may not administer justice as it should be. But the legislation pending in the Senate is designed to cover citizens in all parts of the country and to secure justice for everybody—not just people in one section.

What constitutes "contempt?" It involves disobedience of an order issued by the court or else misbehavior inside a courtroom. There seems to be universal acceptance of the idea that any disorder inside a courtroom should be punished by the judge without any jury trial. There is a distinct difference of opinion, however, as to what should be done with respect to disobedience of a court order outside the courtroom.

The issue as it is being debated in Congress is a very serious one. It is something that ought to be given many months of deliberation instead of just a few days. It strikes at the root of the American system of justice. The Constitution says plainly in three separate provisions:

1. "The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury."

2. "In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall have been committed."

3. "In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved."

But the courts have arbitrarily tried to define a "crime" in different ways. As recently as last year in the proceedings for contempt against Gov. Barnett of Mississippi, the Supreme Court by a 5-to-4 vote decided against the request for a jury trial. Chief Justice Warren and Justices Black, Goldberg and Douglas dissented. In his opinion, Justice Black wrote:

"I think that this doctrine that a judge has inherent power to make himself prosecutor, judge and jury seriously encroaches upon the Constitutional right to trial by jury and should be repudiated."

But, in spite of these views expressed by the liberal justices, most of the liberals in the Senate will vote instead to repudiate the words of the Constitution.

There is a popular impression, more over, that jail sentences are imposed only in the case of criminal contempt, but actually an individual may go to jail in a civil contempt case as well.

Criminal contempt usually results in punishment of the defendant by a fine or imprisonment, in a definite amount and for a definite time. Under the civil rights bill passed by the House, the judge would be able to try a criminal contempt case without a jury and impose sentence in certain instances where the fine was to be $300 or less or where the imprisonment is 45 days or less. But an individual also can be jailed in a civil contempt case. Whether a person is in jail for civil contempt or for criminal contempt it is just as much a punishment or disgrace. One prominent lawyer wrote to this correspondent the other day:

"It will make little difference to the defendant whether he is in jail on a charge of civil or criminal contempt as long as he is, in fact, in jail. The court can simply leave him there until he complies with its order. Or it can levy a conditional fine which he will have to pay if he does not comply and still be in contempt. Or it can fine him so much a day until he does comply. Or it can do all of these things. These are examples of civil contempt cases where a jury is not available.

"Decisions of American courts make it clear that there is no right to trial by jury in civil contempts. That will continue to be the law until some statute changes it.

"The jury trial amendment, whatever its form may take, is an illusion as long as it is confined to criminal contempt. If the proponents of the bill want to make a concession, the amendment must include both civil and criminal contempt. This, of course, should not include contempts committed in the immediate presence of the court."

So it is evident that neither side is all wrong or all right on this issue and that serious consideration should be given to the whole matter because it involves a precedent of far-reaching importance. It is just one of a number of civil rights measures that are being rushed through Congress because of political pressures and intimidation by threats of violence or street demonstrations. This is not the proper way to enact legislation dealing with fundamental principles of justice.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

He completed his notation and looked up. No, he said, he couldn't play golf. He had to go to school. The man who spoke was Hank Stewart, flight engineer on Northwest Airlines. The listeners were Captain Oliver Yates and First Officer Don Nordlund. They were in a Boeing jet, 39,000 feet over Louisville, bound for Chicago and Minneapolis.

The sun was coming in on the captain's side, and he had a small green shade on the window. He looks like all the captains on National, Pan American, United, T.W.A., Eastern and American—a thatch of gray, a weathered granite face, and busy eyes. Nordlund, as first officer, was younger, good-looking, and chubby. Steward rode side saddle, as all flight engineers do. He faced a panel of instruments which told him all the little truths about the big jet engines and their fuel.

I sat in the jump-seat behind them, thinking of the flights I have made sitting behind airline captains over all the years from 1934. This, in turn, led to a chain of thought about commercial aviation. The airlines of the United States are now not only the safest in the world, but they are close to the ultimate in safety.

The government regulatory agencies — The Civil Aeronautics Bureau, and the Federal Aviation Agency—have more control over flight than the airline owners. As I was dreaming, Yates was turning his radar on and could see the inside of big clouds ahead and below. This was a stationary cold front. He could see little black pin-points and big ones. These are "cells" and "cores" of violent thunderstorms.

He told Nordlund to ask Ground Control for permission to turn northeast 50 miles, then fly straight for a hundred, then turn left to get back on course. The plane was far above the storms and in no danger. He didn't want his passengers to be bounced by thermal currents. Nordlund asked for permission. I listened on a headset. Ground Control examined the airways all around Northwest 709, and said okay.

In no industry is safety overemphasized as in aviation. Far ahead, Yates could see a tiny silvery jet, trailing long wavy plumes, coming toward him. The plans was a southbound Delta. It was thousands of feet below. Still, Ground Control called in on the phone and said "Northwest seven-oh-nine, traffic at 12 o'clock." And Nordlund acknowledged: "We have it in sight."

Before takeoff, the weight of the plane, the weight of the fuel, passengers, luggage, crew, food and water are assessed. This one weighted 240,150 pounds — 120 tons. Each hour in flight, it weighs seven tons less because that's the amount of kerosene it burns. The faster it goes, the less strain on the engines because the air on which they live is forced into the pods at 600 miles per hour.

The front windows could be painted black and Yates could find his way to Chicago just as easily as by looking. The automatic pilot will keep the plane on course better than he can by hand; ground control will phone the proper flight altitude; radio directional equipment will keep him headed for his destination in spite of cross-winds, fog, turbulence or rain.

Distance Measuring Equipment tells the skipper exactly how many miles he has yet to fly. Jet engines seldom fail, but when they do, the big planes can continue on three, or even two. Wings are made to be flexible, so that they can breast the waves of air as a small boat rises and falls in choppy sea.

The first officer has a series of 20 radios, and the Government ground control tells him which wave lengths to use. Ground Control is tracking the plane at all times, and will tell a captain if he is wandering a little bit to the right, or left, of the "center line." It also tells him when to descend, and when to climb.

Nothing is done without permission on a commercial airliner. The busiest time is takeoff and landing. On takeoff, he receives orders about which taxiways he must use to get to the head of the runway. Before leaving, explicit instructions are given about directions and altitude in leaving the airport. Coming down, he is told "Descend from 39,000 to 15,000 and report every two thousand feet."

When he nears the airport, the skipper is told about other traffic in the vicinity, is ordered to reduce speed, report when approaching the "outer marker" of the airport, and which runway to use coming in on final approach.

The three men up front do all this without appearing to be overworked. They have time for coffee, a sandwich, a fattening dessert. They converse quietly while watching scores of instruments. They keep going back to school—as the flight engineer is—to learn new techniques, new instruments, new types of planes.

As we came into Minneapolis, I asked Captain Yates if he was tired. "No," he said. "All I've done today is fly from Minneapolis to Chicago to Miami and back again. When I get home, I have a few small chores, like taking out the garbage." . . .

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

Let Me Out Of Here

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Visitors to the city zoo chuckled as they watched this bit of animal drama. A stray dog wandered through the zoo sniffing the ground. As he neared the lions' cage his hackles rose and he growled, waking a sleeping lion. The lion roared, the dog yipped and ran. In his haste the dog almost bowled over a man, was narrowly missed by a car in a street and was still running when he splashed head-long into a fish pond.

ADDED FEATURE — Topper the canary has an extra fringe on its head that resembles a Beatle top. Songbird is owned by Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Judy of Nashville, Tenn.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—"Made in America," the CBS panel show that tried to substitute the sight of millionaires for an amusing game and big money prizes, died Sunday night as it had lived — briefly and ingloriously. formances makes it runnerup for the shortest-lived show of the season. ABC's "100 Grand" early this season was hastily removed, after three performances—or was it two?

The spot in the network's Sunday night schedule has proved to be a sort of television Death Valley — "The Judy Garland Show" fought a losing struggle there earlier.

The network proposes to finish out the season with another hard-luck show called "Brenner," about a father and son who are cops. It was seen several seasons back and again in some reruns, but the episodes to be shown have never been broadcast before.

NBC's "Incident on Wilson Street" Sunday night was an interesting effort to show sensitive, concerned teachers attempting to help fifth and sixth grade children living in a decaying Brooklyn neighborhood.

It was not entirely successful because sometimes the children and adults seemed a little self-conscious, but mostly because the kind of remedial work the teachers are doing is not dramatic and requires much time and patience.

While network radio is currently excited about discovering interviews and conversation instead of music and news, the lady who is generally credited with the first radio interview show celebrates her 30th anniversary in broadcasting today—with an hour interview show as usual.

Mary Margaret McBride, who retired from network radio several years ago, now lives happily on a mountainside in the Catskill Mountains overlooking a big lake and a white birch forest. She treats broadcasting as a beloved hobby, doing three sponsored programs a week from her home.

Spurred Rights Groups Plan Big Turnouts Today

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Civil rights groups, spurred on by a solid week of racial demonstrations—some violent — and a pep talk by the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., pledged to be out in force again today.

A prime target will be Morrison's Cafeteria, part of a Southern chain and one of Nashville's few remaining segregated eating places. Racial demonstrators, including a number of white persons, picketed the cafeteria almost daily last week. About 100 persons were arrested, during the demonstrations.

About 70 predominantly Negro pickets showed up at Morrison's Sunday and staged orderly protests of the restaurant's segregation policy.

Inside the cafeteria, a new form of protest, the "sip-in" was born. About 200 white persons, mostly college students and faculty members, filled tables during the dinner hour and purchased only coffee or tea which they sipped for an hour or more.

"Now is the time to make Nashville an open city," Dr. King told an audience of 2,000 at a rally at Fisk University, a Negro school. "Keep moving," he said. But he urged that demonstrations be peaceful.

King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, flew in from Atlanta just before the rally and left immediately afterwards.

Thousands View Loyalty Day Parades

Thousands of persons on Saturday and Sunday viewed colorful parades held in Poughkeepsie and Hudson in observance of Loyalty Day.

Four divisions marched in the Poughkeepsie event sponsored by the Dutchess County Council of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Frederick Trani, Hyde Park, was parade marshal, and John K. Rinaldi, Poughkeepsie, was honorary marshal, with Andrew J. Mihans as adjutant.

The Hudson parade on Saturday was sponsored by Columbia Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, of that city. Dr. John L. Edwards, chairman of the New York State Bridge Authority, was honorary marshal.

NewsClamp-Down In Cuban Crisis: ANPA Prexy Robb

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gene Robb, publisher of two Albany newspapers and president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, says there is a constant attempt among government officials to withhold news.

Robb, publisher of the Albany Times-Union and the Albany Knickerbocker News, cited alleged news management during the Cuban crisis. "Reporters could have been allowed to cover the story," he declared.

Robb said Saturday in a television interview that newspapers must perform a job "for individual people whose interests get fouled up in complex situations."

Newspapers, he said, "stand between the people and the big organizations."

Robb accused government officials of attempts to "withhold news, channel only the more favorable news and make it difficult for certain reporters to get the news."

Young Reds Riot With Sofia Folk On Way to Mass

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—The Soviet bloc's second riot in three days broke out in Sofia as Communist youths blocked the path of Bulgarian Orthodox churchgoers en route to Easter Mass.

Youth group demonstrations during Prague's May Day celebration Friday turned into battles with Czechoslovak police and resulted in 31 announced arrests.

The official Czech news agency, CTK, confirmed the disturbances in Prague, but Bulgarian government agencies remained silent about the clashes in Sofia.

Reports from Sofia said hundreds of churchgoers had been involved in clashes with both police and Communist youths.

Entrances to Aleksander Nevsky Cathedral in Sofia were blocked by youths shouting atheist slogans. Police closed the cathedral doors to prevent incidents, and the fighting ensued.

Patriarch Cyril, spiritual leader of the Bulgarian Orthodox Church, was to have celebrated the Resurrection Mass, climax of the Orthodox Easter celebration.

An announcement said the patriarch was ill and Bishop Nikolai, rector of the Academy of Theology, had taken the patriarch's place.

In Prague, CTK said the 31 persons under arrest had been charged with disturbing the peace. The news agency denied reports received outside Czechoslovakia that university students had led the rioting against the police.

Reports received in Vienna said 3,000 students had participated in the rioting in Kinsky Park, where they had gathered for traditional May Day poetry reading.

Goshen to Celebrate It's 250th Anniversary

Goshen, N. Y. — The pieces are beginning to fall into place for Goshen's plan to celebrate its 250th anniversary this July. Among the scores of events planned between July 18-25, the latest to be added is a concert by the Stewart Field Air Force band in the Presbyterian Church Park on the evening of July 18.

That particular Saturday will be packed with activity, including a huge afternoon parade by firemen from a wide area, displays of fire equipment and all the things to make a Firemen's Day complete. Before the parade, the Orange County Area Harness Horse Owners and Breeders plan a program of matinee harness racing at Historic Track. To top off the evening there is to be a block dance in the village square just a few fox trot steps away from the concert.

Traver Trial Is Adjourned Until May 18

Trial of suspended Police Lieut. George Traver of Poughkeepsie, scheduled for today in Dutchess County Court, was adjourned by Judge John R. Schwartz until Monday, May 18.

Traver, 54, a 28-year veteran on the police force, was indicted on a second degree assault charge. He is accused of assaulting John Phillips, Highland, a taxicab driver, with his revolver during an argument outside the Traver home in the Town of Poughkeepsie last Nov. 17. The gun discharged and a bullet hit Phillips' shoulder.

Traver was suspended by Police Chief John L. Martin and subsequently indicted by a grand jury. He is free in $5,000 bail.

County Judge Schwartz said today's adjournament was made to give the Poughkeepsie Fire and Police Trial Board of three members an opportunity to conduct a hearing for Traver on departmental charges.

City Manager Kenneth Pearce said today as far as he is concerned the hearing will not be held until the felony charges are disposed of in county court.

Traver's attorney, N. LeVan Haver of this city, said he is prepared to proceed with whichever trial is held first. Judge Schwartz indicated the Trial Board hearing should be held before trial on the criminal charge.

January Death Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The death rate for motor vehicle accidents was 21.5 for each 100,000 population during January, almost 30 per cent higher than for the first month of 1963, the Public Health Service reported today.

The service noted in giving the figures in its monthly vital statistics report that for all of 1963 the annual increase in the motor vehicle death rate over the 1962 rate was about 4 per cent.

On Objectors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to review a decision that conscientious objectors need not believe in a supreme being to be exempted from military service.

The decision was given by the U.S. Court of Appeals in New York. It said exemption may be based on deeply rooted beliefs and sentiments.

A requirement that conscientious objection be based on religious beliefs, including existence of a supreme being, the Circuit Court held, would violate the Constitution.

Greater Danger

NEW YORK (AP)—Sir Hugh Foot, former British colonial governor of Jamaica and Cyprus, said the possibility of war between whites and the world's colored peoples is "a greater danger than anything between East and West."

Sir Hugh, a member of the five-man panel which advises U.N. Secretary-General U Thant on conditions in South Africa, appeared on WOR-TV in New York.

Truck Destroyed By Fire, Other Calls Answered

A fire of suspected incendiary origin destroyed an abandoned truck body and contents in a lot at 433 Washington Avenue Saturday afternoon and a space heater overflow later Saturday resulted in damage to a Ferry Street house.

Another call Saturday was for a surface fire on the city refuse disposal area, which, police were told, had apparently been set by boys, and a call Sunday was for fire in a wooded area off East Chester Street.

The truck body, which contained old box springs and mattresses, burned on a property owned by A. R. Newcombe, on Washington near Hurley Avenue. Firemen said it was owned by Edwin Tomlinson, of the Tomlinson body and welding shop, at 31 Hurley Avenue.

Units from Wiltwyck Station with Deputy Chief Julius E. Buchholtz in charge answered a call at 1:04 p. m.

The dump fire was reported at 7:29 p. m. Units from Union and Cordts companies responded. Police were told that the fire had been set by three boys, who ran from the Ulster Street area to Third Avenue. Officers George Barringer and Leon Fitzgerald were dispatched to investigate, but no boys were reported found in the area.

The call for a blaze caused by a space heater in the second-floor apartment of William Childs, 63 Ferry Street, was at 9:18 p. m. Saturday. Units from Central and Cornell stations, responded with Capt. Harry L. Sills in charge. The blaze damaged areas of the apartment. Firemen said the building is owned by Harry Flamm, whose address is unknown.

Units from Central Station and the Wicks Company answered a call at 4:18 p. m. Sunday for a fire in the woods to the rear of 248 East Chester Street. Deputy Chief Buchholtz was in charge. The blaze was checked before it burned over a large area.

School Safety Patrol Honored

New York State's eight million motorists were urged today to lend a "helping hand" to the 55,000 members of the School Safety Patrol by driving with extra care near school crossings and playgrounds.

The advice was issued by the New York State Automobile Association to coinside with Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller proclamation of May 3 to 9 as School Safety Patrol Week throughout the state.

State AAA President George M. Frauenheim of Buffalo, noted that motorists have the direct responsibility to be watchful for youngsters as they cross the street on their way to and from school.

"The members of the School Safety Patrol," Frouenheim declared, "are on the job—rain or shine — throughout the school year to see that young boys and girls don't cross the street against traffic. If motorists heed the rules of safe driving, we can reduce accidents involving school children to the absolute minimum."

Official figures show that traffic deaths among children of school-age decreased 71 per cent last year as compared with 1926, the year before the patrols were organized in New York State. In that time, state-wide motor vehicle registrations increased by 210 per cent.

In proclaiming School Safety Patrol merits the highest recognition and praise."

Won't Rule on Pupils

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court refused today to rule if school boards must assign Negro and white pupils to schools in such a way as to avoid racial imbalance.

The ruling was asked by counsel for Negro children in Gary, Ind., where they said more than 97 per cent of the city's approximately 23,000 Negro students attend schools separate and apart from almost the entire white school population.

Such school systems, the counsel said in their appeal, "are no less segregated than those systems where separate Negro schools are mandated by state constitution or statute."

Rockets May Be Gone

WASHINGTON (AP)—The belief is current here that the Soviet Union may have pulled its ground-to-air rockets from Cuba, depriving Fidel Castro of the means to blast American planes from the skies over his island.

If true, there is less likelihood that the fiery dispute over surveillance flights will erupt in a clash of arms. A Soviet rocket withdrawal would go a long way toward explaining the Red prime minister's May Day assertion that Cuba is alone in her dispute with the United States.

Castro has conceded that his armed forces cannot shoot down the high-flying American planes without the Soviet rockets.

$22,372 Marked For Sewage Study

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Health Department today announced approval of grants totaling $22,372 for studies of sewerage needs in communities in Westchester and Ontario Counties.

Peekskill and the Town of Cortlandt in Westchester County were awarded $11,500 for a study of the McGregory Brook drainage basin.

An award of $10,872 was made to Clifton Springs and the towns of Manchester and Phelps in Ontario County for studies in their areas.

State Completes Check Of 4H County Units

Completion of the examination of fiscal affairs of four Ulster County districts was announced today by State Comptroller Arthur Levitt in Albany.

The county areas listed were: Town of Denning, Town of Hardenburgh, Shawangunk Valley Fire District, covering Shawangunk and Gardiner and the Woodstock Fire District, Town of Woodstock.

Copies of the examination reports have been sent to the clerk and other officials of the units of government examined. Since the reports are a part of the public record, they are available for review by interested citizens.

Autobiog Is Due By Top Literary Critic; Once a Red

GRAFTON, N.Y. (AP)—Granville Hicks, one of the nation's best known literary critics, says he has nearly completed his autobiography—the story of an intellectual's close involvement and subsequent disillusionment with the Communist party in the 1930s.

The book, he told a reporter recently, will not be "a poetic, evocative book with reminiscences of childhood. It will not be a chatty or gossipy book about the big shots I've met.

"I have tried to cover my whole life, how I think and how I got that way."

Hicks, 62, a columnist for the Saturday Review, was one of the major figures of leftist literary America in the 1930s. He wielded considerable influence as literary editor of The New Masses, the Communist weekly, from 1934 to 1939.

He has been working on his autobiography at his home in a remote part of Rensselaer County, near the Massachusetts state line.

He traces his relationship with communism back to the depression year of 1931. He saw the Marxist way as a solution to the staggering problems America faced. He joined the party in 1935 and stayed in it until 1939, when the Soviet Union signed its pact with Hitler's Nazy Germany.

In his early days as a Communist, he said, "I believed that society was more important than the individual, and I tended to judge writers on the basis of their ability to deal with social problems.

". . .When I left the party, I still thought of myself as a non-Communist Marxist. Then, within two or three years I got away from Marxism completely. It took me that long to catch up with myself intellectually and find a way of looking at life and literature that really satisfied me."

In the 1950s he became literary advisor to The New Leader, and in 1958, affiliated with the Saturday Review, for which he has been writing a weekly column ever since.

Hicks says he expects his life story will be published late this year or early in 1965.

Dear Abby . . .

Memos to Daughters-In-Law!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Mother's Day will soon be here and I wish you would say something in your column to remind "young marrieds" to remember their mothers-in-law, too. Even if it's only a card or a note. There were so many years when I should have remembered my mother-in-law, but I was too "busy."

This year I will send her a spray of flowers—to the cemetery—bitterly regretting that I failed to send her flowers while she was living. I should have appreciated her more, written her more about her grandchildren, whom she loved so much, and most of all I sould have let her know how much I had grown to love her. I hope others will not make the same mistake I made because next year may be too late. Abby, please sign my real initials so my father-in-law will know how I feel.

J. O. (Oceanside, Calif.)

DEAR ABBY: I was interested in your reply to "DIRTY OLD MAN'S WIFE." You said, "He's sick. Get him to a doctor." I've known for years that my husband is "sick." It is so humiliating to sit in a restaurant with him while he flirts with the waitresses, or any woman sitting nearby whose eye he happens to catch. And when he stares at the young girls from their feet up, and then down again, I want to run!

I meet my friends away from my home because they won't come by if they know he's there. I have many worthwhile interests, such as music, gardening, books and church work, but, oh, for a companion to grow old with!

Yes, I realize he's sick. But how do you get a man in his 60's to a doctor?

WISHFUL THINKING

DEAR WISHFUL: You can't call the men in the white coats and ask them to come and throw a net over him. But you can call your family doctor and tell him what you have told me. Together you can work out a scheme to get your husband to submit to a PHYSICAL examination. The mental examination can be subtly worked in without arousing suspicion. There IS help for your husband's illness (and it IS an illness)—and it's more common that you think.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: Just read about "Papa Joe," who was born in the old country and didn't know his birth date so he picked one himself. My husband was in the same boat and picked a day in November for his "birthday." When he took out citizenship papers, he wrote to his sister in the old country and asked her to send him his birth certificate. She sent not only his birth certificate but also the certificate of his baptism. That's when we found out he was really born in March, and according to the "birthday" he had been celebrating, he was baptized before he was born!

CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. "F.": The letter you sent me from your mother contained a treasury of good sense. You would be wise to implement her "three suggested rules" for disciplining your children. She loves you or she wouldn't have been so candid.

• • • •

Get it off your chest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif., 90212. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Report Awaited On Park Jam, One Girl Killed

BALTIMORE (AP) — Eight girls and three boys, most of them recuperating from surgery, remained hospitalized today while the mayor awaited a report on Saturday's traffic jam on an escalator at Memorial Stadium.

Thirty - five other children were hurt and one killed in the accident before an American League baseball game between the Baltimore Orioles and Cleveland Indians.

At least seven of the children were expected to remain in hospitals for at least a week. All 11 were reported in satisfactory condition.

The crowd at Sunday's game between the same two teams was asked to stand for "A moment of saddened reverence" for Annette Costantini, the 14-year-old girl found dead near the top of the moving stairway.

She was among nearly 20,000 members of the school safety patrols from throughout Maryland who were free guests of the Orioles.

A secured metal barrier at the top of the escalator channeled riders off the moving stairs into a 28-inch wide exit. Witnesses said the children were going up three and four abreast.

matter of fact

Sweet potatoes are propagated not by seeds, but by sprouts and cuttings. This is because, except in the tropics, the seeds produce plants totally unlike the parent plant. Tropical sweet potatoes do produce seeds, but with such hard coats that they sometimes take a year to germinate.

Integration Is Unsuccessful At Memphis Church

MEMPHIS (AP)—A Presbyterian minister joined a group of white and Negro students in an unsuccessful attempt to integrate Second Presbyterian Church Sunday.

Dr. Carl Prichett of Bethesda, Md., and a small group of college students left quietly after reading a statement and being turned back by ushers.

Tour South Africa

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — A company of American actors is making a tour of South Africa in the current Broadway comedy hit, "Never Too Late." The visiting troupe includes Roland Winters, Nancy Coleman, James Kirkwood Jr. and Nancy Donohue, and is being directed by Elaine Perry. The production following a run here plays Capetown and Durban.

Today's Business Mirror

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The first quarter of 1964 was notable for American business as far as profits were concerned.

This good news for stockholders poured in a steady stream from corporations' annual meetings, which were held by the hundreds in April.

Future Outlook Excellent

It emphasized that the country is enjoying unusually good times and that the outlook for the immediate future is excellent.

Outstanding among the reports was that of giant General Motors Corp., the No. 1 auto maker. Its first quarter profits were the greatest for a three-month period of any corporation in history.

In many cases increases in profits far outdistanced those in sales, indicating that cost-cutting procedures inaugurated when business was suffering from a profit squeeze have paid off.

For example, U.S. Steel Corp. reported a 72 per cent gain in first quarter profits over a year earlier on a sales gain of only 11 per cent. Continental Can Co.'s profit climbed 50 per cent on a sales gain of 7 per cent.

A Wall Street Journal tabulation of first quarter earnings reports of 548 companies showed their combined net income had advanced 21.1 per cent over a year earlier to $3.8 billion.

Two of three companies increased their profits and more than 50 reported record first quarter sales and earnings.

Only Two Dip

Of 33 classifications of industries, only two—tobacco and apparel—failed to equal their 1963 first quarter results.

Tobacco company profits were hurt by the reaction to the U.S. surgeon general's report that cigarette smoking causes lung cancer, but cigarette sales have made a comeback and the profit outlook is promising.

The airline and steel groups, which made relatively poor showings in the first three months of 1963, rang up the best gains.

Other Good Gains

Good gains also were posted by motors, chemicals, building materials and heavy machinery, office equipment, metals, pulp and paper, mining, petroleum and electronics.

Only 14 of the companies reported losses, compared with 32 in the 1963 first quarter.

In addition to sharp cost control, more efficient operations through automation and improved facilities are important factors in the brighter profit picture.

Another influence was the firming of prices in many lines which enabled management to offset increased labor costs.

The tax cut is yet to have any great influence of profits but will make itself felt in the balance of the year.

Ernie Davis Home For Wayward Boys Opens 11th

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state formally will open a home for wayward youths in Syracuse next Monday and name it in honor of the late Ernie Davis, an All-America football player at Syracuse University.

Davis, a resident of Elmira, died of leukemia last year. He won the Heisman Trophy in 1961, becoming the first Negro to win the award bestowed on the nation's top collegiate football player.

The State Youth Division announced plans today for opening of the facility, which will house 26 youths aged 15 through 17 who have run afoul of the law but have not been convicted of any crime.

The youths, referred by public and private agencies with their parents' consent, will live at the home but will attend school or work in the community.

The Youth Division chairman, Lawrence W. Pierce, who also is a Negro, said the agency decided to honor Davis "because of the ideal example he set for all youth with his courage, perseverance, initiative and decency."

Davis' mother, Mrs. Arthur Radford, will participate in the dedication ceremony.

The facility formerly was an apartment house. Similar homes have been opened by the division in New York City and Buffalo.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I'm a big girl," says Gina Lollobrigida. "After 15 years of marriage, I should be able to travel by myself."

The Italian beauty is here making a movie with Rock Hudson, "Strange Bedfellows." Her husband, Yugoslav-born Dr. Drago Milko Skofic, is in Rome attending to his publishing business. Their divergence started tongues to wag, especially since she has been getting a whirl of the Hollywood night spots with Glenn Ford.

Gina couldn't care less about such talk.

"What am I supposed to do—go out alone?" she asked. "That would be even worse. I wouldn't think of going out with other women. I see it done in this country, but women would never dine out together in Italy."

The thought of staying home in her luxurious Beverly Hills hacienda doesn't appeal to her, either. She has been taking lessons in such exotic dances as the Watusi for her field trips into the local night life. Rome was never like this, she says.

"I have never seen such wild people as in some of the night clubs in Hollywood," she said.

She also has attended frequent dinner parties in her honor. This is a compliment, she said, but also a hazard.

Gina's charm can get her through most situations, and her return to Hollywood is welcomed by her fellow workers. Her enthusiasm for working here might be surprising, in light of her previous experience.

Her first Hollywood film was "Never So Few," a lackluster venture epic with Frank Sinatra.

"I did it mainly to prove to Hollywood that I could work here in spite of Howard Hughes," she said. "I once signed an agreement with him, and he kept me from working in Hollywood for seven years without paying me a cent. Even after the contract was over, he made MGM pay him $50,000 to use me in 'Never So Few.' And later MGM paid him $75,000 so I could do 'Go Naked in the World.'"

Gina returned to make "The Lady L" with Tony Curtis. Both stars liked the script, but the new director, George Cukor, did not. Nine scripts and five months later, the project was shelved at a loss Gina reports at $2.5 million.

"I was paid for it — twice," she said, "but it was not good for me. I lost a whole year of work because I couldn't schedule other films. A year is too long to go without work."

GM Picketing Is Planned Today by Civil Rights Force

DETROIT (AP)—Civil rights demonstrators, protesting what one leader termed a lily white personnel policy by General Motors Corp., planned to picket GM national headquarters in midtown Detroit from noon to 6 p.m. today.

General Motors has denied it discriminates and has cited employment of nonwhites in practically every echelon of the world's largest corporation.

Arthur Johnson, spokesman for the Detroit chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the demonstration would be "part of a national effort to get GM to change its employment practices."

Herbert Hill, national labor secretary of the NAACP contends that "General Motors is lily white" from supervisory personnel up. GM says this isn't so; that it employs Negroes in supervisory, engineering and other positions.

Says He Took Boy Because of Cold And Lost Look

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP)—Police will decide today what to do with a lonely young dishwasher who said he picked up a 3-year-old boy in New York City because "he looked lost and cold."

The dishwasher, James Savage, 17, admitted picking up Timothy Hughes near the World's Fair Saturday and bringing him 25 miles by bus to his rented room in Woodbridge. The boy was found there Sunday, unharmed and apparently well cared for.

Savage, a runaway from a state school who has been in 25 foster homes, was held in Middlesex County juvenile detention quarters, booked on an open charge.

Timothy was back in Queens, N.Y., with his policeman father, Gerard, his mother, Lorraine, and brother, Richard, 7.

New York police had conducted a block-by-block search for the boy in the Flushing section of Queens, where he was last seen by his mother in a playground.

Savage said he spotted the boy outside the World's Fair, about eight blocks from the playground, at 5 p.m. Saturday.

"He looked lost and cold," Savage told police, "and I've been lost and cold myself."

He said he had tried to find the boy's parents.

LOYALTY DAY AT SAUGERTIES — Clear skies and balmy temperatures favored hundreds of Loyalty Day marchers in Saugerties Saturday afternoon. The annual event is sponsored by Saugerties Memorial Post 5034, VFW and Auxiliary. Many thousands of residents and visitors from all parts of the Hudson Valley lined the village streets to view the six-division parade. Only two slight incidents occurred during the march. A Catskill infant became separated from her family but was later found, and Centerville Fire Company vols were called out of the line of march to respond to a brush fire call in their district. The Saugerties High School band here provides cadence for the first division marching west on Main Street. Miss Connie Pettinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. $2,401,635.50 School Budget Hearing Tuesday

A hearing is scheduled Tuesday 7:30 p. m. at the high school auditorium on the $2,401,635.50 budget for Saugerties Central School District.

Although there is an increase of $240,868.91 in expenditures in the preliminary budget, it is expected that income from state aid and an increase in the total assessed valuation will reflect in a slight decrease in the basic tax rate.

However, school officials stressed that when final state aid figures and the total assessed valuation of the district are available, the basic rate could be slightly more or less depending on any changes in appropriations approved by the district taxpayers Tuesday night.

The estimated basic rate on the preliminary figures is $82.-884, based on $1,000 of assessed valuation. This is a decrease of $1.627 under last year's basic of $84.511.

Election of members of the Board of Education will be held Wednesday from noon to 9 p. m. at Main Street School.

The candidates are Henry Breitenbach of High Woods, incumbent running unopposed; Mrs. Carolyn C. France of Barclay Heights; Harry C. Hoffman of Churchland Road, and Mrs. Anna F. Karashay of Division Street, all running for the Steve Stycos vacancy, and Edwin Olsen of Katsbaan, incumbent running unopposed.

Investor Forum

RISK

There are thousands of people in the United States in their sixties and seventies who have never owned stocks and whose cash balances are large. Now with the Dow-Jones stock averages at an all-time high, they ask this colum for a list of common stocks to buy. It is dangerous to give such people advice.

Every common stock carries risk. A dozen economic and social forces can push prices down. Of course, these forces can put prices up also.

But elderly investors whose minds have become acclimated to fixed dollars can easily get disillusioned by buying common stocks and seeing them decline in price.

A New York City widow, for example, with $100,000 in banks earning 4¼ per cent, bought 200 shares of United States Steel at $50 a share. A friend told her to buy these as a hedge against inflation.

Within a few weeks the stock went below $40 a share. She became confused. She wished she had never taken a dollar out of the bank. She sold it right on the bottom, losing $2,100.

Persons unacquainted with risk, whose minds are accustomed to dollars in the banks where the quantity of money remains constant, had better be cautious in buying common stocks unless they can face squarely the risk involved.

This matter will become increasingly important in the future.

Another inexperienced investor withdrew $5,000 from a savings bank account and bought 10 shares of International Business Machine. He was 66 years old and all his life his mind had settled on dollars in the bank.

This IBM purchase was his first and when the stock tumbled to $300 a share, he lost his courage and sold it out right on the bottom of the market, losing almost $2,000.

And now, with the stock at $600 a share, he is fit to be tied.

Conservative people who are 60, 70, and 80 years of age, who have never owned a share of stock, should examine themselves carefully before taking 4 per cent bank money to buy stocks paying from 1 per cent to 3 per cent.

A question that might be asked is this: "How will I feel if the stock declines in price 10, 20, 30 per cent?"

If I were a broker or an investment banker, every year in my offices I would give a series of lectures on 'risk—its nature and its implications.'

In the decade ahead prospective stockholders should learn in some fashion about the three incidents of ownership that comprise the capitalistic system: (1) risk, (2) income, and (3) control.

Every time any investor buys a single share of stock he becomes involved in these three forces.

Unless he understands something about them, he should leave his money in a savings institution.

(A) Well, if you can afford to speculate further, buy 15 more shares. You will then have 25 shares costing $5,000 and when it goes to $200 a share, you can get your money back.

• BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There seems to be a lot of confusion among the committee that studied the Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament hands as to what South should rebid after North raised him from one spade to two.

Personally, I would bid four spades with the South hand. In any event, South had to reach four spades in order to get par.

From that point, it was up to East and West to set the contract. They were helped out by being given a directed trump opening.

Declarer would win the first trump in his own hand and second in dummy and was then directed to take a diamond finesse. West could either duck the first diamond or not. That would not affect his par. After he took his king it would be up to him to shift to a heart. Furthermore, the shift had to be one to separate the men from the boys. He should lead either the queen or nine of hearts.

This lead of a high heart would clearly tell partner that he did not want a heart return. A look at dummy would show East that there would be no point in a diamond return. East would lead a club and West would set the contract with two club tricks.

Of course, East might still return a club if his partner led the fourth best heart, but the lead of a high heart would have drawn a diagram.

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

RISE: Government sources report that federal tax revenue rose $1.5 billion to $24 billion during the first three months of 1964 even though the tax cut took effect March 1.

The $24-billion increase surpassed predictions by government economists, partly because the new lower tax rates went into effect a month after the Feb. 1 date on which the forecasts were based.

STAMP: The Post Office Department plans to begin national sale of the John F. Kennedy memorial stamp on May 29—the 47th anniversary of the late president's birth.

VIET NAM: The State Department's top expert on the Far East says he thinks U.S.-advised South Vietnamese forces have halted a downward trend in their war against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

"I would say that we certainly have arrested the downward trend that has been in effect, going back some time—and that it had leveled out," William P. Bundy said Sunday on ABC's radio-television program "Issues and Answers."

STROLL: President Johnson took newsmen on a 45-minute stroll around White House grounds Saturday, answering questions, greeting tourists and playing with his two beagles.

The President made five laps around the driveways on the south grounds. At one point he clapped his hands and the two beagles—Him and Her—dutifully appeared.

He lifted Her up by the head and body. Referring to the recent furore when he picked up Him and Her by the ears so they would stand and yelp, Johnson said that "when they yelp, it's not a sign of pain, it's a sign of joy."

Court Hears 34 Cases

At an equity term of Supreme Court held during April by Supreme Court Justice Lawrence H. Cooke, a total of 34 cases were disposed of, of which 11 were tried by the court. There was no jury in attendance at the term.

In addition to the disposition of equity cases, during his term in Ulster County Justice Cooke also heard a number of cases not on the calendar and issued several show cause orders.

The May trial term of Supreme Court opened today with two Parts, Part I is presided over by Justice William Deckelman and Part II by Justice Deforest C. Pitt. There is no Grand jury at the May term of Supreme Court.

New Non-Fiction Books at Library

New books of non-fiction covering a wide field of subjects of interest have been added to the Kingston City Library collection. Three books dealing with the Soviet Union make thought provoking reading.

Conquest Without War by Mager is Khrushchev's personal statement of the plans, policies, methods of action and objectives of the USSR in its desire to control the world. Facts, figures and definite plans of action are given.

Kellen's Khrushchev, a political Portrait is an excellent companion to the Magar study.

Soviet Space Science by Art Shernfeld, who outlines the role of Soviet science in the exploration of space.

America's past is recounted with fun and affection in the following books.

Vanishing Americana by Wilson is a pictoral review of high button shoes, player pianos, hitching posts and many other staples of the American scene of 100 years ago.

Burt's American Murder Ballads and their stories give the lyrics and music of many gory events from Lizzie Borden and her axe to Jesse James and the varmit who shot him in the back.

Stepchild in the Family is a new and important study of the stepchild by Simon. With the increase of divorce and remarriage, there are more than seven million stepchildren in America. The stepchild, how he feels, his relations with new parents and how society feels about him is discussed.

Other new titles of interest include;

Stories of Three Decades by Thomas Mann, the German author.

Requiem for the Living by poet C. Day Lewis.

Horses and Their Bosses by Ballentine talks about horse heroes in horse opera, horses as beer truck haulers, police horses, etc.

Shells of the New York City Area by Jacobson is a handy identification manual for the shell hunter in the lower Hudson area.

Goodbye to Uncle Tom by Furnas is a serious study of the American Negro and an attempt to dispel many myths about him. No judgments are made, that is left to the reader.

A Johnson Reader by McAdam is a collection of the wit of the 18th century English genius of letters.

Out of Noah's Ark by Herbert Wendt follows the discovery by man of the members of the animal kingdom both familiar and exotic.

The 1870's: A City and a Bank are born

The villages of Rondout and Kingston joined in 1872 to incorporate the new city of Kingston. An imposing City Hall (above) copied after the Palazzo Vecchio in Florence, Italy, was completed in 1873. The D. & H. Canal reached its peak of business early in the decade, when in 1872 nearly three million tons of anthracite coal were transported from the mines of Pennsylvania to the Hudson River, but the canal's end was foreshadowed with the coming later in this decade of the railroads. Kingston Savings Bank opened for business on June 29, 1874.

Banking in Ten Decades

This year Kingston Savings Bank marks its 90th anniversary. The bank has served the people of Kingston from the post-Civil War decade of the 1870's to the present exciting "Soaring Sixties." Watch this newspaper every Monday for additional information and rare photographs about life in Kingston in each succeeding decade. See the interesting historical exhibits in the Kingston Savings Bank lobby.

Two Are Injured In Stone Ridge Accident Today

Two persons were injured this morning in a three-car accident in Stone Ridge in front of the Marbletown Reformed Church. Both were taken to Benedictine Hospital by the George J. Moylan Ambulance of Rosendale.

At 8:35 a. m. as Gilbert Turner, 58, of Wawarsing stopped the southbound bus he was operating to allow a passenger to alight at the church a car operated by Dr. Harold Luscombe, 59, of Beckley, W. Va., stopped. Behind the Luscombe car was a pickup truck operated by Deroy Miller of Stone Ridge. Miller was unable to stop and collided with the West Virginia car. It in turn struck the bus.

State Trooper Fred Cooper of the Lake Katrine Station investigated and reported Miller suffered lacerations of the mouth, lips and gums. Marjorie Luscombe, 59, wife of the operator of the Luscombe car received back injuries.

Miller was issued a summons for following a vehicle too close. He will have a hearing later before Justice of the Peace Scarpati of Town of Marbletown.

Business Groups

the Common Council Chamber of the City Hall.

The Urban Renewal Committee of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce has been contacting many groups throughout the city to ascertain stands on the Urban Renewal program with specific reference now to the Broadway-East project. Thus far every organization contacted favors the project.

Under date of March 28, 1964, Richard M. Kalish, chairman of the Chamber's Urban Renewal Committee, received a letter from Marvin I. Millens, secretary of the Rondout Area Businessmen's Association, stating that this association at a recent meeting approved the following resolution: "Resolved that the Rondout Area Businessmen's Association go on record as strongly favoring the Broadway-East Urban Renewal Project." Similar actions were taken by the Central Businessmen's Association and the Uptown business group.

Tariff Cut

bring this meeting, and the meetings which will follow, to a happy and fruitful conclusion."

Hard bargaining on tariff cuts cannot begin before Sept. 10, authoritative sources said. That is the date when 75 of the nations have tentatively agreed to submit their lists of exceptions —goods and products which they refuse to submit to blanket tariff cuts.

Herter's U.S. delegation has congressional authorization to seek across-the-board tariff cuts of 50 per cent.

The United States is probably will consider itself fortunate to win tariff cuts of 30 to 40 per cent, informants said.

In a brief opening speech, Herter complained that the long preliminary talks have made little progress in dealing with farm products, considered essential to the negotiations by Washington. Nor, he said, has anyone come to grips with other barriers to international trade.

"It is now our joint responsibility," he said, "to move ahead more rapidly and successfully than in the past to fill the remaining gaps. The longer the rules are left open, the longer we procrastinate in setting the formulas by which these negotiations will proceed, the more we risk the success of the entire trade negotiations."

Fulbright Going

had asked Fulbright to "express to the Greek and Turkish governments the continuing interest and concern of both the President and Congress with the disturbing situation on Cyprus."

The announcement said that the Arkansas Democrat will not carry any suggestion regarding the ultimate settlement of the Cyprus question because this "must await the proposals of the U.N. mediator."

Rather, the White House said, Fulbright "will convey the sense of urgency felt in the United States regarding the need for the restoration of order on the island, and will report to the President his impressions as to the views of the Greek and Turkish governments."

The Cyprus problem is in the hands of the United Nations.

Auto Hits Deer

While Herbert Levine of Ellenville was proceeding west on Route 52 between Woodbourne and Ellenville Sunday his car struck a deer in the east bound lane. He escaped injury.

Fire Destroys Brown's Station Barn and Shed

Olive Fire Department companies battled a fire after 9:30 p. m. Saturday that destroyed a frame barn and shed on the Carranusa property on Beaverkill Road, Brown's Station.

Fire Chief Albert Fox said Joseph Carranusa looked from a window at his home and saw a light near the barn. He investigated and found the buildings in flames. West Hurley Fire Company received the call reporting the blaze and relayed it to Olive Fire Department.

Olive Bridge, Ashokan and Boiceville companies responded with four trucks and on arrival found the buildings engulfed in flames. Fire fighters pumped water 800 feet from a nearby creek.

On Sunday from 11 a. m. to 4 p. m. Ashokan, West Shokan and Boiceville firemen patrolled the Beachford Farms at Boiceville to protect buildings while lumber from old structures that are being cleared from the farm, were burned.

Chief Fox said three trucks were at the scene in case burning embers or sparks ignited nearby buildings.

Set Radiological Monitoring Class Starting Tuesday

Major H. Edgar Timmerman, director of Civil Defense of Ulster County has announced that a 16 hour radiological monitoring course will be offered Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Municipal Auditorium, 476 Broadway.

The training will include nuclear weapons effects, instrumentation, monitoring techniques, protective measures, dose rate calculations, and radiation exposure guidance. Depending upon the number of interested persons, meetings will be held on Tuesday nights and possibly repeated on Thursdays.

The latest radiological films and instruments will be shown during the course which will continue to mid-June.

Instructors will be Morris Nussbaum and John Schermerhorn, co-chiefs of the Ulster County CD Radiological Service, who have had a number of federal CD courses. Schermerhorn has just completed a third officers course at Eastern Instructor Training Center, Brooklyn, with emphasis on protective measures and decontamination following nuclear attack.

Further information on this course may be obtained by phoning the Civil Defense office.

Faces Traffic Charge

Vincent Simone, Highland, a truck driver, was scheduled to appear tonight before Town of Poughkeepsie Justice of the Peace Donald Holden. Police Chief Vincent Smith said a tractor-trailer, driven by Simone knocked down an overhead traffic signal at Fulton Street and Cedar Avenue in the Fairview section of the town last Friday. Simone was charged with leaving the scene of an accident, the chief said.

Destroyer and

Philippines said he had just crossed the street and had stopped to light a cigarette when, "Boom, the first thing I knew I was on the ground."

The four men are attached to a helicopter company at Soctrang, in the Communist-infested Mekong delta. They were on their first weekend leave in Saigon.

Eight Wounded

In all, eight Americans were wounded in the terrorist attack. The four still hospitalized suffered multiple shrapnel wounds but were reported in good condition.

Saigon has had hundreds of terrorist attacks in the past 10 years. The Communists are expected to step up such attacks during May, which contains several Communist and Vietnamese holidays.

Viet Cong propaganda was expected to exploit the disabling of the U.S. aircraft ferry ship Card as a David and Goliath victory against the United States.

Communist saboteurs fixed an explosive charge to the side of the ship Saturday as it was moored alongside the dock in the Saigon river and blew a hole in the side. The ship settled to the muddy river bottom. Repairs are under way and plans are being made to raise her.

name was not on the ballot, was a distant second.

The popularity poll, not binding on the 56 Texas GOP delegates to be chosen next month, was held in conjunction with primaries for state and national offices in both parties.

Gov. John M. Connally and Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough won Democratic nominations in their bids for new terms. George Bush and Jack Cox led in the GOP Senate primary and will fight it out in a runoff election June 6.

In other weekend activity, Goldwater picked up eight more delegates in Georgia, Missouri and Tennessee. Maine Republicans pledged their 14 first-ballot votes to Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, a favorite daughter.

To Probe . . .

He did not elaborate either.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market recovery continued early this afternoon in fairly active trading.

Gains of fractions to a point among key stocks outnumbered losers.

An assortment of specially-situated issues did considerably better than most others. At the same time, the number of small losers seemed to increase as trading wore on.

Big Three motors, airlines, chemicals, rails, coppers, electronics and aerospace issues showed a generally higher trend.

Steels and building materials were mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.0 at 304.1 with industrials up 1.7, rails up .5 and utilities up .2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 4.34 at 821.44.

Mack Trucks held a gain of about 3 points. Chrysler was up a point.

Texas Gulf Sulphur rose 1⅝ but in later dealings it trimmed the gain to a small fraction.

Northwest Airlines was up more than 5 points. Other airlines were mostly higher.

IBM gained 2. Up about a point were International Telephone, Polaroid, U.S. Smelting and Sears Roebuck.

Prices were higher on the American Stock Exchange.

7 Are Hurt

fendant is under $100 bail. Officer Oscar Gray investigated the mishap.

Two persons were injured at 2:40 a. m. Sunday when a car making a left turn from Smith Avenue into Prince Street, struck a tree.

Truck Too High

Ronald Berger, 20 of 9 Appletree Drive, Saugerties, driver, and William Reid, 19, of 63 Orchard Street, both suffered face, head, leg and chest injuries, and were reported in satisfactory condition today at Kingston Hospital. Officers John Crespino and Anthony Turck investigated.

Robert Longendyke, 26, of Ulster Avenue, Ulster Park, driving a van owned by the Port Ewen Garage, told police he didn't realize that the truck was too high to clear the East Union Street railroad bridge Sunday. It was forced back when it struck the bridge and his car owned by Longendyke, and driven by Barbara Longendyke, of the same address, police said.

Donald Gunzelmann, 21, of 18 Elmendorf Street, who rode in the truck, reported a head injury. Officer Oscar Gray investigated.

Panel Is Damaged

Eunice Knox, 51, of 29 East Union Street, reported a leg injury after a mishap reported at 2:40 a. m. Sunday at Broadway and Ferry Street. Police said the car was headed down Broadway when it came in contact with a building and damaged a door panel. Officers Weston Hoffay and Raymond Wells investigated. The report did not note which building was hit, but the former Cornell building, now owned by the County of Ulster, has a damaged door panel.

A police report at 5:55 a. m. today said Thomas Greco, 42, of 71 Brewster Street, reported swerving to avoid a dog on Pearl Street, and struck a Central Hudson utility pole. He suffered injuries of the right hand, nose and chest and was reported in fair condition at Kingston Hospital later today.

Operated Indecent Show at Carnival

Kingston State Police arrested a man and a woman Saturday night in connection with an alleged sideshow at a carnival playing off Route 9W in the Town of Ulster.

Sergeant Henry S. Rhodes said BCI Investigator L. M. Luongo and Trooper Norman Kilfoyle booked Delilah Allen, 38, of 818 Camp Street, New Orleans, on a charge of indecent exposure. They also arrested the show manager, George Peter Hennen, 24, of Southfield, Mich., on a charge of operating an indecent show.

Both pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Robert Stedge, Town of Ulster, and paid fines of $25 each. Earlier last week troopers arrested three other sideshow entertainers on similar charges.

Two Bicycles Stolen

Police were notified Sunday of an apparent burglary attempt and of the theft of two bicycles. A report at 11:08 a. m. said an attempt had been made to enter the R. E. Wetzel gas station 701 Broadway where a window was found broken. Two afternoon reports noted thefts of bicycles owned by William Ralff, of 167 O'Neil Street, and Dietrich Raucher, of 112 West Pierpont Street. The latter was reported taken from that address Saturday night.

Road Death

County's fifth highway fatality this year.

Dutchess county chalked up its 18th highway fatality of 1964 on Saturday, after nine-year-old John Wendover Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wendover, Lithgow, was injured fatally when hit by a car on Route 44 near Lithgow.

Millbrook State Police said the accident occurred near the Roselawn farm owned by H. Curtis Place. The boy's father was employed on the farm.

Troopers said the car, operated by Frederick Balfe, 18, of 18 Park Place, Newburgh, was traveling east on Dutchess Turnpike when the accident occurred. The boy, troopers said, was walking along the highway with his aunt, Margaret Wendover, 24, and other relatives, when the car hit the boy.

Died in Hospital

Authorities reported the boy was taken to Vassar Hospital, where he died about three hours after being admitted. Death was due to a brain injury.

The 18th highway fatality in Dutchess County last year occurred on Oct. 13 when a four-lear-old girl was hit by a car in front of her Red Hook home. The 1963 toll in the county was 30.

An Orange County woman was killed and another was seriously injured Sunday, when they were struck by a car as they walked along Route 52 near Walden. Authorities identified the victim as Mrs. Elsie Debates, 37, of Walden.

Her friend, Mrs. Mary Reed, 62, also of Walden, was taken to Horton Memorial Hospital, Middletown. She suffered a possible fractured hip and other injuries.

Driver Not Held

Troopers released the driver of the vehicle, Abraham Berkowitz, of Lakeview Park, Montgomery. No charges were made. Authorities reported the women were walking in the same direction the car was going when they were hit near the crest of a hill.

The Associated Press in its weekend roundup reported the dead included six persons who were drowned, two persons perished in fires and 10 others died in other types of mishaps.

At Lakeport, John Rock, 25, of Syracuse, was drowned Saturday when he leaped into Oneida Lake in an effort to rescue a fishing companion who had fallen from a boat. Rock's companion reached safety.

Charles Anzalone, 21, of Jamestown, was believed drowned in Lake Chautauqua Saturday night in a fall from a homemade racing boat.

Fell Into Creek

At Fredonia, Ronald C. Elliott, 6, Fredonia, was drowned Saturday when he fell into a creek near his home.

A boat overturned Saturday on Warner's Lake in Berne, and Anthony DiToro, 12, of Schenectady, was drowned.

The oldest drowning victim of the weekend was Charles Humphrey, 89, who lost his life Saturday in the St. Lawrence River near Cape Vincent.

At Malone, Floyd M. Johnson, 36, was drowned in the Salmon River while fishing Saturday.

Infant Struck by Car

One of the traffic deaths involved a mother and daughter. Theresa Hameline, 5, was struck by a car driven by her mother near the family's Syracuse home Saturday.

Other deaths included:

Keene Valley — Ronald Benwell, 25, Sterling, Cayuga County, car overturned early Sunday north of Keene Valley.

Albany—Miss Frances Kaleski, 47, Albany, fire Sunday in her apartment building.

Alexandria Bay — Robert E. Knotowicz, 18, Rochester, thrown from a pickup truck that hit a culvert Sunday.

Whitehall — George Sumner, 38, Hudson Falls, motorcycle, overturned Saturday night.

Cars Sideswipe

The operators of two cars escaped injury at 6:30 p. m. Sunday when the cars of Margaret McDole of Napanoch and Edward Freeman of Ellenville sideswiped on Route 55 at Napanoch. State Police reported the Freeman car was passing the McDole car when they sideswiped.

Why Ethical Drug Stocks Have Fallen Out of Favor

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "In my portfolio, I have 200 shares of Charles Pfizer. These show a nice appreciation as of this date. I have noticed that the stock has acted poorly in recent months. Do you believe I should hold or sell this stock?" — H. A.

A) I am very glad that you show a profit, because I'm going to advise you to sell.

Pfizer is an excellent ethical drug company, but the ethical group as a whole has fallen out of favor and may remain so for a considerable time. I believe the reasons are 1) an increased cost for research, and 2) the drug legislation passed in 1962 which empowered the FDA to demand proof of the effectiveness as well as the safety of proposed new drugs. The expense involved in obtaining approval has been stepped up, and the approval route has slowed down to a trickle.

I suggest that you switch to fast-growing Bristol-Myers, which is mainly involved in toiletries and proprietary medicine.

Q) "I know nothing of stocks, was in business until two years ago, and am now retired. I have two houses worth over $150,000 all paid for; $80,000 in cash; and $350 monthly income. I would like to buy some stocks, and would appreciate your opinion of these: Corn Products, General Foods, Ford Motors, General Electric, Sears, Roebuck; Jersey Standard, Pacific Gas & Electric, Proctor & Gamble, Chrysler and Campbell Soup."—M. R.

A) For someone who knows nothing about stocks, you have put together an extremely good list. I heartily approve of your entire group, with only one exception.

I believe it would be a mistake to buy into each of the Big Three motor stocks. These shares tend to move together, and while there is growth here there is always the possibility of wide variation in new car demand.

I would buy General Motors only. In place of the other two, I would substitute Monsanto Chemical and Safeway Stores.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all question possible in his column. (Copyright 1964, General Features Corp.)

Patricia Faerber, Charles H. Whitaker Exchange Vows at Old Dutch Church Here

MR AND MRS. CHARLES H. WHITAKER
(Pennington photo)

Miss Patricia Lynn Faerber, daughter of Mrs. Bernice Faerber of 149 Clinton Avenue, this city, wed Charles H. Whitaker, son of Mrs. Margaret Whitaker of Rogers Street, Ulster Park, and the late Harry Whitaker, on April 26, 1964, at 2 p. m. in the Old Dutch Church, also this city.

Officiating was the Rev. Arthur Oudemool.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother Frederick G. Faerber, 3rd. She wore a white gown of imported silk faced peau taffeta fashioned with a circlet neckline, fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves and a controlled bell skirt. Alencon lace trimmed the neckline and sleeves and rhinestones accented the lace on the mid-bodice. The skirt featured deep pleats set in the waistline and a self-bow in back. Her veil of four tiered English silk illusion was held by a crown of seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a nosegay of white roses, carnations and stephanotis.

Miss Nancy Topp of 192 Foxhall Avenue, this city, was the maid of honor. She wore a lace gown of white over pastel pink taffeta. It was styled with a scooped neckline, three quarter length sleeves, molded bodice and belled skirt. A matching hat held a flirtation veil. She carried a nosegay of medium pink carnations, roses and daisies.

Michael O'Donell of Bloomington was best man and ushering were Jay Van Loan and John McGinnis of Port Ewen.

A reception for 50 guests was given at the home of the bride. A buffet luncheon was served.

The bride was graduated from Kingston High School and is employed by the Smith Avenue Storage Warehouse Moving Company in Kingston. Her husband is an alumnus of Kingston High School and is employed by the Board of Education in the Hurley School. He served with the U. S. Army and is a member of the U. S. Army Reserves.

When Mr. and Mrs. Whitaker return from their trip to Canada, they will make their home on Rogers Street in Ulster Park.

A VERY SIMPLE WEDDING RECEPTION

Q: My daughter is going to be married next week and after the ceremony we would like our many friends to go down into the social hall of the church for a piece of wedding cake and a glass of punch. However, I do not want to make any mention of a reception on the invitations as people might come expecting a good deal, and also I don't want them to feel that they have to bring a present. Have you any suggestions as to how this might be handled?

A: It could be handled by the ushers stationed at the back of the church. They would announce to all the guests as they leave, "The bride and groom are receiving in the social hall downstairs."

Addressing Letters to Company Officers

Q: When addressing a letter to a person carrying a title in connection with his firm, do you drop the title Mr. before his name? In other words, do you address a letter:

Mr. John Smith, President
Hammer Manufacturing Company
address

or to you address it to John Smith, President, etc.? I know you omit the title Dr. when using M.D. after a man's name, but what about such titles as President, Treasurer, etc.?

A: Doctor and M.D., mean the same thing, therefore you use one or the other, but not both. When addressing the president or treasurer of a company, you address him as Mr. John Smith, followed by his title.

A Letter of Introduction

Q: I received a letter of introduction in today's mail from a friend introducing a friend of hers who is coming here to this city to live. Will you please tell me what my obligations are?

A: You should write a note or telephone her after she arrives in your city and invite her to a meal or to tea. After meeting her you do whatever you can to help establish herself in your city.

Appreciates Help

Editor, The Freeman:-

This is to express our sincere appreciation to The Kingston Freeman for the support given New York Catholic Charities 1964 Fund Appeal. Your contribution was an important one in helping us make known the accomplishments and goals of Catholic Charities and its diversified welfare services to needy men, women and children.

Catholic Charities has been conducting these annual appeals since its inception 45 years ago and they are its major source of income. It is essential, therefore, that we let the thousands of persons who support the appeals every year, know what their generosity has accomplished and the fact that only five cents of every contributed dollar is used for administrative purposes.

Your valuable help in bringing this information to public attention is responsible, in good part, for the success of our fund appeals and we are deeply grateful.

Sincerely,
RT. REV. MSGR.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

'You're Not My Real Mother'

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: My husband's 12-year-old girl by his ex-wife spends part of her school vacations with us. Frankly, I dread these visits. Another is due this June and I would appreciate any advice you can offer that will get us through it without real trouble. She can't stand my asking her to do things. But I have to ask her to do something occasionally like taking her laundry out of the bathroom basin. Then what I get is, "You're not my real mother. Why should I? . . ."

Answer: Of course you're not her real mother. But what has that got to do with your right to ask her to consider your wishes?

Children are obliged to consider the wishes of many adults who are not their "real" mothers—teachers, policemen, camp counselors, the parents of friends. So your stepdaughter's excuse for refusing to consider your wishes makes no sense in terms of reasonable protest.

But it seems to carry great weight with you.

Why? Why are you compelled to retreat from a position by this child's reminder that you are not her "real" mother? Is the fact that she has a real mother, one whom you want to forget? Is the fact that your husband has loved another woman still so painful to you that you can't stand being reminded of her realness by their child?

Perhaps it is not the discipline of this challenging child which has been making the trouble.

Perhaps the actual troublemaker has been your own refusal to come to terms with your husband's previous marriage—your resistance to the "realness" of the sexual relationship that once existed between him and his ex-wife.

Had you accepted her past realness to him, their child's reminder of it would present you with no problem. Instead of letting it hurt you so that it drives you into retreat, you would turn on her challenging reminder and say:

"Of course I'm not your real mother! Let's get this straight between us once and for all. I am your stepmother. How could I possibly be your real mother when you already have one? What kind of nonsense talk is this—and what's it got to do with taking your laundry out of this bathroom basin? Please take it out and I'll get you a pan if you want to soak it some more before rinsing it . . ."

I think that you somehow feel you should have been able to possess all your husband's past love as well as his present love. You could not, so it would be something of a relief, I think, to face this limit to your powers.

Blame Weld Break For Failure of Motor on Rocket

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—A break in a weld joint apparently caused the malfunction which destroyed a giant solid-fuel rocket motor and marred the dedication of a new test facility here, an Air Force spokesman reports.

The motor, a 250-ton, million-pound-thrust device, destroyed itself in a pillar of smoke and flame Saturday. It was fired as the Air Force Space Systems Division dedicated a new test-firing stand as tall as a nine-story building.

The 75-foot power plant is designed as a booster for the Titan 3C launch vehicle to be used in a manned space exploration program. Three similar motors have been test - fired successfully.

Krueger-Leonard Double Ring Rites Held At Fort Myer Army Chapel, Arlington, Va.

Miss Mary Ann Leonard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Leonard of McLean, Va., exchanged nuptial vows with Lt. Don E. Krueger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Krueger of 14 Madison Avenue Saturday, April 4 at 2 p. m. at Fort Myer Chapel, Arlington, Va.

Lt. Col. Thomas McGrath, chaplain of the United States Army, performed the double ring ceremony and traditional organ music was played. Baskets of white chysanthemums and gladioli decorated the chapel.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white silk organza fashioned with a scooped neckline, bell sleeves and lace encircling the waistline. The same delicate lace sprays were scattered on the sheath skirt and the detachable chapel length train of silk organza. A cluster of flowers held the fingertip length veil and she carried a cascade of white roses and lily of the valley.

Miss Catherine Ann Leonard, sister of the bride was maid of honor and Miss Barbara Ann Fagan, Alington, Va. was bridesmaid. Both attendants wore yellow silk organza floor length sheath gowns styled similar to the bride's gown. Their headpieces were yellow bows with short veils and they carried colonial bouquets of spring flowers.

Lt. Edward A. Brown III of Springfield, Va. served as best man for the bridegroom. Bentley Jenson of Kingston and Robert Leonard, brother of the bride, ushered.

Approximately 80 guests were received at a reception given at Arlington Hall Officers Club. Afterwards the couple left on a wedding trip to Seattle, Wash., where the bridegroom is serving with the 4th Engineering Battalion at Fort Lewis, Wash.

The bride is a graduate of Virginia schools and St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing, Baltimore, Md. She was on the staff of Northern Virginia Doctors Hospital.

The bridegroom graduated from Kingston High School Norwich University and is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY, MARY MARGARET!

Today is the 30th anniversary of Mary Margaret McBride's radio debut. In addition to all the telegrams and messages she will receive during the course of this day from world leaders, outstanding television and radio stars and countless other celebrities, we wish to add our own congratulatory wishes.

A former newspaperwoman, who left that profession when the stock market crash came in 1929, Mary Margaret's voice has invaded every home throughout her years as a radio and TV personality.

A lady of great dignity and charm, Mary Margaret has a heart which would embrace the entire world. Her personal appeal and genuine interest in people has won for her the respect of all.

West Shokan was to have been her place of retirement after years of activity in the world of communication but she still applies her folksy touch to the air waves for the benefit of the Hudson Valley.

Mary Margaret McBride

This outstanding woman, whom I am priviliged and honored to call my friend, once confessed to having been in love but that she gave up the idea of marriage in favor of her career. And what a career it has been!

Born on a farm near Paris, Mo., on November 16, 1899, Mary Margaret had a cultural background. One grandfather was a minister and the other was a Latin and Greek scholar. Both had ambitions for this only girl in the family. But Mary Margaret wanted to be a writer.

After attending a one-room school house for a time, she went to a boarding school endowed by her great aunt, who wanted her to become a teacher and head the school.

In 1916 she enrolled at the University of Missouri with her great aunt's aid. But when she told her aunt she was majoring in journalism and planned to be a writer instead of a teacher, the relative withdrew her financial support.

A Hard Worker

Mary Margaret, feeling that a writer required a college education, got a $10 a week job on a paper in Columbia, Mo., and continued her studies. She was graduated in two and a half years having attended summer school for two summers in addition to the regular sessions.

Her newspaper career took her to the Mexico Ledger, The Cleveland Press, a job as publicity agent for a church group in New York City, a reporter's post on the New York Evening Mail and a free-lance magazine writer. She also served as editor of the woman's page for the Newspaper Enterprise Association.

It was while working in New York City with the church group that Mary Margaret met the dynamic Stella Karn who years later became her manager.

When Mary Margaret entered the field of radio during the depression years her career sky-rocketed to dizzy heights.

Along the path of those famous years she paused long enough to interview at least 30,000 persons; have the State of Missouri proclaim September 22 as Mary Margaret McBride Day; have a rose named in her honor; to be voted the most popular woman of the air by the Woman's National Radio Committee; and win an Oscar from a National Radio and Screen magazine.

She has been honored by the Women's National Press Club, the Newspaper Woman's Club of New York and our own Kingston Newspaper Guild.

Mary Margaret was even decorated by King Haakan of Norway for her broadcasting during the war. She received the Distinguished Honor Award from the Haitian Government and a special medallion of honor from the Government of the Virgin Islands.

An author as well, Mary Margaret's most recent book is "Radio Years" in which she mentions the writer of this column and other residents in the Hudson Valley.

Happiness seems to be the one ingredient in life with which Mary Margaret is most concerned. It isn't ususual to hear her ask of her guest: " . . . are you happy?" Even in the face of tragedy Mary Margaret has always felt a person should train herself to recognize moments of happiness she may have had. "It can serve as a pillar of strength," she once said to me.

Today I leave all the accolades to the celebrities and wish for Mary Margaret on her anniversary, happiness, peace and serenity so that she may enjoy the vast wealth of friendships harvested through the years.

Phyllis W. Barlow, county home demonstration agent, submits the following article on freezing eggs:

Did you that you could freeze eggs? When eggs are plentiful you may wish to buy in quantity. It is quite easy to freeze eggs and what's more you can pack them in separate containers that hold just the right amount for your favorite recipes. Generally small and medium eggs are plentiful in the fall and are more economical than large eggs. In the spring large eggs are generally plentiful and may cost less than smaller sizes on the basis of the cost of a pound of eggs. Compare prices. By rule of thumb, less than an 8 cent spread between sizes tells you that it is more economical to buy the larger size egg.

The Cornell specialists warn you to freeze only very fresh eggs. Then break each egg into a small dish, smell it to make sure there is no stale odor and pour one by one into a mixing bowl.

You can freeze white and yolks together or separately. Neither the white nor the mixture of whites and yolks needs any pre-treatment. If you freeze egg yolks alone, you have to mix them lightly and treat them or they will get lump during storage.

But the treatment is simple. Just mix 1 or 2 tablespoons of light-colored corn syrup or sugar with 2 cups of egg yolks. Or, you can use a teaspoon of salt for each cup of yolks.

Pack them in individual, air tight containers holding just enough for a particular recipe. A simple way to measure is to mix each egg separately and put in a cube division of an ice cube tray. Freeze and then pack in a carton or plastic bag or wrap individually. Be sure to label the containers though because when the time comes to adjust the recipe you use, you will want to know whether the eggs contain syrup, sugar or salt.

Rakov Opposes Political Use Of OCS Schools

Peter W. Rakov of Woodstock has submitted the following letter which gives several reasons why he urges defeat of a proposed proposition to make Onteora Central Schools buildings available to political parties for meetings.

In summarizing his arguments against the proposal, Rakov said: "I can sympathize with any political party which cannot find comfortable, spacious meeting facilities. However, I am convinced that this problem is minor compared to the multitude which would be created by forcing the Board of Education to provide its solution."

The statement follows:

On Wednesday, citizens of the Onteora School District will elect three people to the Board of Education and vote on two Propositions. One of these propositions is "Shall the Onteora School District buildings be used for political meetiings?" This is a dangerous Proposition. In my judgment, and that of people from all walks of life and political parties with whom I have discussed the subject, the proposition should be defeated.

"Loaded" Questions

Taxpayers should not place their Board of Education in a position where it must decide between political parties. What, indeed, is a "political party"? What is a "political meeting"? These are "loaded" questions the Board would have to satisfactorily answer in ruling on requests for use of school facilities. Once past these hurdles, doubtlessly to the dissatisfaction of many, requests from such groups to use school facilities for partisan meetings will unavoidably conflict occasionally. Thus, taxpayers would have their Board of Education to make a decision which would favor one party, or involve the Board in a damaging embroglio with all political parties.

Either situation would seriously weaken the Board's effectiveness in achieving their avowed goal — to serve the best interests of all people in the District by providing the best educational system as economically as possible. Getting involved in partisan politics not only has no place in this process, but deals a crippling blow to the Board's ability to work effectively with and for all people.

The proposed budget, which will also be voted on Wednesday, shows that $144,000 in tax money will be spent for light, power, fuel and the salaries of custodians. As a second reason for voting against the proposition, no portion of the citizen's tax dollar should be spent in supporting partisan politics by supplying any party with meeting facilities free of charge. Citizens pay school taxes to educate people, not to provide comfortable meeting facilities for meetings of partisan political groups.

Thirdly, any activity which takes place in a school facility should, by definition, be open to all taxpayers, regardless of their political affiliation. Political parties, being highly partisan and competitive, frequently discourage or prohibit non-members from attending their meetings. Thus, a taxpayer with no enrolled party affiliation or of Party B, C or D could not attend the meeting of Party A in a school facility, even though his dollars were paying for the electricity and heat consumed while Party A's meeting was in progress!

Fourthly, there are several townships in the Onteora School District. I find it impossible to satisfactorily answer why, for instance, all taxpayers in Olive, Hurley and Shandaken should be asked to help provide free meeting facilities for Political Party A in Woodstock.

I can sympathize with any political party which cannot find comfortable, spacious meeting facilities. However, I am convinced that this problem is minor compared to the multitude which would be created by forcing the Board of Education to provide its solution. Keep politics off our Board of Education's agenda. Vote against Proposition 2 on Wednesday!

Plan Services On Friday for Wendell Jones

A memorial service will be held at 2 p. m. Friday, May 8, in the Artists' Cemetery in Woodstock for Wendell Grant Jones, 21, who died last Wednesday in an automobile accident. The Rev. Lloyd H. Uyeki, rector of St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, will conduct the simple graveside rites.

The death of Mr. Jones—Wendy—a gifted young man with a "very special capacity for life," as one of his schoolmates put it, has shocked and grieved his many friends.

Wendell was killed instantly when the car in which he was driving alone went out of control and crashed in a field off Route 2 in Marshfield, Vermont. The village is near Montpelier ,not far from Goddard College which he had entered early in March.

The tall, sandy-haired, dynamic youth—who resembled his artist-father, the late Wendell Jones—had taken two years off from his education to start a promising career in the related fields of film making and newspaper work.

Joined Tribune

He had graduated from the Woodstock Country School in South Woodstock, Vt., in 1961, and had completed a semester at Columbia University. He left there to join the New York Herald Tribune staff as an editorial assistant, the first step in the newspaper profession. But the visual reporting of the contemporary scene began to intrigue him. He began studying film production at the New School in New York.

In Newspaper Field

Then in February of last year, Wendell went to the Brooklyn Daily Eagle to take on a variety of responsibilities. Working nights, he was an all-around assistant in the news room. He wrote the routine obituaries and graduated to reporting and writing byline stories that ordinarily are done by experienced newsmen.

The Eagle ceased publication in the summer, and Wendell returned to his Woodstock home to start a serious film production effort. His subject was the Hudson River. He spent the winter shooting the documentary, mostly around Rondout and Kingston, and doing research in the area's history.

He had taken 3,000 feet of the 16 millimeter film when he decided to finish his education at Goddard. The completion of the film will be undertaken by his friends and his older brother, Peter, as something he would have wanted. The broader projects Wendell had mapped with his rare enthusiasm — to help the peoples of the world — must fall to others he inspired.

Dozens of letters have come and are still pouring in to his mother, Mrs. Jane Hays Jones, and his brother, from his contemporaries and others of all ages who knew him or worked with him. One young friend mourned that "he should be taken from us, who needed Wendy and loved him." Royce S. Pitkin, president of his college, wrote: "The Goddard community and the world are poorer because of Wendell's death."

He had attended the West Hurley school, the Arlington District School in Poughkeepsie —where his father was an assistant professor of art at Vassar College — a school in Switzerland and Collegiate School in New York.

The family prefers that those wishing to send flowers should contribute instead to the newly-organized library of the Woodstock Country School in Vermont, which Wendy himself had hoped to help.

Sport Club Boosters Edge Albany, 2-0

Locals Move Closer to 4th Straight Title

Kingston Sport Club blanked a stubborn Albany Sports Club squad, 2-0, Sunday at Albany to move a step closer to the Central New York Soccer Association title.

The win was the second straight, both by close margins, since the team's 49-game winning streak was shattered by Schenectady Football Club. Four league matches remain and Kingston is a prohibitive favorite to nail down its fourth consecutive pennant.

Carlos Bustamente and Mike Newmerchnsky scored the winning goals, both coming in the second half. After a scoreless first half, the scoring drought was extended to the 65-minute mark when Bustamente crashed through with an assist from Jimmy Reinhardt.

Fifteen minutes later, Newmerchynsky scored the second and final goal with an assist by Peter Fuchs. The powerful Albany offense was completely bottled by the locals and the home team never seriously threatened to score.

Tony Alexander's second team scored a solid 3-2 victory over the Albany jayvees. Bill Newmerchynsky rammed home a pair of goals but Albany rallied to tie the score at 2-2 and set the stage for Shaun Northrup's game clinching goal for Kingston.

League action is suspended next Sunday when all-star picks from the league play a practice game at Oehler's Mountain Lodge field. The all-star squad to play at Randalls Island on May 17 will be selected after the practice game.

The lineups:

Nine HRs Fly Out KC Park

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

What hath Charles Finley wrought?

When the incendiary owner of the Kansas City Athletics declared war on the American League, even he couldn't have envisioned the devastating effect his strategy would have on Kansas City's Municipal Stadium.

Twelve homers were hit Sunday as the Athletics swept a double-header from Minnesota 7-4 and 8-7. That output increased to 24 the number of homers hit in the four-game series between the teams.

The Twins connected for seven Sunday and 15 altogether while Kansas City pounded out five in the doubleheader and nine in the series.

Home runs are being hit at Municipal Stadium at more than twice the rate they were hit last season.

Of course, Finley's tactics have helped. He acquired home run sluggers Rocky Colavito and Jim Gentile during the winter and more recently constructed his Pennant Porch and shortened the fences generally.

Colavito leads the league with six home runs while Gentile is tied for second with five. The closer fences have resulted in eight homers—six by the A's.

Finley may not win the war or the pennant, but he may beat the stadium into submission.

Yankees Split

Elsewhere in the American League, there were three doubleheader splits, New York blanked Washington 4-0, then lost 6-5; Baltimore stopped Cleveland 5-2, then was shut out 3-0 and Chicago nipped Los Angeles 3-2, then dropped a 6-2 decision. Boston whipped Detroit 11-7 in the only single game.

Despite the home run attack, it took four walks in the ninth inning to win the nightcap for the Athletics. The Twins' Bill Pleis issued all of the passes, the last to George Alusik which forced in Nelson Mathews with the winning run.

Carl Yastrzemski joined the long ball parade with a grand slam homer that climaxed a run rally in the fifth inning and powered Boston past Detroit.

Dave Nicholson's three-run homer gave the White Sox their fifth straight triumph in the first game, but sterling elief pitching by Dean Chance helped the Angels halt the streak in the second.

Washington barely fought off a ninth-inning rally in which the Yankees scored three times, cutting the Senators' margin from 6-2.

Heat winners included Olsen, Griffin and Kruger. The flathead feature was taken by Doc Norton and heats by Yonker and Wood.

Midgets are slated at the speedway on May 16 with motorcycles set for the 17th and a demolition derby on May 30.

Milwaukee Has Solid Hill Corps

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Shove over Warren Spahn. You may not be the Milwaukee Braves' only pitcher after all.

Perched in third place in the National League standings, Manager Bobby Bragan's club today can look back on three complete game pitching victories in the last four starts.

Sunday's 1-0 two-hit masterpiece by Hank Fischer against the Phillies followed Bob Sadowski's five-hitter against Philadelphia and Tony Cloninger's one-hitter against the Pirates.

The only loss in the four game stretch was charged to a 43-year-old southpaw on the staff of youngsters. Fellow named Spahn.

Fischer, sprung from the bullpen, turned in his third straight route-going performance, retiring the last 16 batters he faced. The 24-year-old right-hander also produced the only run of the game in the second inning.

The shutout lowered Fischer's ERA to a flashy 1.93, best on the Braves' staff. "His best pitch was control," said catcher Ed Bailey. "He was hitting his spots and he made my job easy."

Mets Lose Pair

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh came from behind to whip St. Louis 12-8; San Francisco topped Los Angeles 6-3; Houston beat Chicago 5-3 and Cincinnati swept a doubleheader from the New York Mets 6-5 and 6-3.

Fischer surrendered singles to Tony Gonzales in the second and John Herrnstein in the fourth before shutting the door. He struck out four and walked two.

It was the first major league shutout for the $50,000 bonus baby who signed off the Seton Hall University campus in 1959.

Willie Stargell was the big gun for the Pirates driving in five runs with a home run and a single.

Juan Marichal had a shaky start before settling down and turning in his 10th straight victory for the Giants.

Willie Mays, socked a single and his 10th homer raising his league-leading batting average to .459. Willie Davis had a two-run homer for the Dodgers.

Jim Wynn's two-run homer in the sixth carried Houston to its victory, the first for Hal (Skinny) Brown after two losses. Jim Beauchamp also homered for for the Colts.

The Reds came from behind in both ends of their double victory over the Mets.

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa.—(NEA) — Penn State baseball teams have made four appearances in the NCAA College World Series at Omaha in 1962, '57, '59 and '63.

McAndrew and Johnson Hurl 5-2, 10-1 Wins

Superb pitching by Lonnie McAndrew and Wayne Johnson plus some timely hitting carried Ulster County Community College to a doubleheader sweep of Keystone Jr. College of Pennsylvania, 5-2, and 10-1, Saturday at Dietz Stadium.

The first two victories of the season boosted the locals' record to 2-2 as they get ready to play a twinbill Wednesday at Delhi. The final game is slated at home next Monday night against Shelton College of New Jersey.

McAndrew, who with Johnson hurled last season for Kingston High, was in a scoreless duel in the seven-inning opener before his mates broke through for a four run inning in the fifth.

Dave Horton, another KHS player, singled and then swiped second and third. He scored on a balk. Ken Horne was plunked by a pitch and shortstop Bill Pratt singled. After Horne was forced at third, Bill Reid followed with a two-run triple.

Both teams scored in the sixth and the visitors added another tally in the seventh before McAndrew set down to nail the school's first baseball victory.

Lonnie allowed six hits while walking one and fanning a dozen.

As good as McAndrew was in the opener, Johnson was even better in the abbreviated five-inning second game. This one was called because of an 11:30 curfew.

The fireballer gave up a fifth inning single and it was the only hit and led to the only run the visitors managed. Johnson fanned 14 and retired the other batter on a comeback ball. He walked only two.

Coach Al DiBernardo's nine opened right up in the first frame as Horton was hit by a pitch, Herne walked and Jim Uhl reached base on an error.

Pratt then cleaned the bases with a ringing double. An infield out led to another run and the fifth scored when Bill Ried was walked, stole second, went to third on a passed ball and tallied on an out.

Horton put the lid on the win with a two-run homer in the fourth. The ball was hit deep to right center and Dave easily beat the relay home.

A Man With A Dream

Veteran Sports Figure Is Hailed For Long Career

" I will continue to promote baseball until I realize a dream I have had down through the years," Fred J. Davi of Glasco said in accepting he Joyce-Schirick Post, VFW's annual Citizen of the Year Award Saturday night at the VFW hall in Kingston.

Nearly 200 persons heard the prominent baseball promoter and sports figure praised for his many contributions to local baseball and for his work in youth sports.

Commander Gilbert Williams presented Davi with the scroll and medal symbolic of the award and said the VFW was proud to honor one who had done so much for baseball and the youth of the Kingston area.

John Crespino, president of the Kingston Patrolmen's Association, presented Davi with a transistor radio in behalf of the organization.

Praised by Farrell

Jackie Farrell of the New York Yankees public relations department lauded Davi as a great friend and boost of the Yankees. He said that Davi had been a part of the Yankee family for many years and is highly respected by the organization.

Davi's "dream", as he explained it was to see a Kingston area youth become a full fledged major league player. He also recalled some of the highspots of his career, including his wartime associations with Yogi Berra, Billy Johnson and other Yankees in the Connecticut area, where he promoted a powerful independent team that defeated four major league teams in one week in exhibitions.

Charles J. Tiano, Freeman sports editor and life long friend of Davi's, said that Davi had earned the title of "Mr. Baseball" through his long association with the game. He noted Davi's contributions to youth programs in recent years and recalled that the "Laughing Boy", as he is sometimes called, had helped numerous organizations in securing speakers for banquets, World Series tickets, equipment, baseballs and in numerous other ways.

Finest Record

"Some of the fine things that Fred has done over and above baseball have never been chronicled in the press," Tiano said. "He has devoted his life to his work and his sports promotion. His record of promoting baseball uninterruptedly for 35 years is unparalleled in independent baseball in the United States and his all-round accomplishments certainly justifies the high honor the VFW is bestowing on him tonight."

Tiano also praised the V.F.W. for the recognition extended Davi as Citizen of the Year and said this recognition would be highly applauded by sports minded persons throughout the Hudson valley where Davi has become something of a legend in his own time.

Mayor John J. Schwenk congratulated Davi for his interest in youth programs and baseball and said the city of Kingston was keenly aware and appreciative of the work he was doing.

Attorney Charles Saccoman was the toastmaster.

Halts Belated Rally in 9th To Insure Win

Plattsburgh stopped a ninth inning rally and scored a 5-4 win Saturday ever the Hawks of New Paltz State in a thriller at the upstate diamond.

The Hawks started their two-day road trip by losing a 5-1 decision Friday at Potsdam and show a 1-5 mark for the season. They will host Oneonta State on Tuesday at the college diamond.

Righty Tom Clarke was given a two-run margin in the first inning but he gave it back in the last of the first. Plattsburgh moved ahead with another run in the third and two in the fifth to take a 5-2 lead into the eighth.

A pair of singles and two errors gave coach Al Miller's club a run in the eighth. Then in the ninth, a walk and two hits netted a run and put men on second and third. However, the rally fizzled and the Hawks left the field still needing a run to knot the score.

Both sides had five hits and New Paltz was given 10 walks but couldn't get the bingles at the right time. Clarke walked and fanned three in losing the toughie.

Forst Needs One To Clinch Title

Forst Formost took a pair of pressurized games from Modern Vending Friday at the Campi-Tarsie Lanes in Newburgh to move closer to the title in the powerful Mid-Hudson Major league.

The locals have a 2½ game lead with one week left and have to win just one this weekend from Tompkins and Baxter Insurance, which was beaten once by Sangi's Bowlero. If Tompkins sweeps, that club will nip the locals by half-game.

All five keglers were over the 600 mark with the top series being a 662 by Larry Peterson and the low being a 615 by Jake Charter. Lou Campi blistered a solid 247-221-258-726 for Modern Vending but the defending champions could win only the final game and were eliminated from the race.

In the key first game, the locals overcame a two-mark deficit starting the final frame to score a 1076-1059 verdict. They shot 1110 to 1028 in winning the second game before bowing 1078-958.

Sangi's which three weeks ago won three times from Modern Vending, gave Tompkins and Baxter a good run, winning the first game, 1016-884 but then losing a pair of toughies, 1021-970 and 1015-978.

Tom Carlino belted 659 and Hal Broskie 650 for the locals while a 618 by Phil Versace and 609 by John Martini paced Tompkins and Baxter.

A Saugerties woman was injured at 2:45 p. m. Sunday when hit by a car as she was walking across Route 28 near Phoenicia, according to Kingston State Police.

Sergeant Henry S. Rhodes said Pearl I. Thyben ,77 of Market Street, Saugerties, suffered abrasions of the left ele and shoulder. Troopers said she told them she would see her own physician.

Troopers reported the car, driven by Walter Linhart, 38, of Albertson, was driving east just east of Route 214 when the woman reportedly stepped from in front of a parked car and was hit. Linhart was driving a 1963 car at the time of the mishap.

Kuchel Stakes Out Victory Claim Over Jury Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, a leader of the Senate's civil rights forces, staked out a victory claim today over the Morton jury trial amendment.

Not only will the proposal backed by Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., be defeated, Kuchel said in an interview, but the Senate will turn its back on more drastic amendments proposed by Southern opponents of the civil rights bill.

Under the Morton proposal a defendant would have the right of a jury trial in any case of criminal contempt of court arising out of the antidiscrimination provisions of the legislation.

The Senate is expected to vote on this amendment Wednesday —the first real test of the measure since the bill reached the floor March 30.

As the Senate headed into its 47th day on civil rights, Kuchel offered another prediction; the jury trial amendment backed by the Senate leaders will pass.

Kuchel, the assistant Republican leader, has teamed with his Democratic counterpart, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, to shepherd the civil rights bill.

Their chiefs, Democrat Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, are backing an amendment that would provide jury trials in criminal contempt cases only if the penalty exceeded 30 days in jail or a $300 fine.

Methodist Conference Still Dealing With Race Question

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Controversy over the race question continued on and off the floor today at the 1964 General Conference of the Methodist Church.

In the forefront was a report which endorses civil disobedience within "most carefully circumstanced limits." The report, "Christian Social Concerns," is scheduled for debate tonight.

Integrationist forces moved behind the scenes to bring back to the floor a plan which calls for integration within the church on a voluntary and gradual basis. Integrationists want the plan strengthened.

The "Christian Social Concerns" report was presented over the weekend by the Rev. Harold A. Bosley, pastor of Christ Church, Methodist, New York.

Part of the report said:

"Christians have long recognized that after exhausting every reasonable legal means for redress of grievances, the individual is faced with the moral and legal dilemma of whether or not his peculiar circumstances require obedience to God rather than men."

The report contended that individuals must make such judgment in certain instances in the current struggle for racial justice.

It continued:

"In rare instances where legal recourse is unavailable for redress of grievances from law which are clearly unjust or immoral, the individual is justified in obeying God's authority rather than man's. Even then, meticulous care must be taken to prevent proliferation of civil disobedience beyond most carefully circumstanced limits."

During debate Saturday the Rev. G. Ross Freeman of Atlanta, Ga., moved for removal of the paragraph referring to obedience to God's authority rather than man's.

"It would be tragic for the news to go from this place that the Methodist Church endorses civil disobedience and, therefore, anarchy," the Rev. Mr. Freeman said.

Debate on the report followed an all-night vigil by Methodists from many parts of the country who came to Pittsburgh to protest what they said was a weak effort by the conference to end segregation in the church.

After the vigil, in two downtown churches, and a kneel-in at the city's modernistic Civic Arena, where the conference is in session, some delegates vowed to try and force a new vote on a plan to merge the church's Negro jurisdiction with its white conferences.

The demonstrators had been protesting the plan, saying it failed to provide speedy action.

Approve Amendment

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Congressional approval of a proposed constitutional amendment to permit children to say a prayer in public schools has been called for by the New York State Art Teachers Association.

The association called for the action Saturday in a resolution adopted at the final business session of its 15th annual convention, which opened Wednesday.

Destroyer and 7th Fleet Commander in Saigon

Tariff Cut Effort Has Beginning

JohnsonSendsHis Word to Meeting

GENEVA (AP) — President Johnson pledged United States help to bring the Kennedy round of tariff negotiations "to a happy and fruitful conclusion."

Former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, the President's chief trade negotiator, delivered Johnson's message to the formal opening session today of the Kennedy round.

The session marked the beginning of a marathon tariff cutting effort by the 75 members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade — GATT — expected to continue for at least two years.

"Upon the opening of this meeting of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, an important and effective instrument for the expansion of world trade, I should like to send you the best wishes for success from the people of the United States," Johnson said.

Has Same Faith

"Your meetings, universally known as the Kennedy round, exemplify the hope and commitment of our late president to bring together the nations of the world in peaceful pursuits. I believe, as he did, in the necessity of success in your work.

"We in the United States look upon these negotiations as an important opening to a better world. If we act together with dedication of purpose, all can gain and none need lose. Not only the major commercial nations, but all the countries of this shrinking world—poor and rich alike—have the right to expect success from our endeavors.

"For the United States, I can assure you that we shall spare no effort in seeking to help

DOWN AT THE STERN—The U. S. S. Card floats low at the stern at her berth in Saigon harbor May 2 some 10 hours after a blast ripped a hole below the waterline of the baby flattop. All 73 crewmen escaped injury in the predawn explosion. The Card refloated partially at high tide and it was hoped that makeshift patching and pumping would prevent its sinking again in the 48-foot deep river. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Saigon)

Ties Up Near Card In River

Transport Being Mended by Crews

SAIGON, Vet Nam (AP) — The U. S. Destroyer Lyman K. Swenson arrived in Saigon today for what could be an American show of force following the sinking of the aircraft transport Card in the Saigon River.

A Navy spokesman said the Swenson was on a routine operational visit. Aboard was Capt. C. C. Hartigan Jr., commander of the 7th Fleet's Destroyer Squadron Nine.

The Swenson tied up within sight of the Card, which has been partially refloated since terrorists tore a 28-foot hole in its side with explosives before dawn Saturday.

Saigon Tense

Salvage workers were patching the hole preparatory to pumping out the vessel.

Saigon still was tense and on the alert Monday with patrols checking downtown traffic and troops swarming around the dock area.

No one was seriously injured aboard the Card but eight Americans and a Vietnamese were wounded when another terrorist tossed a handgrenade into their midst in Saigon Saturday night.

Four of the wounded said they wanted to get back to the battle zone as soon as they could.

Safer There

"It's safer there than here in Saigon," said Lt. Hector Dittamo, 22, of West Paterson, N.J., with a wry smile.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge had driven along the Saigon Street Saturday night just 10 minutes before a Viet Cong terrorist on a bicycle lobbed the handmade grenade into a group of American servicemen.

Pfc. Joseph G. Gustafson, 25, of Bayfield, Wis., said he saw the grenade rolling at them.

"I hollered 'Watch it' and started to run. There was a tremendous bang. I kept running. I didn't realize I'd been hit until I looked down and there was blood all over me."

"It exploded two feet away from me. I guess it's a miracle I'm still alive," said Spec. 4 John Arnett, 19, of Louisville, Ky.

Watching Wallace Bid in North

7 Primary Elections Prep for Conventions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven primary elections Tuesday touch off one of the most active pre-convention weeks of the political season.

Voters in Indiana, Ohio, Oklahoma, Alabama, Florida, New Mexico and the District of Columbia and state conventions in Delaware, Michigan, Alaska, Nevada and Wyoming will:

—Express a preference for a presidential nominee.

—Choose 139 Republican and 202 Democratic delegates to their party nominating conventions.

—Nominate candidates for two governors' mansions, four Senate seats and 63 House seats.

—Decide other issues, ranging from unpledged presidential electors to a right-to-work labor law.

Watching Wallace

Most of the attention will be on Indiana, where Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama makes another bid for Northern votes in his campaign against the Johnson administration's civil rights bill. He is opposed in the Democratic presidential preference primary by Indiana Gov. Matthew E. Welsh, a stand-in for President Johnson, and three other candidates. The winner can lay claim to 51 first-ballot votes.

Goldwater Favored

On the Republican side Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona is the odds-on favorite to top a field of four which includes Harold E. Stassen of Philadelphia and two lesser-known candidates. The winner gets Indiana's 32-first-ballot votes at the Republican National Convention.

Delegates to both conventions will be chosen next month.

Also at stake in Indiana are nominations for 11 House seats. Five incumbents have primary opposition, five don't. Rep. Donald C. Bruce is quitting to seek the Republican Senate nomination at the state convention next month.

Other Key Elections

In other key elections Tuesday, Ohio's Rep. Robert Taft Jr., son of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, seeks the Republican Senate nomination and former football coach Bud Wilkinson makes his political debut in Oklahoma's Senate Republican nomination race.

The 139 GOP convention delegates to be chosen this week will push the number selected to 652 —almost half of the 1,308 authorized. It will take 655 to nominate a candidate.

Goldwater, leading with 209 of the 513 chosen according to an Associated Press survey, could pick up more support at the Delaware convention Tuesday and at Republican gatherings in Michigan and Wyoming Friday and Saturday.

To Pick Delegates

Delegates to both conventions also will be chosen in the Ohio and District of Columbia primaries. Democratic delegates will be selected in the Alabama primary and at conventions in Alaska, Nevada and Wyoming.

Goldwater won a thumping endorsement in a relatively light turnout of Texas Republicans for a preferential poll Saturday. His total was about three times that of the rest of the field, which included most of these mentioned for the nomination. Henry Cabot Lodge, whose

With four candidates seeking three places on the Board of Education of the Kingston School District (Consolidated) a large vote is expected at the annual election slated for Tuesday.

Polls will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. in the 18 districts. (See Page 16 in today's Kingston Daily Freeman for the list of polling places.)

3,200 Eligible to Vote

More than 3,200 residents of the district are eligible to vote tomorrow and candidates will make every effort to urge that number of persons to go to the polls and participate in the four-cornered election.

Howard Fox and Benson A. Krom, incumbent members, are not seeking re-election. Two five-year terms will be filled with the two candidates receiving the largest vote taking those offices. A candidate will be elected to fill out the three years of the unexpired term of former trustee Gifford Beal, who resigned last December after moving from the district.

Four Candidates

Candidates seeking election include, Richard P. Boice, operator of a dairy farm, and Lake Katrine resident; Harold E. Keator, also of Lake Katrine, a distribution superintendent for the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., in the Kingston district, and Francis Stern-Montagny, of Hurley, a senior engineer employed at the Kingston IBM plant. They have received the endorsement of the Non-partisan Nominating Committee and the American Association of University Women, Kingston branch.

The four candidate is Everette Hodge, Kingston mortician and president of the Ulster Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He has received the support of the Ulster County Ministerial and Laymen's Alliance.

7 Are Hurt In Traffic On Weekend

Seven persons were injured in five weekend city traffic mishaps, one driver was charged with driving while intoxicated, a truck failed to clear the low East Union Street railroad bridge, and a driver was injured early today when he swerved his car to avoid a dog.

Three persons were injured in a three-car mishap at Broadway and Pine Grove Avenue, reported at 8:25 p. m. Sunday.

Police said cars driven by Philip J. Peters, 35, of 141 Primrose Street, Fall River, Mass., and Barney J. Millins, 25, of 41 Meadow Street, were stopped in a line of traffic, and a third, was driven by Elwyn Rosa, 62, of 29 Ridgewood Avenue, Rolling Meadows, who said he was distracted when another car nearly struck his in passing.

Winfred Roosa, 58, of the same address suffered a mouth injury, and Samuel Millins, 62, of 41 Meadow Street, reported a head injury. They were treated at Kingston Hospital. Philip Peters, one of the drivers, reported a neck injury and was to be treated by a doctor.

Officer Charles Diers investigated.

Hearing on Wednesday

Sylvester Beverly, 43, of 249 East Union Street, was charged with driving while intoxicated after a mishap near 19 Mill Street Saturday.

Police said the car he drove, as it pulled away from a curb, went across the street and struck the car of The Rev. (Bishop) S. B. Chappell, of 255 East Strand.

City court hearing was today put over to Wednesday. The de-

Will Assess Methods

To Probe Tactics Used In Liquor Law Battle

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A legislative committee is investigating to find out whether "improper" tactics were employed in the battle over Gov. Rockefeller's liquor-reform program, it was disclosed today.

Sen. John J. Marchi, R-Staten Island, said the Joint Legislative Committee on the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law was making an "assessment of the methods used by proponents and opponents of the new law" in attempts to influence the Legislature.

Marchi, who heads the committee, did not disclose details of the course of the investigation.

He mentioned it only at the tail-end of a statement in which he promised to push for repeal next year of any provisions of the new liquor law that might be unworkable.

He said his committee would serve as a "watchdog" on the law.

Approve Modified Form

The liquor - reform program was rejected in the closing hours of the 1964 Legislature's regular session but was approved in a modified form last month at a special session called by Rockefeller.

The Republican governor had angered rank-and-file lawmakers at the regular session by implying in a special message that they were knuckling under to the opposition of liquor lobbyists.

Wholesale and retail dealers bitterly opposed the key provision, which will repeal a law that guarantees minimum prices on the liquor they sell. Some have threatened a court test.

Lobby on Other Side

On the final day of the regular session, Republican Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney said on the Senate floor that Marchi had some information there might be "a lobby on the other side" that might bear investigation.

Mahoney said he was not referring to the efforts of Rockefeller or of the Moreland Study Commission that had drafted the liquor program. He did not elaborate, however.

There were reports at the time that some distillers were promoting the bill because they believed it would stimulate liquor sales.

Marchi said his committee was "going ahead with its as-

CORE to Send Own Delegates To Conventions

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Congress of Racial Equality, at a meeting of its National Action Council here, said it would stage nonviolent demonstrations in Washington to urge support for the civil rights bill and would send its own delegates to both the Republican and Democratic national conventions.

James Farmer, national director of CORE, told a news conference Sunday the civil rights organization would attempt to oust delegates from Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama at the Democratic National Convention in Atlantic City Aug. 24 and replace them with its own delegates.

Plan Mass Picketing

Farmer said CORE planned to hold rallies at the conventions of both parties, with mass picketing to dramatize its demands.

The Republican convention is being held in San Francisco July 13.

Farmer said one of the civil rights demands at the Democratic convention would be fair and full employment with a minimum $2 wage and a massive works and training program for the jobless.

At the Republican convention, he said, CORE would call for the repudiation of the "traditional alliance with 'Dixiecrats' on civil rights."

Fulbright Going To Two Nations With Cyprus Word

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is sending chairman J.W. Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to Greece and Turkey to demonstrate this government's concern with the Cyprus situation.

Fulbright long had planned a trip to Europe, but Athens and Ankara were not added to his itinerary until he called Sunday at the White House for a discussion with Johnson.

Afterward the White House announced that the President

State Director Of Travel to Talk At Resort Meeting

Joseph Horan, director of travel for New York State, will speak at a meeting of area resort operators and chamber of commerce members at 8 p. m. Monday, May 11, in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

He will discuss, "The Future of Ulster County's Resort Industry — Grim or Glorious?" Horan also will point out current problems and the "must steps" which should be taken in the area to improve the resort industry. A film will be shown.

Last for Listings

Michael C. Starkman, publisher of the New Ulster County directory, will answer questions about the officially-endorsed county literature he is preparing and with his staff will accept last-minute listings for the directory from hotels, motels, camps, bungalow colonies, restaurants and other businesses relative to the county's travel and resort industry.

Starkman urged representatives of businesses not yet listed to attend the meeting or send representatives. He said that no further listings for the directory will be accepted after the May 11 meeting.

Resort and vacation sport operators, allied businesses, chamber of commerce officials and town supervisors were invited to attend the meeting. Frank A. Byer, assistant on the Ulster County Publicity Committee, will also be present. Refreshments will be served through the courtesy of the hotel.

Road Death at Mt. Marion Adds to State Toll of 26

Twenty-six persons lost their lives in weekend accidents, including 14 who died of injuries suffered in traffic accidents. An Airman was killed in a mishap on the State Thruway, at Mt. Marion, an eight-year-old Dutchess County boy was fatally hurt when hit by a car, and a 32-year-old Orange County woman died from injuries when struck by a car at Walden on Sunday.

Airman 1/c James Milton Burgh, 25, of 564 Summit Avenue, Schenectady, was injured fatally at 4:15 p. m. Saturday, when the 1955 station wagon he was driving north on the Thruway went out of control three miles south of Saugerties interchange near Mile Post 98.

Sergeant Henry S. Rhodes, Kingston sub-station, said the vehicle crashed into guard rails, hit a bridge abutment and overturned. Burgh was ejected from the vehicle and landed on his head. Death was due to a compound fracture of the skull, troopers said.

Ulster County Coroner William S. Keyser investigated with BCI Investigator Richard Ryan, Kingston, Sergeant R. M. Wolfe of the Thruway detail, several uniformed troopers and Saugerties Special Town Police Officers John Pavlak and Anthony Ventriglia.

Burgh was an advisor with the 8313th Air Force Reserve Recovery Unit. Albany.

Burgh was listed as Ulster

Westchester Criticized on Gambling In Open, Albany Hit on Probe Blocks

NEW YORK (AP)—The State Investigation Commission says its probe of enforcement of gambling laws by Westchester County cities uncovered "apathy, laxity and corruption."

In its annual report issued Sunday, the commission said it found wide open gambling in Westchester County and "failure on the part of public officials to enforce the law faithfully and to discharge their duties effectively."

The commission also told of running into obstructive tactics in its inquiry of Albany County purchasing practices.

The report noted that it was "most astounding that, although these obstructive tactics became quite apparent, they were, nevertheless, continued with brazen effrontery."

The commission, headed by Myles J. Lane, made two recommendations:

1. State and local governments should cancel contracts and blacklist those contractors who refuse to testify or waive immunity in official inquiries.

2. A state law should be enacted to provide for the seizure and forfeiture of vehicles used to carry gambling records. Use of such vehicles, the report said, "is a vital, basic function in illegal gambling operations."

Lane said the latter proposal had been submitted to the last legislative session, which failed to act upon it.

The bipartisan agency also urged police reforms in Westchester County.

Earlier recommendations for improvement in local Westchester police departments have led to some "steps in the right direction," the commission noted.

The proposal for a possible consolidated crime unit at the county level had met objections based on local pride and traditions of local police control, the commission noted.

Although the 148-page report dealt mainly with Westchester County, an eight page section spoke of the "strategy of delay" the commission met in Albany.

"Every tactic and device was utilized to obstruct and prevent the commission from examining records. . .and to block the interrogation of important witnesses," the report said.

He Also 'Talks American'

LBJ a 'Scene-Stealing' Prez; He Dances, Speeds and Hoes

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Actors wouldn't like to work with President Johnson. At 55, he is the greatest scene - stealer of our time except maybe for Soviet Premier Khrushchev and French President de Gaulle.

But Khrushchev at 70 has quieted down and De Gaulle at 73 makes only an occasional appearance.

In the Senate the civil rights fights, weeks old and far from settled, seems as remote as a debate in a cave compared with the single picture of Johnson holding a beagle by its ears till it yelps.

The United States says it will continue its U2 flights over Cuba, and Khrushchev insists there will be trouble if it tries, but at the moment that's not half so real as Johnson making a speech to people in his garden.

The Speeding President

Republicans torment themselves wondering about the presidential chances of Goldwater, Rockefeller, Nixon, Lodge and Scranton but on the day Johnson exceeds the speed limit who remembers about the Republicans?

The Vietnamese war is going badly, despite all the American help. But that's hard to visualize. It's a lot easier to remember Johnson on television and radio announcing the end of the rail dispute.

This country wants to see democracy in Latin America but, while a new military government runs Brazil with an iron hand, Johnson chewing the fat with newsmen sticks in the mind.

The Soviet-Chinese split may be one of the turning points in history but, with all its complications and ideologies, it's harder to understand than Johnson dangling the promise of another tax cut, if and maybe.

He Also Dances

Who is going to remember the dispute with Panama over the Canal Zone, lingering and unsettled, when his head is filled with stories about Johnson dancing?

It is simpler to imagine that picture of his boyhood home, which Johnson says he has hanging in his bedroom, than it is something as big and lumpy as the war on poverty and the medical care bill, now bouncing around on Congress.

The Cyprus shootings make growing ill will between Greece and Turkey, two American allies. But what that ill will can mean to the allliance, if it gets bad enough, is a lot vaguer in the memory than the Johnson statement that he rarely reads novels because his mother often used to say: "If they're not true, I'm not interested."

De Gaulle keeps on unscrewing the bolts that hold the Western alliance together but the way he does it, slowly and haughtily, doesn't seem half so real as Johnson touring the Appalachian states.

Let Us Reason

It is harder to understand the dispute in Congress over permitting prayers in public schools or the day-to-day racial disputes around the country than it is to recall one of Johnson's favorite saying: "Come, let us reason together."

Alabama's Gov. George C. Wallace spends weeks in Northern presidential primaries, proving the North has segregationists, too, but one guess on who captures the eye when Johnson makes one speech at the opening of the World's Fair?

The Johnson pace, indoors and outdoors, is enough to make kids wonder, when they have to stay glued to their books, how he ever finds time for his homework.

The arid soil of Sahara Desert oases is immensely fertile, and crops are very nutritious because soil chemicals have not been leached out by rain.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

The other day there was a question from A. V. Sutton, of 32 Spring Street, Ilion, New York, about the Black Smoke cement mine slide of Rosendale, sometime around 1897. My readers have no end of information on this incident, which may help Mr. Sutton write about it. He does The Good Ole Days with a by-line, Paddy Sutton, in the Citizen Herald of Walden, New York.

I had a call from Mrs. Louis Dubois of Hurley, White Port Road. Her husband remembers when he was a little boy, and the men were working the famous Black Smoke Quarry, in the Up and Bar Mt. in Rosendale. They first used striker and hand drills, later steam drills were used. He said, when the much talked about slide happened, it filled the road and the old D. and H. Canal for some three weeks, and folks had to go around about to shop in Kingston. It shook the earth like a quake, he said. He understood the pillars caved in. It seems they are the natural stone, around which the miners dig, and leave the pillars to hold up the hill. His father, Nelson Dubois was there at the time, but came out safely. No one hurt, although, no doubt they had to run for their lives.

I also received an interesting copy of a letter Lester G. Clark, of Clark Lumber Co. Inc. of 480 Washington Avenue, Kingston, sent to Mr. Sutton. It reads in part: "In your reference to the mountain slide which collapsed and closed the tunnel in the mountain above the Rosendale Village. My father told me a rather unusual story in so far as we were concerned regarding this accident. My father, Jesse E. Clark was working for one of the cement companies somewhere near the westerly end of the tunnel in the vicinity of Binnewater."

Mr. Clark continues: "At the time he was on an errand to the far end of the mountain and it was his custom to walk through the tunnel in the mountain. However, that day he decided to go through the village street and he was on Main Street of Rosendale Village at the time of the collapse. If it had not been for a fateful change of plans, he would have been somewhere in the tunnel at the time of the collapse. I thought this might be of interest to you."

Mr. Clark further writes: "I note that you (Mr. Sutton) lived on Hurley Avenue. That's right near our location and just a moment ago an old [illegible] of Hurley Avenue was in the office, Fred Suppies. He is an old native of Higginsville. We are located adjacent to the now discontinued Ontario and Western Railroad tracks and close to the Ulster and Delaware tracks. A number of people from my old home town of Tillson have moved to Ilion and no doubt some of them knew my family."

On the other side, of the sheet, Mr. Clark directs a letter to me. He speaks of the consolidation of the school system, which was voted down, and then passed over the people's vote, by, he understands, 8 to 1. The one who did not vote for the consolidation of the school system, stood by the people's choice in the referendum, as he was standing for a legal principle. He is today a judge, and perhaps, the others who voted against the people's choice, feel he was right, and they were wrong, but it is too late now. Perhaps that is the reason for the apathy in the present School Board of Education elections and small interest in the meeting of the candidates. Taxation without representation has been a touchy subject since history began in this country, and sometimes silence speaks louder than words.

Cycling to Fair

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) —Paul R. Kepner, 68, is going to the World's Fair — on his bike.

By sunup Tuesday he plans to be on his way. If Kepner doesn't beat his schedule, he'll complete the trip June 6. That's an average of 100 miles a day, the former college professor said.

Kepner said he's riding his bike to the fair because he likes exercise.

Strike Is Threat To Ruling Junta

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—A threat to the Dominican Republic's seven-month-old ruling junta appears to be developing from a transport strike which touched off violence in the capital.

Military and civilian leaders held separate conferences examining the situation.

Police failed to halt demonstrations Sunday that accompanied the strike of taxi and bus drivers.

Unruly crowds burned tires; smashed bottles and dumped garbage in Santo Domingo streets.

The government declared the drivers' strike illegal, saying it was politically motivated and that the union had failed to give written notice stating the date and reasons for a strike.

Repeated government radio broadcasts warned the public that a 1962 decree of national emergency still was in effect. The decree authorized deportation of any person endangering public order by agitation or subversion.

Military leaders ousted President Juan Bosch Sept. 25, accusing him of being soft toward the Communists. The military then relinquished control to a three-man civilian junta.

The present triumvirate — Donald Reid Cabral, Manuel Tavares Espaillat and Ramon Caceres Troncoso—is regarded as conservative and anti-Communist.

The transport workers struck in protest against three recent junta decrees.

These banned public meetings without authorization, increased duties on a wide range of imports, including automobiles and auto parts, and authorized the police to seize licenses of drivers involved in traffic violations.

Southerners Are Glad of Forecast Floods Are Over

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Southerners, drenched with torrential rains which caused flash floods and crop damage, welcomed a promised respite from soggy weather as a storm spawned in the Gulf of Mexico moved out into the Atlantic.

Continuous rains and thunderstorms for almost a week caused small streams to rise over north Florida, southwest Georgia and southern Alabama. The heaviest rains came during the weekend. Nearly six inches fell during a 24-hour period in some areas.

Thunderstorms were accompanied by high winds in the Miami area which caused some property damage and two persons were cut by flying glass when a garbage can was blown through a window.

There were 21 traffic fatalities in Georgia during the weekend, and 16 in Alabama. Normally, there are about half that number. Most of the accidents happened on rain-slick highways.

Crop damage was extensive in south Georgia, where spring planting already was delayed by late freezing weather.

About 100 families were removed from flooded houses at Augusta, Ga., where nearly five inches of rain fell in a 12-hour period.

Two men drowned at Maxville, Fla., near Jacksonville, while trying to evacuate a flooded house.

Lefkowitz Says Highschoolers Favor Lottery

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Spokesmen for 10,000 high school pupils lean toward a state-controlled lottery to improve the public welfare without raising taxes Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz reported today.

The opinions were contained in essays submitted by pupils in more than 250 New York State Public, private and parochial schools for the annual "Attorney General For-a-Day" contest sponsored by the State Law Department.

Seventy-four per cent of the essay-writers favored a lottery, the attorney general said. The rest did not.

Utica Council Must Tell About Budget Rejection

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—The Utica Common Council is under orders to tell a State Supreme Court judge why it rejected Mayor Frank Dulan's $9-million budget.

Eight of the nine council members were subpoenaed Saturday to appear at a hearing Tuesday. The ninth councilman. Vincent J. Wreszynski, a Democrat, said he expected to be served with a subpoena today.

The five Democratic and four Republican members turned down Dulan's budget unanimously, contending it contained illegal provisions.

The subpoena action came after the council agreed to emergency measures Saturday allowing the city to hand out pay checks to about 1,000 city employes. The checks were two days overdue.

A council decision to issue tax anticipation notes cleared the way for the late payment.

The checks were released after Corporation Counsel George Betro received word from the city's bonding attorneys that employes could be paid under the special procedure.

The Dulan administration is seeking a court order to force the council to adopt the budget.

Dies of Heart Attack

HORNELL, N.Y. (AP)—Walter C. Hinkle, president of the State University of Agricultural and Technical Institute at Alfred, collapsed and died Saturday of a heart attack. He was 57.

Hinkle, a native of Lenora, Kan., and a 1933 graduate of Kansas State University, came to Alfred Tech in 1937 as an instructor in the agricultural engineering division. He was appointed president in 1960.

Prince, New Bride Stay Away From Spanish Fiesta

MONTEJURRA, Spain (AP)—The Spanish Carlists, who have sought the Spanish throne in vain since 1833, held their annual rally Sunday without their new leading lady.

Spain's chief of state, Generalissimo Francisco Franco, reportedly passed the word that the Carlists' leader, Prince Carlos of Bourbon-Parma, and his bride, Princess Irene of the Netherlands, should stay away from the annual pilgrimage to Montejurra, a mountaintop shrine in northeast Spain.

The newlyweds stayed in Madrid and sent messages. Carlos predicted the cause would eventually succeed, and Irene said she would attend the rally next year.

An estimated 100,000 Carlists made the pilgrimage to the mountain.

Parents of 16 Boys Keep Check After X-ray Exposure

NEW YORK (AP)—The parents of 16 boys kept an anxious eye on the youngsters today for signs they might have suffered ill effects from playing near a radioactive device.

The boys, aged 10 to 14, were rushed to a hospital Sunday after they were spotted playing near an X-ray machine being used to test for flaws in steel beams in construction of the new Metropolitan Opera House.

The examining physician at Roosevelt Hospital said that in cases of radioactive exposure where there is no nausea or external burns, there is no test that could determine whether there was any injury.

He released the boys to their parents, telling them that if the children developed any unusual symptoms they would be returned to the hospital.

The X-ray device, contained in a lead box the size of an overnight case, is used only on Sundays when there are no workers about.

YOU GOTTA TALK BACK

Communication is a two-way street. For understanding, ideas and thoughts must travel in both directions.

What happens when, somewhere along the route, traffic snarls? Misunderstanding and confusion can result.

In a series of experiments, a Bell Telephone Laboratories scientist has graphically demonstrated the role of two-way communication in tackling a problem.

In each test, six people were divided into pairs. Each of the six was given a set of dominoes. The dominoes of one person (A) in each group were placed in a specific pattern; the dominoes of the other person (B) were unorganized. "A" was told to tell "B" by telephone how to set up his dominoes in the same pattern, but with this difference:

In Group 1, "B" could not talk to "A." Result: none of the "Bs" got the pattern right.

In Group 2, "B" could only indicate by pressing a buzzer that he didn't understand the instructions of "A," who was allowed to repeat the instructions. Result: some of the "Bs" got the pattern right.

In Group 3, "B" could talk to "A." Result: all of the "Bs" got the pattern right.

When interviewed after the tests, "As" in Group 1 thought the "Bs" were dim, since they couldn't understand simple instructions. But the "Bs" felt the "As" couldn't explain things.

The Group 2 participants expressed similar views, but not quite as strongly.

Only the Group 3 people, who had been permitted full two-way communication—felt happy about the experiment.

The tests seem to show that it's easy to misunderstand, misinterpret and become completely confused when two-way channels are closed.

WISE EMERGENCY FUND

The failure, last November, of the Allied Crude Vegetable Refining Corp. provoked a costly side effect in Wall Street. The collapse of Allied also brought down in ruin a member of the New York Stock Exchange, Ira Haupt & Co.

Though not legally obliged to do so, other member brokers raised sufficient capital between them (9.5 million dollars) to pay off Ira Haupt's creditors. Their motives were plain and compelling. Confidence in the whole Exchange would be set back severely could one of its members go under so quickly.

While the ad hoc arrangement worked very well in satisfying any losses to Haupt customers, raising so much cash was quite a strain. Consequently, the New York Stock Exchange has worked out an interesting plan to take care of future emergencies of this kind. Brokerage firms have agreed to set aside 25 million dollars in a contingency fund. Henceforth any member who, except through fraud, becomes over-extended may receive financial assistance from the fund. The fund will be there on a continuing basis independent of any emergency scratching for cash.

The stock buying public stands to gain from this cooperative effort. NYSE member firms, though generally rock-ribbed financially, can make unwise extension of credits as did Ira Haupt. Sadly, we now know this is possible. A 25-million-dollar fund is a comforting resource to have around should it ever happen again.

THE CONSPIRACY THEME

There are always those who refuse to accept the most probable explanation for anything, particularly a major crime. They prefer the cloak-and-dagger, conspiratorial setting to that which is direct, simple and logical.

Thus it is that many, particularly in Europe, refuse to believe that the presumed assassin of President Kennedy in Dallas acted without others' aid. They prefer to think—and are being deliberately incited to think—that he and Jack Ruby were agents in a ring of conspirators and that there was much more to the tragedy than has been revealed.

The possibility cannot be excluded. But indications are that, when the Warren commission reports, little will be told that has not already been disclosed.

The commission, certainly, has a more thorough knowledge of what happened in Dallas, and why it happened, than a lawyer now lecturing in Europe who was hired and fired by Oswald's mother, and a self-admitted former Communist living in Paris whose theories of the assassination even implicate the FBI and the State Department.

"Inside stories" and so-called "heretofore unrevealed facts" about the assassination will appear periodically for years. Most of them will be fiction. The Warren report may not satisfy those athirst for more sensation, but it will be based on evidence, rather than fancy.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

THROWING BOOMERANGS AT OURSELVES

Senator Kenneth Keating, Republican of New York, would like to know who owns the State Department. As a member of one of the coordinate arms of the federal government, he is, presumably, entitled to a straight answer from another arm. But he finds the effort to get anything that is meaningful out of Dean Rusk's minions is like punching a feather pillow. Or like asking Casey Stengel's opinion on the weather.

For almost two months the Senator prodded the State Department on the subject of those Indonesian military and police people who were, or were not, being trained in the U. S. Then, thinking he had nailed down some positive information, he passed the word along to his fellow Senators that some of the 280 Indonesians in question were "being trained in counter-insurgency—which is the latest $64 word for guerilla warfare." Nothing wrong in that, of course, if the Indonesians happened to be prepared to back up U. S. foreign policy. But training in "guerilla warfare" in the case of Indonesia means setting things up for boss man Sukarno to threaten our friends in the new federation of Malaysia, which the Indonesians have sworn to destroy.

No sooner had Senator Keating let slip the news about U. S. schooling of the Indonesian soldiers and police than the State Department tried to weasel out of what it had said already. "Counter-insurgency," it seems, may not mean "guerrilla warfare"; it may merely cover "rural rehabilitation" in depressed areas. Though the State Department did not deny that Indonesians were getting some sort of training in this country, it was not necessarily in techniques that would be used against Malaysians. No, indeed. The Indonesian military and police personnel were just getting some instruction in "operations" and "logistics," which are never, never, never used in warfare. The State Department would have us believe that Napoleon never heard of the subject of "operations." Or that Douglas Mac Arthur would have had to go to the dictionary to look up "logistics." If you can't follow this, don't blame Senator Keating. He tried.

More serious than the semantic fog that tops every other kind of fog in the State Department's home of Foggy Bottom is the fact that this nation seems to be forever throwing boomerangs at itself. The case of the Indonesian "rural rehabilitators" who will not use a knowledge of "operations" and "logistics" against Malaysia (no, indeed) is just the latest in a line of U. S. boo boos. Before we ever had "rural rehabilitators" we had "agrarian reformers" in Red China. And it wasn't many years ago that we provided the Cuban dictator Batista with some T-33 jet trainers. With beautiful consistency, however, we refused to provide Batista with enough ammunition to make his T-33s effective. Never mind; the State of Israel let Batista have some ammunition, which reached Cuba in unopened U. S. containers.

Thus having hit ourselves with a couple of boomerangs in the T-33s to Batista and the ammunition to Israel, we sat back and watched Castro take the T-33s over. It was the T-33s which sank the supply ship which was absolutely indispensable to the anti-Castro Cubans at the Bay of Pigs.

In a recent speech to the American Textile Manufacturers in Palm Beach, Chairman Gerald Phillippe of the General Electric Company mentioned U. S. tax money which has been used to rebuild the economies of Europe and Japan. Using the newest machinery, the West Europeans and the Japanese now sell us radios, cameras, electronic components and textiles at prices that undercut our own companies. Meanwhile, so Mr. Phillippe told the textile manfacturers, fully two-thirds of the metal cutting and forming tools used in American factories are obsolete.

Well, whatever became of the move to export our obsolescent machine tools to needy nations instead of new money for use in buying new machine tools? Senator Wayne Morse is for this approach to foreign aid. We don't often agree with Senator Morse, but in this case he is right. It's time to stop throwing those boomerangs.

THE WELL CHILD

Big Ears on Little Boys Can Be Corrected

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If your child has ever been called "Floppy Ears" or Jughead" because his ears stick out at right angles, you will appreciate what a psychological problem this condition can be. It is all very well to point out that this is a normal variation but this does not lessen the teasing to which your boy may be exposed. The situation may not be so acute with a girl because her hair can be used as an effective cover.

One bright boy of 14 I knew was falling behind in his school work until this defect was corrected by a very simple operation. His whole outlook on life was so much better after the operation that his parents wondered why they had not had it done sooner.

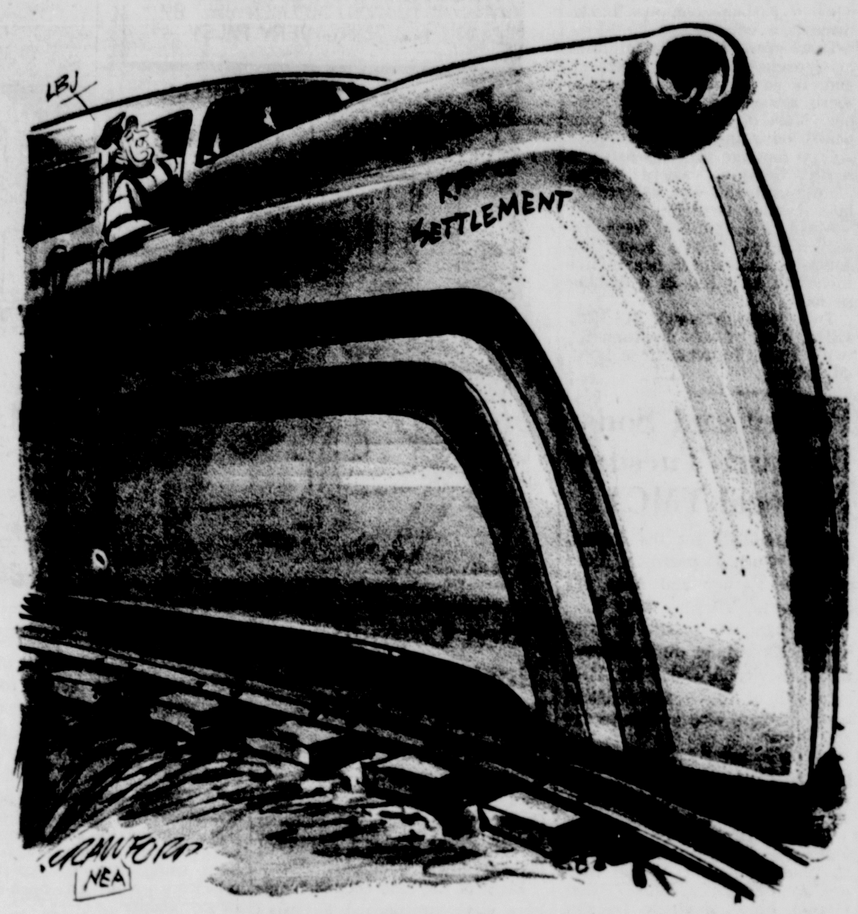
Q—We lost a grandchild with cystic hygroma. He was operated on for it at 9 months and got an infection. He could not take sulfa drugs or penicillin because he was allergic to them. What can you tell me about this condition?

A—Cystic hygroma is a development defect usually discovered after birth. It is a nonmalignant tumor of the lymph vessels and is found most commonly in the neck. It tends to grow progressively larger. When such tumor is recognized it should be completely removed as soon as possible to prevent both infection and the pressing of the tumor on the windpipe. These tumors become infected very easily. In a child allergic to antibiotics, the infection would be very hard to control.

Q—My son, whose IQ is high, has always been tense during examinations and this has pulled his grades down. Is there any safe sedative that will help his examination jitters?

A—Many tranquilizers (available only on a doctor's prescription) are manufactured and used. The chief trouble with using them before an examination is that they slow up the mental processes. Were your son to take one of them before an exam he might assume an attitude of "couldn't care less." The best preparation for any exam is thorough grounding in the subject so that cramming just before the exam is not necessary.

The Fall Whistle Stop Tour Begins



Washington News

BY BRUCE BIOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Federal grants-in-aid to state and local governments, amounting now to almost $10 billion a year, are becoming at once more popular and more controversial. A new, little-noticed official report jumps into the fray.

Just a few months ago the federal aid roster was augmented by programs covering vocational education, college facilities, mental health and retardation. The sums involved in these are expected to grow steadily in succeeding years.

At present pace the total may rise to $12 billion or more within a very short span. Small wonder there is concern.

One sign of it is the stir in Congress for some kind of periodic review. The object would be, of course, to chop off or reduce federal aid where it was clear programs either had become self-sustaining at the state-local level, or no longer necessary.

The review idea, pushed by Maine's Sen. Edmund Muskie and some others, has developed some Hill support. But scaling down grants-in-aid would be about as popular with some lawmakers as closing down military and naval installations.

NOW WE HEAR FROM the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations in another ticklish area:

Should federal grants go in greater flow proportionately to states with above-average needs and below-average financial resources?

About a third of the aid programs enacted in the last decade have made some provision for assistance on this basis. The Social Security Act of the mid-1930s was the first to try it.

The Advisory Commission, in a thoroughgoing report beamed to this question, recommends that this so-called equilization of grants be applied in those programs specifically related to national policy goals, such as general educational uplift, improved health, etc.

But this body, a purely advisory group drawn from all levels of government, suggests at the same time that the "equalizing aim" of grant programs be held to "minimum service levels consistent with" national objectives.

This might be one way, perhaps, to take some of the sting out of the richer states' constant complaint that their heavier tax contributions "carry" the poor states.

THE COMMISSION HAS A FEW MORE BONES to pick. It doesn't think aid distributed on an equalization footing ought to be mixed in particular programs with funds handed out in proportion to population or according to some other formula.

And it sees no excuse for allowing rubbery yardsticks in gauging either needs or ability to pay at the state-local level.

Thus it recommends regular review by the involved agencies and departments to test the fitness of "need indexes" in the various grant programs. The obvious aim is to guard against overstatement of need.

The commission further would charge the President with laying groundwork for putting together data of use to the states in improving their fiscal capacity and hence their ability to carry their own load.

In a period dominated by more dramatic issues, there is no particular political sex appeal in these proposals. But they are highly responsible notions from a respected agency which probes the federal-state-local field thoughtfully.

It will be interesting to see how many "economy-minded" lawmakers in Washington grasp these proposals to put grant programs under tighter scrutiny. And how many state governments take up the challenge to improve their own financial resources.

Trial by Jury in CR Cases Not Easy Question to Answer

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — What's the jury trial amendment to the civil rights bill all about? On its face it seems to be a question of whether a person who could be put in jail on a charge of contempt of court should have the right to trial by jury. Would a person prefer to have judgment passed on him by a jury of 12 citizens or by just one individual—a judge.

This is not an easy question to answer. For sometimes a jury is not able to understand the fine points of the law and may make a mistake, whereas a judge who is familiar with all the intricacies of the statutes would presumably do a better job—though often some judges seem to be politically minded.

Basically, the whole controversy arises now in connection with civil right because of a fear that juries in the South may not administer justice as it should be. But the legislation pending in the Senate is designed to cover citizens in all parts of the country and to secure justice for everybody—not just people in one section.

What constitutes "contempt?" It involves disobedience of an order issued by the court or else misbehavior inside a courtroom. There seems to be universal acceptance of the idea that any disorder inside a courtroom should be punished by the judge without any jury trial. There is a distinct difference of opinion, however, as to what should be done with respect to disobedience of a court order outside the courtroom.

The issue as it is being debated in Congress is a very serious one. It is something that ought to be given many months of deliberation instead of just a few days. It strikes at the root of the American system of justice. The Constitution says plainly in three separate provisions:

1. "The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury."

2. "In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall have been committed."

3. "In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved."

But the courts have arbitrarily tried to define a "crime" in different ways. As recently as last year in the proceedings for contempt against Gov. Barnett of Mississippi, the Supreme Court by a 5-to-4 vote decided against the request for a jury trial. Chief Justice Warren and Justices Black, Goldberg and Douglas dissented. In his opinion, Justice Black wrote:

"I think that this doctrine that a judge has inherent power to make himself prosecutor, judge and jury seriously encroaches upon the Constitutional right to trial by jury and should be repudiated."

But, in spite of these views expressed by the liberal justices, most of the liberals in the Senate will vote instead to repudiate the words of the Constitution.

There is a popular impression, more over, that jail sentences are imposed only in the case of criminal contempt, but actually an individual may go to jail in a civil contempt case as well.

Criminal contempt usually results in punishment of the defendant by a fine or imprisonment, in a definite amount and for a definite time. Under the civil rights bill passed by the House, the judge would be able to try a criminal contempt case without a jury and impose sentence in certain instances where the fine was to be $300 or less or where the imprisonment is 45 days or less. But an individual also can be jailed in a civil contempt case. Whether a person is in jail for civil contempt or for criminal contempt it is just as much a punishment or disgrace. One prominent lawyer wrote to this correspondent the other day:

"It will make little difference to the defendant whether he is in jail on a charge of civil or criminal contempt as long as he is, in fact, in jail. The court can simply leave him there until he complies with its order. Or it can levy a conditional fine which he will have to pay if he does not comply and still be in contempt. Or it can fine him so much a day until he does comply. Or it can do all of these things. These are examples of civil contempt cases where a jury is not available.

"Decisions of American courts make it clear that there is no right to trial by jury in civil contempts. That will continue to be the law until some statute changes it.

"The jury trial amendment, whatever its form may take, is an illusion as long as it is confined to criminal contempt. If the proponents of the bill want to make a concession, the amendment must include both civil and criminal contempt. This, of course, should not include contempts committed in the immediate presence of the court."

So it is evident that neither side is all wrong or all right on this issue and that serious consideration should be given to the whole matter because it involves a precedent of far-reaching importance. It is just one of a number of civil rights measures that are being rushed through Congress because of political pressures and intimidation by threats of violence or street demonstrations. This is not the proper way to enact legislation dealing with fundamental principles of justice.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

He completed his notation and looked up. No, he said, he couldn't play golf. He had to go to school. The man who spoke was Hank Stewart, flight engineer on Northwest Airlines. The listeners were Captain Oliver Yates and First Officer Don Nordlund. They were in a Boeing jet, 39,000 feet over Louisville, bound for Chicago and Minneapolis.

The sun was coming in on the captain's side, and he had a small green shade on the window. He looks like all the captains on National, Pan American, United, T.W.A., Eastern and American—a thatch of gray, a weathered granite face, and busy eyes. Nordlund, as first officer, was younger, good-looking, and chubby. Steward rode side saddle, as all flight engineers do. He faced a panel of instruments which told him all the little truths about the big jet engines and their fuel.

I sat in the jump-seat behind them, thinking of the flights I have made sitting behind airline captains over all the years from 1934. This, in turn, led to a chain of thought about commercial aviation. The airlines of the United States are now not only the safest in the world, but they are close to the ultimate in safety.

The government regulatory agencies — The Civil Aeronautics Bureau, and the Federal Aviation Agency—have more control over flight than the airline owners. As I was dreaming, Yates was turning his radar on and could see the inside of big clouds ahead and below. This was a stationary cold front. He could see little black pin-points and big ones. These are "cells" and "cores" of violent thunderstorms.

He told Nordlund to ask Ground Control for permission to turn northeast 50 miles, then fly straight for a hundred, then turn left to get back on course. The plane was far above the storms and in no danger. He didn't want his passengers to be bounced by thermal currents. Nordlund asked for permission. I listened on a headset. Ground Control examined the airways all around Northwest 709, and said okay.

In no industry is safety overemphasized as in aviation. Far ahead, Yates could see a tiny silvery jet, trailing long wavy plumes, coming toward him. The plans was a southbound Delta. It was thousands of feet below. Still, Ground Control called in on the phone and said "Northwest seven-oh-nine, traffic at 12 o'clock." And Nordlund acknowledged: "We have it in sight."

Before takeoff, the weight of the plane, the weight of the fuel, passengers, luggage, crew, food and water are assessed. This one weighted 240,150 pounds — 120 tons. Each hour in flight, it weighs seven tons less because that's the amount of kerosene it burns. The faster it goes, the less strain on the engines because the air on which they live is forced into the pods at 600 miles per hour.

The front windows could be painted black and Yates could find his way to Chicago just as easily as by looking. The automatic pilot will keep the plane on course better than he can by hand; ground control will phone the proper flight altitude; radio directional equipment will keep him headed for his destination in spite of cross-winds, fog, turbulence or rain.

Distance Measuring Equipment tells the skipper exactly how many miles he has yet to fly. Jet engines seldom fail, but when they do, the big planes can continue on three, or even two. Wings are made to be flexible, so that they can breast the waves of air as a small boat rises and falls in choppy sea.

The first officer has a series of 20 radios, and the Government ground control tells him which wave lengths to use. Ground Control is tracking the plane at all times, and will tell a captain if he is wandering a little bit to the right, or left, of the "center line." It also tells him when to descend, and when to climb.

Nothing is done without permission on a commercial airliner. The busiest time is takeoff and landing. On takeoff, he receives orders about which taxiways he must use to get to the head of the runway. Before leaving, explicit instructions are given about directions and altitude in leaving the airport. Coming down, he is told "Descend from 39,000 to 15,000 and report every two thousand feet."

When he nears the airport, the skipper is told about other traffic in the vicinity, is ordered to reduce speed, report when approaching the "outer marker" of the airport, and which runway to use coming in on final approach.

The three men up front do all this without appearing to be overworked. They have time for coffee, a sandwich, a fattening dessert. They converse quietly while watching scores of instruments. They keep going back to school—as the flight engineer is—to learn new techniques, new instruments, new types of planes.

As we came into Minneapolis, I asked Captain Yates if he was tired. "No," he said. "All I've done today is fly from Minneapolis to Chicago to Miami and back again. When I get home, I have a few small chores, like taking out the garbage." . . .

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Visitors to the city zoo chuckled as they watched this bit of animal drama. A stray dog wandered through the zoo sniffing the ground. As he neared the lions' cage his hackles rose and he growled, waking a sleeping lion. The lion roared, the dog yipped and ran. In his haste the dog almost bowled over a man, was narrowly missed by a car in a street and was still running when he splashed head-long into a fish pond.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—"Made in America," the CBS panel show that tried to substitute the sight of millionaires for an amusing game and big money prizes, died Sunday night as it had lived — briefly and ingloriously. formances makes it runnerup for the shortest-lived show of the season. ABC's "100 Grand" early this season was hastily removed, after three performances—or was it two?

The spot in the network's Sunday night schedule has proved to be a sort of television Death Valley — "The Judy Garland Show" fought a losing struggle there earlier.

The network proposes to finish out the season with another hard-luck show called "Brenner," about a father and son who are cops. It was seen several seasons back and again in some reruns, but the episodes to be shown have never been broadcast before.

NBC's "Incident on Wilson Street" Sunday night was an interesting effort to show sensitive, concerned teachers attempting to help fifth and sixth grade children living in a decaying Brooklyn neighborhood.

It was not entirely successful because sometimes the children and adults seemed a little self-conscious, but mostly because the kind of remedial work the teachers are doing is not dramatic and requires much time and patience.

While network radio is currently excited about discovering interviews and conversation instead of music and news, the lady who is generally credited with the first radio interview show celebrates her 30th anniversary in broadcasting today—with an hour interview show as usual.

Mary Margaret McBride, who retired from network radio several years ago, now lives happily on a mountainside in the Catskill Mountains overlooking a big lake and a white birch forest. She treats broadcasting as a beloved hobby, doing three sponsored programs a week from her home.

Spurred Rights Groups Plan Big Turnouts Today

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Civil rights groups, spurred on by a solid week of racial demonstrations—some violent — and a pep talk by the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., pledged to be out in force again today.

A prime target will be Morrison's Cafeteria, part of a Southern chain and one of Nashville's few remaining segregated eating places. Racial demonstrators, including a number of white persons, picketed the cafeteria almost daily last week. About 100 persons were arrested, during the demonstrations.

About 70 predominantly Negro pickets showed up at Morrison's Sunday and staged orderly protests of the restaurant's segregation policy.

Inside the cafeteria, a new form of protest, the "sip-in" was born. About 200 white persons, mostly college students and faculty members, filled tables during the dinner hour and purchased only coffee or tea which they sipped for an hour or more.

"Now is the time to make Nashville an open city," Dr. King told an audience of 2,000 at a rally at Fisk University, a Negro school. "Keep moving," he said. But he urged that demonstrations be peaceful.

King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, flew in from Atlanta just before the rally and left immediately afterwards.

NewsClamp-Down In Cuban Crisis: ANPA Prexy Robb

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gene Robb, publisher of two Albany newspapers and president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, says there is a constant attempt among government officials to withhold news.

Robb, publisher of the Albany Times-Union and the Albany Knickerbocker News, cited alleged news management during the Cuban crisis. "Reporters could have been allowed to cover the story," he declared.

Robb said Saturday in a television interview that newspapers must perform a job "for individual people whose interests get fouled up in complex situations."

Newspapers, he said, "stand between the people and the big organizations."

Robb accused government officials of attempts to "withhold news, channel only the more favorable news and make it difficult for certain reporters to get the news."

Goshen to Celebrate It's 250th Anniversary

Goshen, N. Y. — The pieces are beginning to fall into place for Goshen's plan to celebrate its 250th anniversary this July. Among the scores of events planned between July 18-25, the latest to be added is a concert by the Stewart Field Air Force band in the Presbyterian Church Park on the evening of July 18.

That particular Saturday will be packed with activity, including a huge afternoon parade by firemen from a wide area, displays of fire equipment and all the things to make a Firemen's Day complete. Before the parade, the Orange County Area Harness Horse Owners and Breeders plan a program of matinee harness racing at Historic Track. To top off the evening there is to be a block dance in the village square just a few fox trot steps away from the concert.

Young Reds Riot With Sofia Folk On Way to Mass

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—The Soviet bloc's second riot in three days broke out in Sofia as Communist youths blocked the path of Bulgarian Orthodox churchgoers en route to Easter Mass.

Youth group demonstrations during Prague's May Day celebration Friday turned into battles with Czechoslovak police and resulted in 31 announced arrests.

The official Czech news agency, CTK, confirmed the disturbances in Prague, but Bulgarian government agencies remained silent about the clashes in Sofia.

Reports from Sofia said hundreds of churchgoers had been involved in clashes with both police and Communist youths.

Entrances to Aleksander Nevsky Cathedral in Sofia were blocked by youths shouting atheist slogans. Police closed the cathedral doors to prevent incidents, and the fighting ensued.

Patriarch Cyril, spiritual leader of the Bulgarian Orthodox Church, was to have celebrated the Resurrection Mass, climax of the Orthodox Easter celebration.

An announcement said the patriarch was ill and Bishop Nikolai, rector of the Academy of Theology, had taken the patriarch's place.

In Prague, CTK said the 31 persons under arrest had been charged with disturbing the peace. The news agency denied reports received outside Czechoslovakia that university students had led the rioting against the police.

Reports received in Vienna said 3,000 students had participated in the rioting in Kinsky Park, where they had gathered for traditional May Day poetry reading.

Traver Trial Is Adjourned Until May 18

Trial of suspended Police Lieut. George Traver of Poughkeepsie, scheduled for today in Dutchess County Court, was adjourned by Judge John R. Schwartz until Monday, May 18.

Traver, 54, a 28-year veteran on the police force, was indicted on a second degree assault charge. He is accused of assaulting John Phillips, Highland, a taxicab driver, with his revolver during an argument outside the Traver home in the Town of Poughkeepsie last Nov. 17. The gun discharged and a bullet hit Phillips' shoulder.

Traver was suspended by Police Chief John L. Martin and subsequently indicted by a grand jury. He is free in $5,000 bail.

County Judge Schwartz said today's adjournament was made to give the Poughkeepsie Fire and Police Trial Board of three members an opportunity to conduct a hearing for Traver on departmental charges.

City Manager Kenneth Pearce said today as far as he is concerned the hearing will not be held until the felony charges are disposed of in county court.

Traver's attorney, N. LeVan Haver of this city, said he is prepared to proceed with whichever trial is held first. Judge Schwartz indicated the Trial Board hearing should be held before trial on the criminal charge.

January Death Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The death rate for motor vehicle accidents was 21.5 for each 100,000 population during January, almost 30 per cent higher than for the first month of 1963, the Public Health Service reported today.

The service noted in giving the figures in its monthly vital statistics report that for all of 1963 the annual increase in the motor vehicle death rate over the 1962 rate was about 4 per cent.

On Objectors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to review a decision that conscientious objectors need not believe in a supreme being to be exempted from military service.

The decision was given by the U.S. Court of Appeals in New York. It said exemption may be based on deeply rooted beliefs and sentiments.

A requirement that conscientious objection be based on religious beliefs, including existence of a supreme being, the Circuit Court held, would violate the Constitution.

Greater Danger

NEW YORK (AP)—Sir Hugh Foot, former British colonial governor of Jamaica and Cyprus, said the possibility of war between whites and the world's colored peoples is "a greater danger than anything between East and West."

Sir Hugh, a member of the five-man panel which advises U.N. Secretary-General U Thant on conditions in South Africa, appeared on WOR-TV in New York.

Truck Destroyed By Fire, Other Calls Answered

A fire of suspected incendiary origin destroyed an abandoned truck body and contents in a lot at 433 Washington Avenue Saturday afternoon and a space heater overflow later Saturday resulted in damage to a Ferry Street house.

Another call Saturday was for a surface fire on the city refuse disposal area, which, police were told, had apparently been set by boys, and a call Sunday was for fire in a wooded area off East Chester Street.

The truck body, which contained old box springs and mattresses, burned on a property owned by A. R. Newcombe, on Washington near Hurley Avenue. Firemen said it was owned by Edwin Tomlinson, of the Tomlinson body and welding shop, at 31 Hurley Avenue.

Units from Wiltwyck Station with Deputy Chief Julius E. Buchholtz in charge answered a call at 1:04 p. m.

The dump fire was reported at 7:29 p. m. Units from Union and Cordts companies responded. Police were told that the fire had been set by three boys, who ran from the Ulster Street area to Third Avenue. Officers George Barringer and Leon Fitzgerald were dispatched to investigate, but no boys were reported found in the area.

The call for a blaze caused by a space heater in the second-floor apartment of William Childs, 63 Ferry Street, was at 9:18 p. m. Saturday. Units from Central and Cornell stations, responded with Capt. Harry L. Sills in charge. The blaze damaged areas of the apartment. Firemen said the building is owned by Harry Flamm, whose address is unknown.

Units from Central Station and the Wicks Company answered a call at 4:18 p. m. Sunday for a fire in the woods to the rear of 248 East Chester Street. Deputy Chief Buchholtz was in charge. The blaze was checked before it burned over a large area.

School Safety Patrol Honored

New York State's eight million motorists were urged today to lend a "helping hand" to the 55,000 members of the School Safety Patrol by driving with extra care near school crossings and playgrounds.

The advice was issued by the New York State Automobile Association to coinside with Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller proclamation of May 3 to 9 as School Safety Patrol Week throughout the state.

State AAA President George M. Frauenheim of Buffalo, noted that motorists have the direct responsibility to be watchful for youngsters as they cross the street on their way to and from school.

"The members of the School Safety Patrol," Frouenheim declared, "are on the job—rain or shine — throughout the school year to see that young boys and girls don't cross the street against traffic. If motorists heed the rules of safe driving, we can reduce accidents involving school children to the absolute minimum."

Official figures show that traffic deaths among children of school-age decreased 71 per cent last year as compared with 1925, the year before the patrols were organized in New York State. In that time, statewide motor vehicle registrations increased by 210 per cent.

In proclaiming School Safety Patrol merits the highest recognition and praise."

Won't Rule on Pupils

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court refused today to rule if school boards must assign Negro and white pupils to schools in such a way as to avoid racial imbalance.

The ruling was asked by counsel for Negro children in Gary, Ind., where they said more than 97 per cent of the city's approximately 23,000 Negro students attend schools separate and apart from almost the entire white school population.

Such school systems, the counsel said in their appeal, "are no less segregated than those systems where separate Negro schools are mandated by state constitution or statute."

Rockets May Be Gone

WASHINGTON (AP)—The belief is current here that the Soviet Union may have pulled its ground-to-air rockets from Cuba, depriving Fidel Castro of the means to blast American planes from the skies over his island.

If true, there is less likelihood that the fiery dispute over surveillance flights will erupt in a clash of arms. A Soviet rocket withdrawal would go a long way toward explaining the Red prime minister's May Day assertion that Cuba is alone in her dispute with the United States.

Castro has conceded that his armed forces cannot shoot down the high-flying American planes without the Soviet rockets.

WORLD'S FAIR INFORMATION—Wallace's of Kingston and Poughkeepsive has been selected along with other leading stores in major cities all over the country as World's Fair information headquarters and displays such as this will designate their location. Store patrons will learn what they can expect to see at the Fair, and a variety of information and free booklets will be available to aid advance planning for exhibits one might especially wish to see. Nearly 200 leading department stores throughout the country are now taking part in a unique packaged preview of the Fair, incorporating material from publications, the Fair itself and its exhibitors and from participating stores. $375,000 for Scholars In Father's Memory

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State University of New York at Albany is the recipient of an estimated $375,000, the bequest of a woman who wanted scholarships established in memory of her father, who taught natural sciences here 90 years ago.

The money was willed by Mrs. Irma St. John Smith to the Benevolent Association of the State University of New York at Albany, the university's Alumni Association reported in its quarterly magazine Saturday.

Mrs. Smith's father, Professor Joseph S. St. John, taught at the school from 1874 until his death in 1882.

A university committee will determine the number of scholarships to be awarded and the amount of each.

Last signer of the Declaration of Independence to die was Charles Carroll, at the age of 95.

$22,372 Marked For Sewage Study

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Health Department today announced approval of grants totaling $22,372 for studies of sewerage needs in communities in Westchester and Ontario Counties.

Peekskill and the Town of Cortlandt in Westchester County were awarded $11,500 for a study of the McGregory Brook drainage basin.

An award of $10,872 was made to Clifton Springs and the towns of Manchester and Phelps in Ontario County for studies in their areas.

State Completes Check Of 4H County Units

Completion of the examination of fiscal affairs of four Ulster County districts was announced today by State Comptroller Arthur Levitt in Albany.

The county areas listed were: Town of Denning, Town of Hardenburgh, Shawangunk Valley Fire District, covering Shawangunk and Gardiner and the Woodstock Fire District, Town of Woodstock.

Copies of the examination reports have been sent to the clerk and other officials of the units of government examined. Since the reports are a part of the public record, they are available for review by interested citizens.

Autobiog Is Due By Top Literary Critic; Once a Red

GRAFTON, N.Y. (AP)—Granville Hicks, one of the nation's best known literary critics, says he has nearly completed his autobiography—the story of an intellectual's close involvement and subsequent disillusionment with the Communist party in the 1930s.

The book, he told a reporter recently, will not be "a poetic, evocative book with reminiscences of childhood. It will not be a chatty or gossipy book about the big shots I've met.

"I have tried to cover my whole life, how I think and how I got that way."

Hicks, 62, a columnist for the Saturday Review, was one of the major figures of leftist literary America in the 1930s. He wielded considerable influence as literary editor of The New Masses, the Communist weekly, from 1934 to 1939.

He has been working on his autobiography at his home in a remote part of Rensselaer County, near the Massachusetts state line.

He traces his relationship with communism back to the depression year of 1931. He saw the Marxist way as a solution to the staggering problems America faced. He joined the party in 1935 and stayed in it until 1939, when the Soviet Union signed its pact with Hitler's Nazy Germany.

In his early days as a Communist, he said, "I believed that society was more important than the individual, and I tended to judge writers on the basis of their ability to deal with social problems.

". . .When I left the party, I still thought of myself as a non-Communist Marxist. Then, within two or three years I got away from Marxism completely. It took me that long to catch up with myself intellectually and find a way of looking at life and literature that really satisfied me."

In the 1950s he became literary advisor to The New Leader, and in 1958, affiliated with the Saturday Review, for which he has been writing a weekly column ever since.

Hicks says he expects his life story will be published late this year or early in 1965.

Dear Abby . . .

Memos to Daughters-In-Law!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Mother's Day will soon be here and I wish you would say something in your column to remind "young marrieds" to remember their mothers-in-law, too. Even if it's only a card or a note. There were so many years when I should have remembered my mother-in-law, but I was too "busy."

This year I will send her a spray of flowers—to the cemetery—bitterly regretting that I failed to send her flowers while she was living. I should have appreciated her more, written her more about her grandchildren, whom she loved so much, and most of all I sould have let her know how much I had grown to love her. I hope others will not make the same mistake I made because next year may be too late. Abby, please sign my real initials so my father-in-law will know how I feel.

J. O. (Oceanside, Calif.)

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: I was interested in your reply to "DIRTY OLD MAN'S WIFE." You said, "He's sick. Get him to a doctor." I've known for years that my husband is "sick." It is so humiliating to sit in a restaurant with him while he flirts with the waitresses, or any woman sitting nearby whose eye he happens to catch. And when he stares at the young girls from their feet up, and then down again, I want to run!

I meet my friends away from my home because they won't come by if they know he's there. I have many worthwhile interests, such as music, gardening, books and church work, but, oh, for a companion to grow old with!

Yes, I realize he's sick. But how do you get a man in his 60's to a doctor?

WISHFUL THINKING

DEAR WISHFUL: You can't call the men in the white coats and ask them to come and throw a net over him. But you can call your family doctor and tell him what you have told me. Together you can work out a scheme to get your husband to submit to a PHYSICAL examination. The mental examination can be subtly worked in without arousing suspicion. There IS help for your husband's illness (and it IS an illness)—and it's more common that you think.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: Just read about "Papa Joe," who was born in the old country and didn't know his birth date so he picked one himself. My husband was in the same boat and picked a day in November for his "birthday." When he took out citizenship papers, he wrote to his sister in the old country and asked her to send him his birth certificate. She sent not only his birth certificate but also the certificate of his baptism. That's when we found out he was really born in March, and according to the "birthday" he had been celebrating, he was baptized before he was born!

Report Awaited On Park Jam, One Girl Killed

BALTIMORE (AP) — Eight girls and three boys, most of them recuperating from surgery, remained hospitalized today while the mayor awaited a report on Saturday's traffic jam on an escalator at Memorial Stadium.

Thirty - five other children were hurt and one killed in the accident before an American League baseball game between the Baltimore Orioles and Cleveland Indians.

At least seven of the children were expected to remain in hospitals for at least a week. All 11 were reported in satisfactory condition.

The crowd at Sunday's game between the same two teams was asked to stand for "A moment of saddened reverence" for Annette Costantini, the 14-year-old girl found dead near the top of the moving stairway.

She was among nearly 20,000 members of the school safety patrols from throughout Maryland who were free guests of the Orioles.

A secured metal barrier at the top of the escalator channeled riders off the moving stairs into a 28-inch wide exit. Witnesses said the children were going up three and four abreast.

matter of fact

Sweet potatoes are propagated not by seeds, but by sprouts and cuttings. This is because, except in the tropics, the seeds produce plants totally unlike the parent plant. Tropical sweet potatoes do produce seeds, but with such hard coats that they sometimes take a year to germinate.

Integration Is Unsuccessful At Memphis Church

MEMPHIS (AP)—A Presbyterian minister joined a group of white and Negro students in an unsuccessful attempt to integrate Second Presbyterian Church Sunday.

Dr. Carl Prichett of Bethesda, Md., and a small group of college students left quietly after reading a statement and being turned back by ushers.

Today's Business Mirror

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The first quarter of 1964 was notable for American business as far as profits were concerned.

This good news for stockholders poured in a steady stream from corporations' annual meetings, which were held by the hundreds in April.

Future Outlook Excellent

It emphasized that the country is enjoying unusually good times and that the outlook for the immediate future is excellent.

Outstanding among the reports was that of giant General Motors Corp., the No. 1 auto maker. Its first quarter profits were the greatest for a three-month period of any corporation in history.

In many cases increases in profits far outdistanced those in sales, indicating that cost-cutting procedures inaugurated when business was suffering from a profit squeeze have paid off.

For example, U.S. Steel Corp. reported a 72 per cent gain in first quarter profits over a year earlier on a sales gain of only 11 per cent. Continental Can Co.'s profit climbed 50 per cent on a sales gain of 7 per cent.

A Wall Street Journal tabulation of first quarter earnings reports of 548 companies showed their combined net income had advanced 21.1 per cent over a year earlier to $3.8 billion.

Two of three companies increased their profits and more than 50 reported record first quarter sales and earnings.

Only Two Dip

Of 33 classifications of industries, only two—tobacco and apparel—failed to equal their 1963 first quarter results.

Tobacco company profits were hurt by the reaction to the U.S. surgeon general's report that cigarette smoking causes lung cancer, but cigarette sales have made a comeback and the profit outlook is promising.

The airline and steel groups, which made relatively poor showings in the first three months of 1963, rang up the best gains.

Other Good Gains

Good gains also were posted by motors, chemicals, building materials and heavy machinery, office equipment, metals, pulp and paper, mining, petroleum and electronics.

Only 14 of the companies reported losses, compared with 32 in the 1963 first quarter.

In addition to sharp cost control, more efficient operations through automation and improved facilities are important factors in the brighter profit picture.

Another influence was the firming of prices in many lines which enabled management to offset increased labor costs.

The tax cut is yet to have any great influence of profits but will make itself felt in the balance of the year.

Ernie Davis Home For Wayward Boys Opens 11th

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state formally will open a home for wayward youths in Syracuse next Monday and name it in honor of the late Ernie Davis, an All-America football player at Syracuse University.

Davis, a resident of Elmira, died of leukemia last year. He won the Heisman Trophy in 1961, becoming the first Negro to win the award bestowed on the nation's top collegiate football player.

The State Youth Division announced plans today for opening of the facility, which will house 26 youths aged 15 through 17 who have run afoul of the law but have not been convicted of any crime.

The youths, referred by public and private agencies with their parents' consent, will live at the home but will attend school or work in the community.

The Youth Division chairman, Lawrence W. Pierce, who also is a Negro, said the agency decided to honor Davis "because of the ideal example he set for all youth with his courage, perseverance, initiative and decency."

Davis' mother, Mrs. Arthur Radford, will participate in the dedication ceremony.

The facility formerly was an apartment house. Similar homes have been opened by the division in New York City and Buffalo.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I'm a big girl," says Gina Lollobrigida. "After 15 years of marriage, I should be able to travel by myself."

The Italian beauty is here making a movie with Rock Hudson, "Strange Bedfellows." Her husband, Yugoslav-born Dr. Drago Milko Skofic, is in Rome attending to his publishing business. Their divergence started tongues to wag, especially since she has been getting a whirl of the Hollywood night spots with Glenn Ford.

Gina couldn't care less about such talk.

"What am I supposed to do—go out alone?" she asked. "That would be even worse. I wouldn't think of going out with other women. I see it done in this country, but women would never dine out together in Italy."

The thought of staying home in her luxurious Beverly Hills hacienda doesn't appeal to her, either. She has been taking lessons in such exotic dances as the Watusi for her field trips into the local night life. Rome was never like this, she says.

"I have never seen such wild people as in some of the night clubs in Hollywood," she said.

She also has attended frequent dinner parties in her honor. This is a compliment, she said, but also a hazard.

Gina's charm can get her through most situations, and her return to Hollywood is welcomed by her fellow workers. Her enthusiasm for working here might be surprising, in light of her previous experience.

Her first Hollywood film was "Never So Few," a lackluster venture epic with Frank Sinatra.

"I did it mainly to prove to Hollywood that I could work here in spite of Howard Hughes," she said. "I once signed an agreement with him, and he kept me from working in Hollywood for seven years without paying me a cent. Even after the contract was over, he made MGM pay him $50,000 to use me in 'Never So Few.' And later MGM paid him $75,000 so I could do 'Go Naked in the World.'"

Gina returned to make "The Lady L" with Tony Curtis. Both stars liked the script, but the new director, George Cukor, did not. Nine scripts and five months later, the project was shelved at a loss Gina reports at $2.5 million.

"I was paid for it — twice," she said, "but it was not good for me. I lost a whole year of work because I couldn't schedule other films. A year is too long to go without work."

GM Picketing Is Planned Today by Civil Rights Force

DETROIT (AP)—Civil rights demonstrators, protesting what one leader termed a lily white personnel policy by General Motors Corp., planned to picket GM national headquarters in midtown Detroit from noon to 6 p.m. today.

General Motors has denied it discriminates and has cited employment of nonwhites in practically every echelon of the world's largest corporation.

Arthur Johnson, spokesman for the Detroit chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the demonstration would be "part of a national effort to get GM to change its employment practices."

Herbert Hill, national labor secretary of the NAACP contends that "General Motors is lily white" from supervisory personnel up. GM says this isn't so; that it employs Negroes in supervisory, engineering and other positions.

Says He Took Boy Because of Cold And Lost Look

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP)—Police will decide today what to do with a lonely young dishwasher who said he picked up a 3-year-old boy in New York City because "he looked lost and cold."

The dishwasher, James Savage, 17, admitted picking up Timothy Hughes near the World's Fair Saturday and bringing him 25 miles by bus to his rented room in Woodbridge. The boy was found there Sunday, unharmed and apparently well cared for.

Savage, a runaway from a state school who has been in 25 foster homes, was held in Middlesex County juvenile detention quarters, booked on an open charge.

Timothy was back in Queens, N.Y., with his policeman father, Gerard, his mother, Lorraine, and brother, Richard, 7.

New York police had conducted a block-by-block search for the boy in the Flushing section of Queens, where he was last seen by his mother in a playground.

Savage said he spotted the boy outside the World's Fair, about eight blocks from the playground, at 5 p.m. Saturday.

"He looked lost and cold," Savage told police, "and I've been lost and cold myself."

He said he had tried to find the boy's parents.

LOYALTY DAY AT SAUGERTIES — Clear skies and balmy temperatures favored hundreds of Loyalty Day marchers in Saugerties Saturday afternoon. The annual event is sponsored by Saugerties Memorial Post 5034, VFW and Auxiliary. Many thousands of residents and visitors from all parts of the Hudson Valley lined the village streets to view the six-division parade. Only two slight incidents occurred during the march. A Catskill infant became separated from her family but was later found, and Centerville Fire Company vols were called out of the line of march to respond to a brush fire call in their district. The Saugerties High School band here provides cadence for the first division marching west on Main Street. Miss Connie Pettinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. $2,401,635.50 School Budget Hearing Tuesday

A hearing is scheduled Tuesday 7:30 p. m. at the high school auditorium on the $2,401,635.50 budget for Saugerties Central School District.

Although there is an increase of $240,868.91 in expenditures in the preliminary budget, it is expected that income from state aid and an increase in the total assessed valuation will reflect in a slight decrease in the basic tax rate.

However, school officials stressed that when final state aid figures and the total assessed valuation of the district are available, the basic rate could be slightly more or less depending on any changes in appropriations approved by the district taxpayers Tuesday night.

The estimated basic rate on the preliminary figures is $82.884, based on $1,000 of assessed valuation. This is a decrease of $1.627 under last year's basic of $84.511.

Election of members of the Board of Education will be held Wednesday from noon to 9 p. m. at Main Street School.

The candidates are Henry Breitenbach of High Woods, incumbent running unopposed; Mrs. Carolyn C. France of Barclay Heights; Harry C. Hoffman of Churchland Road, and Mrs. Anna F. Karashay of Division Street, all running for the Steve Stycos vacancy, and Edwin Olsen of Katsbaan, incumbent running unopposed.

The candidates will be listed in alphabetical order.

Set Parents Night For Sixth Graders

Participating in the program will be David Cunningham, high school principal, Robert Moser, seventh grade leader, and Richard Redder, guidance counselor and chairman of the meeting.

There will be an opportunity for questions about any phase of the high school program and a conducted tour of the building for those interested.

Investor Forum

By HARRY C. FRANCE

RISK

There are thousands of people in the United States in their sixties and seventies who have never owned stocks and whose cash balances are large. Now with the Dow-Jones stock averages at an all-time high, they ask this colum for a list of common stocks to buy. It is dangerous to give such people advice.

Every common stock carries risk. A dozen economic and social forces can push prices down. Of course, these forces can put prices up also.

But elderly investors whose minds have become acclimated to fixed dollars can easily get disillusioned by buying common stocks and seeing them decline in price.

A New York City widow, for example, with $100,000 in banks earning 4¼ per cent, bought 200 shares of United States Steel at $50 a share. A friend told her to buy these as a hedge against inflation.

Within a few weeks the stock went below $40 a share. She became confused. She wished she had never taken a dollar out of the bank. She sold it right on the bottom, losing $2,100.

Persons unacquainted with risk, whose minds are accustomed to dollars in the banks where the quantity of money remains constant, had better be cautious in buying common stocks unless they can face squarely the risk involved.

This matter will become increasingly important in the future.

Another inexperienced investor withdrew $5,000 from a savings bank account and bought 10 shares of International Business Machine. He was 66 years old and all his life his mind had settled on dollars in the bank.

This IBM purchase was his first and when the stock tumbled to $300 a share, he lost his courage and sold it out right on the bottom of the market, losing almost $2,000.

And now, with the stock at $600 a share, he is fit to be tied.

Conservative people who are 60, 70, and 80 years of age, who have never owned a share of stock, should examine themselves carefully before taking 4 per cent bank money to buy stocks paying from 1 per cent to 3 per cent.

A question that might be asked is this: "How will I feel if the stock declines in price 10, 20, 30 per cent?"

If I were a broker or an investment banker, every year in my offices I would give a series of lectures on 'risk—its nature and its implications.'

In the decade ahead prospective stockholders should learn in some fashion about the three incidents of ownership that comprise the capitalistic system: (1) risk, (2) income, and (3) control.

Every time any investor buys a single share of stock he becomes involved in these three forces.

Unless he understands something about them, he should leave his money in a savings institution.

(Q) "I bought 10 shares of stock at $260 a share. It is now $160. What should I do?"—M.W.

(A) Well, if you can afford to speculate further, buy 15 more shares. You will then have 25 shares costing $5,000 and when it goes to $200 a share, you can get your money back.

"You gonged"?

• BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There seems to be a lot of confusion among the committee that studied the Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament hands as to what South should rebid after North raised him from one spade to two.

Personally, I would bid four spades with the South hand. In any event, South had to reach four spades in order to get par.

From that point, it was up to East and West to set the contract. They were helped out by being given a directed trump opening.

Declarer would win the first trump in his own hand and second in dummy and was then directed to take a diamond finesse. West could either duck the first diamond or not. That would not affect his par. After he took his king it would be up to him to shift to a heart. Furthermore, the shift had to be one to separate the men from the boys. He should lead either the queen or nine of hearts.

This lead of a high heart would clearly tell partner that he did not want a heart return. A look at dummy would show East that there would be no point in a diamond return. East would lead a club and West would set the contract with two club tricks.

Of course, East might still return a club if his partner led the fourth best heart, but the lead of a high heart would have drawn a diagram.

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

RISE: Government sources report that federal tax revenue rose $1.5 billion to $24 billion during the first three months of 1964 even though the tax cut took effect March 1.

The $24-billion increase surpassed predictions by government economists, partly because the new lower tax rates went into effect a month after the Feb. 1 date on which the forecasts were based.

STAMP: The Post Office Department plans to begin national sale of the John F. Kennedy memorial stamp on May 29—the 47th anniversary of the late president's birth.

VIET NAM: The State Department's top expert on the Far East says he thinks U.S.-advised South Vietnamese forces have halted a downward trend in their war against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

"I would say that we certainly have arrested the downward trend that has been in effect, going back some time—and that it had leveled out," William P. Bundy said Sunday on ABC's radio-television program "Issues and Answers."

STROLL: President Johnson took newsmen on a 45-minute stroll around White House grounds Saturday, answering questions, greeting tourists and playing with his two beagles.

The President made five laps around the driveways on the south grounds. At one point he clapped his hands and the two beagles—Him and Her—dutifully appeared.

He lifted Her up by the head and body. Referring to the recent furore when he picked up Him and Her by the ears so they would stand and yelp, Johnson said that "when they yelp, it's not a sign of pain, it's a sign of joy."

Court Hears 34 Cases

At an equity term of Supreme Court held during April by Supreme Court Justice Lawrence H. Cooke, a total of 34 cases were disposed of, of which 11 were tried by the court. There was no jury in attendance at the term.

In addition to the disposition of equity cases, during his term in Ulster County Justice Cooke also heard a number of cases not on the calendar and issued several show cause orders.

The May trial term of Supreme Court opened today with two Parts, Part I is presided over by Justice William Deckelman and Part II by Justice Deforest C. Pitt. There is no Grand jury at the May term of Supreme Court.

America's past is recounted with fun and affection in the following books.

Burt's American Murder Ballads and their stories give the lyrics and music of many gory events from Lizzie Borden and her axe to Jesse James and the varmit who shot him in the back.

Stepchild in the Family is a new and important study of the stepchild by Simon. With the increase of divorce and remarriage, there are more than seven million stepchildren in America. The stepchild, how he feels, his relations with new parents and how society feels about him is discussed.

The 1870's: A City and a Bank are born

The villages of Rondout and Kingston joined in 1872 to incorporate the new city of Kingston. An imposing City Hall (above) copied after the Palazzo Vecchio in Florence, Italy, was completed in 1873. The D. & H. Canal reached its peak of business early in the decade, when in 1872 nearly three million tons of anthracite coal were transported from the mines of Pennsylvania to the Hudson River, but the canal's end was foreshadowed with the coming later in this decade of the railroads. Kingston Savings Bank opened for business on June 29, 1874.

Banking in Ten Decades

This year Kingston Savings Bank marks its 90th anniversary. The bank has served the people of Kingston from the post-Civil War decade of the 1870's to the present exciting "Soaring Sixties." Watch this newspaper every Monday for additional information and rare photographs about life in Kingston in each succeeding decade. Two Are Injured In Stone Ridge Accident Today

Two persons were injured this morning in a three-car accident in Stone Ridge in front of the Marbletown Reformed Church. Both were taken to Benedictine Hospital by the George J. Moylan Ambulance of Rosendale.

At 8:35 a. m. as Gilbert Turner, 58, of Wawarsing stopped the southbound bus he was operating to allow a passenger to alight at the church a car operated by Dr. Harold Luscombe, 59, of Beckley, W. Va., stopped. Behind the Luscombe car was a pickup truck operated by Deroy Miller of Stone Ridge. Miller was unable to stop and collided with the West Virginia car. It in turn struck the bus.

State Trooper Fred Cooper of the Lake Katrine Station investigated and reported Miller suffered lacerations of the mouth, lips and gums. Marjorie Luscombe, 59, wife of the operator of the Luscombe car received back injuries.

Miller was issued a summons for following a vehicle too close. He will have a hearing later before Justice of the Peace Scarpati of Town of Marbletown.

Business Groups

the Common Council Chamber of the City Hall.

The Urban Renewal Committee of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce has been contacting many groups throughout the city to ascertain stands on the Urban Renewal program with specific reference now to the Broadway-East project. Thus far every organization contacted favors the project.

Under date of March 28, 1964, Richard M. Kalish, chairman of the Chamber's Urban Renewal Committee, received a letter from Marvin I. Millens, secretary of the Rondout Area Businessmen's Association, stating that this association at a recent meeting approved the following resolution: "Resolved that the Rondout Area Businessmen's Association go on record as strongly favoring the Broadway-East Urban Renewal Project." Similar actions were taken by the Central Businessmen's Association and the Uptown business group.

Tariff Cut

bring this meeting, and the meetings which will follow, to a happy and fruitful conclusion."

Hard bargaining on tariff cuts cannot begin before Sept. 10, authoritative sources said. That is the date when 75 of the nations have tentatively agreed to submit their lists of exceptions —goods and products which they refuse to submit to blanket tariff cuts.

Herter's U.S. delegation has congressional authorization to seek across-the-board tariff cuts of 50 per cent.

The United States is probably will consider itself fortunate to win tariff cuts of 30 to 40 per cent, informants said.

In a brief opening speech, Herter complained that the long preliminary talks have made little progress in dealing with farm products, considered essential to the negotiations by Washington. Nor, he said, has anyone come to grips with other barriers to international trade.

"It is now our joint responsibility," he said, "to move ahead more rapidly and successfully than in the past to fill the remaining gaps. The longer the rules are left open, the longer we procrastinate in setting the formulas by which these negotiations will proceed, the more we risk the success of the entire trade negotiations."

Fulbright Going

had asked Fulbright to "express to the Greek and Turkish governments the continuing interest and concern of both the President and Congress with the disturbing situation on Cyprus."

The announcenfent said that the Arkansas Democrat will not carry any suggestion regarding the ultimate settlement of the Cyprus question because this "must await the proposals of the U.N. mediator."

Rather, the White House said, Fulbright "will convey the sense of urgency felt in the United States regarding the need for the restoration of order on the island, and will report to the President his impressions as to the views of the Greek and Turkish governments."

The Cyprus problem is in the hands of the United Nations.

Auto Hits Deer

While Herbert Levine of Ellenville was proceeding west on Route 52 between Woodbourne and Ellenville Sunday his car struck a deer in the east bound lane. He escaped injury.

Fire Destroys Brown's Station Barn and Shed

Olive Fire Department companies battled a fire after 9:30 p. m. Saturday that destroyed a frame barn and shed on the Carranusa property on Beaverkill Road, Brown's Station.

Fire Chief Albert Fox said Joseph Carranusa looked from a window at his home and saw a light near the barn. He investigated and found the buildings in flames. West Hurley Fire Company received the call reporting the blaze and relayed it to Olive Fire Department.

Olive Bridge, Ashokan and Boiceville companies responded with four trucks and on arrival found the buildings engulfed in flames. Fire fighters pumped water 800 feet from a nearby creek.

On Sunday from 11 a. m. to 4 p. m. Ashokan, West Shokan and Boiceville firemen patrolled the Beachford Farms at Boiceville to protect buildings while lumber from old structures that are being cleared from the farm, were burned.

Chief Fox said three trucks were at the scene in case burning embers or sparks ignited nearby buildings.

Set Radiological Monitoring Class Starting Tuesday

Major H. Edgar Timmerman, director of Civil Defense of Ulster County has announced that a 16 hour radiological monitoring course will be offered Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Municipal Auditorium, 476 Broadway.

The training will include nuclear weapons effects, instrumentation, monitoring techniques, protective measures, dose rate calculations, and radiation exposure guidance. Depending upon the number of interested persons, meetings will be held on Tuesday nights and possibly repeated on Thursdays.

The latest radiological films and instruments will be shown during the course which will continue to mid-June.

Instructors will be Morris Nussbaum and John Schermerhorn, co-chiefs of the Ulster County CD Radiological Service, who have had a number of federal CD courses. Schermerhorn has just completed a third officers course at Eastern Instructor Training Center, Brooklyn, with emphasis on protective measures and decontamination following nuclear attack.

Further information on this course may be obtained by phoning the Civil Defense office.

Faces Traffic Charge

Vincent Simone, Highland, a truck driver, was scheduled to appear tonight before Town of Poughkeepsie Justice of the Peace Donald Holden. Police Chief Vincent Smith said a tractor-trailer, driven by Simone knocked down an overhead traffic signal at Fulton Street and Cedar Avenue in the Fairview section of the town last Friday. Simone was charged with leaving the scene of an accident, the chief said.

Philippines said he had just crossed the street and had stopped to light a cigarette when, "Boom, the first thing I knew I was on the ground."

The four men are attached to a helicopter company at Soctrang, in the Communist-infested Mekong delta. They were on their first weekend leave in Saigon.

Eight Wounded

In all, eight Americans were wounded in the terrorist attack. The four still hospitalized suffered multiple shrapnel wounds but were reported in good condition.

Saigon has had hundreds of terrorist attacks in the past 10 years. The Communists are expected to step up such attacks during May, which contains several Communist and Vietnamese holidays.

Viet Cong propaganda was expected to exploit the disabling of the U.S. aircraft ferry ship Card as a David and Goliath victory against the United States.

Communist saboteurs fixed an explosive charge to the side of the ship Saturday as it was moored alongside the dock in the Saigon river and blew a hole in the side. The ship settled to the muddy river bottom. Repairs are under way and plans are being made to raise her.

name was not on the ballot, was a distant second.

The popularity poll, not binding on the 56 Texas GOP delegates to be chosen next month, was held in conjunction with primaries for state and national offices in both parties.

Gov. John M. Connally and Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough won Democratic nominations in their bids for new terms. George Bush and Jack Cox led in the GOP Senate primary and will fight it out in a runoff election June 6.

In other weekend activity, Goldwater picked up eight more delegates in Georgia, Missouri and Tennessee. Maine Republicans pledged their 14 first-ballot votes to Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, a favorite daughter.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market recovery continued early this afternoon in fairly active trading.

Gains of fractions to a point among key stocks outnumbered losers.

An assortment of specially-situated issues did considerably better than most others. At the same time, the number of small losers seemed to increase as trading wore on.

Big Three motors, airlines, chemicals, rails, coppers, electronics and aerospace issues showed a generally higher trend.

Steels and building materials were mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.0 at 304.1 with industrials up 1.7, rails up .5 and utilities up .2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 4.34 at 821.44.

Mack Trucks held a gain of about 3 points. Chrysler was up a point.

Texas Gulf Sulphur rose 1⅝ but in later dealings it trimmed the gain to a small fraction.

Northwest Airlines was up more than 5 points. Other airlines were mostly higher.

IBM gained 2. Up about a point were International Telephone, Polaroid, U.S. Smelting and Sears Roebuck.

Prices were higher on the American Stock Exchange.

fendant is under $100 bail. Officer Oscar Gray investigated the mishap.

Truck Too High

Ronald Berger, 20 of 9 Appletree Drive, Saugerties, driver, and William Reid, 19, of 63 Orchard Street, both suffered face, head, leg and chest injuries, and were reported in satisfactory condition today at Kingston Hospital. Officers John Crespino and Anthony Turck investigated.

Robert Longendyke, 26, of Ulster Avenue, Ulster Park, driving a van owned by the Port Ewen Garage, told police he didn't realize that the truck was too high to clear the East Union Street railroad bridge Sunday. It was forced back when it struck the bridge and his car owned by Longendyke, and driven by Barbara Longendyke, of the same address, police said.

Donald Gunzelmann, 21, of 18 Elmendorf Street, who rode in the truck, reported a head injury. Officer Oscar Gray investigated.

Panel Is Damaged

Eunice Knox, 51, of 29 East Union Street, reported a leg injury after a mishap reported at 2:40 a. m. Sunday at Broadway and Ferry Street. Police said the car was headed down Broadway when it came in contact with a building and damaged a door panel. Officers Weston Hoffay and Raymond Wells investigated. The report did not note which building was hit, but the former Cornell building, now owned by the County of Ulster, has a damaged door panel.

A police report at 5:55 a. m. today said Thomas Greco, 42, of 71 Brewster Street, reported swerving to avoid a dog on Pearl Street, and struck a Central Hudson utility pole. He suffered injuries of the right hand, nose and chest and was reported in fair condition at Kingston Hospital later today.

Kingston State Police arrested a man and a woman Saturday night in connection with an alleged sideshow at a carnival playing off Route 9W in the Town of Ulster.

Sergeant Henry S. Rhodes said BCI Investigator L. M. Luongo and Trooper Norman Kilfoyle booked Delilah Allen, 38, of 818 Camp Street, New Orleans, on a charge of indecent exposure. They also arrested the show manager, George Peter Hennen, 24, of Southfield, Mich., on a charge of operating an indecent show.

Both pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Robert Stedge, Town of Ulster, and paid fines of $25 each. Earlier last week troopers arrested three other sideshow entertainers on similar charges.

Road Death

County's fifth highway fatality this year.

Dutchess county chalked up its 18th highway fatality of 1964 on Saturday, after nine-year-old John Wendover Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wendover, Lithgow, was injured fatally when hit by a car on Route 44 near Lithgow.

Millbrook State Police said the accident occurred near the Roselawn farm owned by H. Curtis Place. The boy's father was employed on the farm.

Troopers said the car, operated by Frederick Balfe, 18, of 18 Park Place, Newburgh, was traveling east on Dutchess Turnpike when the accident occurred. The boy, troopers said, was walking along the highway with his aunt, Margaret Wendover, 24, and other relatives, when the car hit the boy.

Died in Hospital

Authorities reported the boy was taken to Vassar Hospital, where he died about three hours after being admitted. Death was due to a brain injury.

The 18th highway fatality in Dutchess County last year occurred on Oct. 13 when a four-lear-old girl was hit by a car in front of her Red Hook home. The 1963 toll in the county was 30.

An Orange County woman was killed and another was seriously injured Sunday, when they were struck by a car as they walked along Route 52 near Walden. Authorities identified the victim as Mrs. Elsie Debates, 37, of Walden.

Her friend, Mrs. Mary Reed, 62, also of Walden, was taken to Horton Memorial Hospital, Middletown. She suffered a possible fractured hip and other injuries.

Driver Not Held

Troopers released the driver of the vehicle, Abraham Berkowitz, of Lakeview Park, Montgomery. No charges were made. Authorities reported the women were walking in the same direction the car was going when they were hit near the crest of a hill.

The Associated Press in its weekend roundup reported the dead included six persons who were drowned, two persons perished in fires and 10 others died in other types of mishaps.

At Lakeport, John Rock, 25, of Syracuse, was drowned Saturday when he leaped into Oneida Lake in an effort to rescue a fishing companion who had fallen from a boat. Rock's companion reached safety.

Charles Anzalone, 21, of Jamestown, was believed drowned in Lake Chautauqua Saturday night in a fall from a homemade racing boat.

At Fredonia, Ronald C. Elliott, 6, Fredonia, was drowned Saturday when he fell into a creek near his home.

A boat overturned Saturday on Warner's Lake in Berne, and Anthony DiToro, 12, of Schenectady, was drowned.

The oldest drowning victim of the weekend was Charles Humphrey, 89, who lost his life Saturday in the St. Lawrence River near Cape Vincent.

At Malone, Floyd M. Johnson, 36, was drowned in the Salmon River while fishing Saturday.

Infant Struck by Car

One of the traffic deaths involved a mother and daughter. Theresa Hameline, 5, was struck by a car driven by her mother near the family's Syracuse home Saturday.

Other deaths included:

Utica—Albert G. Rodeo, 24, Ilion, car hit guard rails and overturned Friday night.

Keene Valley — Ronald Benwell, 25, Sterling, Cayuga County, car overturned early Sunday north of Keene Valley.

Why Ethical Drug Stocks Have Fallen Out of Favor

Q) "In my portfolio, I have 200 shares of Charles Pfizer. These show a nice appreciation as of this date. I have noticed that the stock has acted poorly in recent months. Do you believe I should hold or sell this stock?" — H. A.

A) I am very glad that you show a profit, because I'm going to advise you to sell.

Pfizer is an excellent ethical drug company, but the ethical group as a whole has fallen out of favor and may remain so for a considerable time. I believe the reasons are 1) an increased cost for research, and 2) the drug legislation passed in 1962 which empowered the FDA to demand proof of the effectiveness as well as the safety of proposed new drugs. The expense involved in obtaining approval has been stepped up, and the approval route has slowed down to a trickle.

I suggest that you switch to fast-growing Bristol-Myers, which is mainly involved in toiletries and proprietary medicine.

Q) "I know nothing of stocks, was in business until two years ago, and am now retired. I have two houses worth over $150,000 all paid for; $80,000 in cash; and $350 monthly income. I would like to buy some stocks, and would appreciate your opinion of these: Corn Products, General Foods, Ford Motors, General Electric, Sears, Roebuck; Jersey Standard, Pacific Gas & Electric, Proctor & Gamble, Chrysler and Campbell Soup."—M. R.

A) For someone who knows nothing about stocks, you have put together an extremely good list. I heartily approve of your entire group, with only one exception.

I believe it would be a mistake to buy into each of the Big Three motor stocks. These shares tend to move together, and while there is growth here there is always the possibility of wide variation in new car demand.

I would buy General Motors only. In place of the other two, I would substitute Monsanto Chemical and Safeway Stores.

(Pennington photo)

Miss Patricia Lynn Faerber, daughter of Mrs. Bernice Faerber of 149 Clinton Avenue, this city, wed Charles H. Whitaker, son of Mrs. Margaret Whitaker of Rogers Street, Ulster Park, and the late Harry Whitaker, on April 26, 1964, at 2 p. m. in the Old Dutch Church, also this city.

Officiating was the Rev. Arthur Oudemool.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother Frederick G. Faerber, 3rd. She wore a white gown of imported silk faced peau taffeta fashioned with a circlet neckline, fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves and a controlled bell skirt. Alencon lace trimmed the neckline and sleeves and rhinestones accented the lace on the mid-bodice. The skirt featured deep pleats set in the waistline and a self-bow in back. Her veil of four tiered English silk illusion was held by a crown of seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a nosegay of white roses, carnations and stephanotis.

Miss Nancy Topp of 192 Foxhall Avenue, this city, was the maid of honor. She wore a lace gown of white over pastel pink taffeta. It was styled with a scooped neckline, three quarter length sleeves, molded bodice and belled skirt. A matching hat held a flirtation veil. She carried a nosegay of medium pink carnations, roses and daisies.

Michael O'Donell of Bloomington was best man and ushering were Jay Van Loan and John McGinnis of Port Ewen.

A reception for 50 guests was given at the home of the bride. A buffet luncheon was served.

The bride was graduated from Kingston High School and is employed by the Smith Avenue Storage Warehouse Moving Company in Kingston. Her husband is an alumnus of Kingston High School and is employed by the Board of Education in the Hurley School. He served with the U. S. Army and is a member of the U. S. Army Reserves.

When Mr. and Mrs. Whitaker return from their trip to Canada, they will make their home on Rogers Street in Ulster Park.

A VERY SIMPLE WEDDING RECEPTION

Q: My daughter is going to be married next week and after the ceremony we would like our many friends to go down into the social hall of the church for a piece of wedding cake and a glass of punch. However, I do not want to make any mention of a reception on the invitations as people might come expecting a good deal, and also I don't want them to feel that they have to bring a present. Have you any suggestions as to how this might be handled?

A: It could be handled by the ushers stationed at the back of the church. They would announce to all the guests as they leave, "The bride and groom are receiving in the social hall downstairs."

Addressing Letters to Company Officers

Q: When addressing a letter to a person carrying a title in connection with his firm, do you drop the title Mr. before his name? In other words, do you address a letter:
Mr. John Smith, President
Hammer Manufacturing Company
address
or to you address it to John Smith, President, etc.? I know you omit the title Dr. when using M.D. after a man's name, but what about such titles as President, Treasurer, etc.?

A: Doctor and M.D., mean the same thing, therefore you use one or the other, but not both. When addressing the president or treasurer of a company, you address him as Mr. John Smith, followed by his title.

A Letter of Introduction

Q: I received a letter of introduction in today's mail from a friend introducing a friend of hers who is coming here to this city to live. Will you please tell me what my obligations are?

A: You should write a note or telephone her after she arrives in your city and invite her to a meal or to tea. After meeting her you do whatever you can to help establish herself in your city.

Appreciates Help

Editor, The Freeman:-

This is to express our sincere appreciation to The Kingston Freeman for the support given New York Catholic Charities 1964 Fund Appeal. Your contribution was an important one in helping us make known the accomplishments and goals of Catholic Charities and its diversified welfare services to needy men, women and children.

Catholic Charities has been conducting these annual appeals since its inception 45 years ago and they are its major source of income. It is essential, therefore, that we let the thousands of persons who support the appeals every year, know what their generosity has accomplished and the fact that only five cents of every contributed dollar is used for administrative purposes.

Your valuable help in bringing this information to public attention is responsible, in good part, for the success of our fund appeals and we are deeply grateful.

Sincerely,
RT. REV. MSGR.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

'You're Not My Real Mother'

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: My husband's 12-year-old girl by his ex-wife spends part of her school vacations with us. Frankly, I dread these visits. Another is due this June and I would appreciate any advice you can offer that will get us through it without real trouble. She can't stand my asking her to do things. But I have to ask her to do something occasionally like taking her laundry out of the bathroom basin. Then what I get is, "You're not my real mother. Why should I? . . ."

Answer: Of course you're not her real mother. But what has that got to do with your right to ask her to consider your wishes?

Children are obliged to consider the wishes of many adults who are not their "real" mothers—teachers, policemen, camp counselors, the parents of friends. So your stepdaughter's excuse for refusing to consider your wishes makes no sense in terms of reasonable protest.

But it seems to carry great weight with you.

Why? Why are you compelled to retreat from a position by this child's reminder that you are not her "real" mother? Is the fact that she has a real mother, one whom you want to forget? Is the fact that your husband has loved another woman still so painful to you that you can't stand being reminded of her realness by their child?

Perhaps it is not the discipline of this challenging child which has been making the trouble.

Perhaps the actual troublemaker has been your own refusal to come to terms with your husband's previous marriage—your resistance to the "realness" of the sexual relationship that once existed between him and his ex-wife.

Had you accepted her past realness to him, their child's reminder of it would present you with no problem. Instead of letting it hurt you so that it drives you into retreat, you would turn on her challenging reminder and say:

"Of course I'm not your real mother! Let's get this straight between us once and for all. I am your stepmother. How could I possibly be your real mother when you already have one? What kind of nonsense talk is this—and what's it got to do with taking your laundry out of this bathroom basin? Please take it out and I'll get you a pan if you want to soak it some more before rinsing it . . ."

I think that you somehow feel you should have been able to possess all your husband's past love as well as his present love. You could not, so it would be something of a relief, I think, to face this limit to your powers.

Blame Weld Break For Failure of Motor on Rocket

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—A break in a weld joint apparently caused the malfunction which destroyed a giant solid-fuel rocket motor and marred the dedication of a new test facility here, an Air Force spokesman reports.

The motor, a 250-ton, million-pound-thrust device, destroyed itself in a pillar of smoke and flame Saturday. It was fired as the Air Force Space Systems Division dedicated a new test-firing stand as tall as a nine-story building.

The 75-foot power plant is designed as a booster for the Titan 3C launch vehicle to be used in a manned space exploration program. Three similar motors have been test - fired successfully.

Krueger-Leonard Double Ring Rites Held At Fort Myer Army Chapel, Arlington, Va.

Miss Mary Ann Leonard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Leonard of McLean, Va., exchanged nuptial vows with Lt. Don E. Krueger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Krueger of 14 Madison Avenue Saturday, April 4 at 2 p. m. at Fort Myer Chapel, Arlington, Va.

Lt. Col. Thomas McGrath, chaplain of the United States Army, performed the double ring ceremony and traditional organ music was played. Baskets of white chysanthemums and gladioli decorated the chapel.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white silk organza fashioned with a scooped neckline, bell sleeves and lace encircling the waistline. The same delicate lace sprays were scattered on the sheath skirt and the detachable chapel length train of silk organza. A cluster of flowers held the fingertip length veil and she carried a cascade of white roses and lily of the valley.

Miss Catherine Ann Leonard, sister of the bride was maid of honor and Miss Barbara Ann Fagan, Alington, Va. was bridesmaid. Both attendants wore yellow silk organza floor length sheath gowns styled similar to the bride's gown. Their headpieces were yellow bows with short veils and they carried colonial bouquets of spring flowers.

Lt. Edward A. Brown III of Springfield, Va. served as best man for the bridegroom. Bentley Jenson of Kingston and Robert Leonard, brother of the bride, ushered.

Approximately 80 guests were received at a reception given at Arlington Hall Officers Club. Afterwards the couple left on a wedding trip to Seattle, Wash., where the bridegroom is serving with the 4th Engineering Battalion at Fort Lewis, Wash.

The bride is a graduate of Virginia schools and St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing, Baltimore, Md. She was on the staff of Northern Virginia Doctors Hospital.

The bridegroom graduated from Kingston High School Norwich University and is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY, MARY MARGARET!

Today is the 30th anniversary of Mary Margaret McBride's radio debut. In addition to all the telegrams and messages she will receive during the course of this day from world leaders, outstanding television and radio stars and countless other celebrities, we wish to add our own congratulatory wishes.

A former newspaperwoman, who left that profession when the stock market crash came in 1929, Mary Margaret's voice has invaded every home throughout her years as a radio and TV personality.

A lady of great dignity and charm, Mary Margaret has a heart which would embrace the entire world. Her personal appeal and genuine interest in people has won for her the respect of all.

West Shokan was to have been her place of retirement after years of activity in the world of communication but she still applies her folksy touch to the air waves for the benefit of the Hudson Valley.

Mary Margaret McBride

This outstanding woman, whom I am priviliged and honored to call my friend, once confessed to having been in love but that she gave up the idea of marriage in favor of her career. And what a career it has been!

Born on a farm near Paris, Mo., on November 16, 1899, Mary Margaret had a cultural background. One grandfather was a minister and the other was a Latin and Greek scholar. Both had ambitions for this only girl in the family. But Mary Margaret wanted to be a writer.

After attending a one-room school house for a time, she went to a boarding school endowed by her great aunt, who wanted her to become a teacher and head the school.

In 1916 she enrolled at the University of Missouri with her great aunt's aid. But when she told her aunt she was majoring in journalism and planned to be a writer instead of a teacher, the relative withdrew her financial support.

A Hard Worker

Mary Margaret, feeling that a writer required a college education, got a $10 a week job on a paper in Columbia, Mo., and continued her studies. She was graduated in two and a half years having attended summer school for two summers in addition to the regular sessions.

Her newspaper career took her to the Mexico Ledger, The Cleveland Press, a job as publicity agent for a church group in New York City, a reporter's post on the New York Evening Mail and a free-lance magazine writer. She also served as editor of the woman's page for the Newspaper Enterprise Association.

It was while working in New York City with the church group that Mary Margaret met the dynamic Stella Karn who years later became her manager.

When Mary Margaret entered the field of radio during the depression years her career sky-rocketed to dizzy heights.

Along the path of those famous years she paused long enough to interview at least 30,000 persons; have the State of Missouri proclaim September 22 as Mary Margaret McBride Day; have a rose named in her honor; to be voted the most popular woman of the air by the Woman's National Radio Committee; and win an Oscar from a National Radio and Screen magazine.

She has been honored by the Women's National Press Club, the Newspaper Woman's Club of New York and our own Kingston Newspaper Guild.

Mary Margaret was even decorated by King Haakan of Norway for her broadcasting during the war. She received the Distinguished Honor Award from the Haitian Government and a special medallion of honor from the Government of the Virgin Islands.

An author as well, Mary Margaret's most recent book is "Radio Years" in which she mentions the writer of this column and other residents in the Hudson Valley.

Happiness seems to be the one ingredient in life with which Mary Margaret is most concerned. It isn't ususual to hear her ask of her guest: " . . . are you happy?" Even in the face of tragedy Mary Margaret has always felt a person should train herself to recognize moments of happiness she may have had. "It can serve as a pillar of strength," she once said to me.

Today I leave all the accolades to the celebrities and wish for Mary Margaret on her anniversary, happiness, peace and serenity so that she may enjoy the vast wealth of friendships harvested through the years.

Phyllis W. Barlow, county home demonstration agent, submits the following article on freezing eggs:

Did you that you could freeze eggs? When eggs are plentiful you may wish to buy in quantity. It is quite easy to freeze eggs and what's more you can pack them in separate containers that hold just the right amount for your favorite recipes. Generally small and medium eggs are plentiful in the fall and are more economical than large eggs. In the spring large eggs are generally plentiful and may cost less than smaller sizes on the basis of the cost of a pound of eggs. Compare prices. By rule of thumb, less than an 8 cent spread between sizes tells you that it is more economical to buy the larger size egg.

The Cornell specialists warn you to freeze only very fresh eggs. Then break each egg into a small dish, smell it to make sure there is no stale odor and pour one by one into a mixing bowl.

You can freeze white and yolks together or separately. Neither the white nor the mixture of whites and yolks needs any pre-treatment. If you freeze egg yolks alone, you have to mix them lightly and treat them or they will get lump during storage.

But the treatment is simple. Just mix 1 or 2 tablespoons of light-colored corn syrup or sugar with 2 cups of egg yolks. Or, you can use a teaspoon of salt for each cup of yolks.

Pack them in individual, air tight containers holding just enough for a particular recipe. A simple way to measure is to mix each egg separately and put in a cube division of an ice cube tray. Freeze and then pack in a carton or plastic bag or wrap individually. Be sure to label the containers though because when the time comes to adjust the recipe you use, you will want to know whether the eggs contain syrup, sugar or salt.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

Lisa Tiano—Telephone OR 9-9328

Rakov Opposes Political Use Of OCS Schools

Peter W. Rakov of Woodstock has submitted the following letter which gives several reasons why he urges defeat of a proposed proposition to make Onteora Central Schools buildings available to political parties for meetings.

In summarizing his arguments against the proposal, Rakov said:

"I can sympathize with any political party which cannot find comfortable, spacious meeting facilities. However, I am convinced that this problem is minor compared to the multitude which would be created by forcing the Board of Education to provide its solution."

The statement follows:

On Wednesday, citizens of the Onteora School District will elect three people to the Board of Education and vote on two Propositions. One of these propositions is "Shall the Onteora School District buildings be used for political meetiings?" This is a dangerous Proposition. In my judgment, and that of people from all walks of life and political parties with whom I have discussed the subject, the proposition should be defeated.

"Loaded" Questions

Taxpayers should not place their Board of Education in a position where it must decide between political parties. What, indeed, is a "political party"? What is a "political meeting"? These are "loaded" questions the Board would have to satisfactorily answer in ruling on requests for use of school facilities. Once past these hurdles, doubtlessly to the dissatisfaction of many, requests from such groups to use school facilities for partisan meetings will unavoidably conflict occasionally. Thus, taxpayers would have their Board of Education to make a decision which would favor one party, or involve the Board in a damaging embroglio with all political parties.

Either situation would seriously weaken the Board's effectiveness in achieving their avowed goal — to serve the best interests of all people in the District by providing the best educational system as economically as possible. Getting involved in partisan politics not only has no place in this process, but deals a crippling blow to the Board's ability to work effectively with and for all people.

The proposed budget, which will also be voted on Wednesday, shows that $144,000 in tax money will be spent for light, power, fuel and the salaries of custodians. As a second reason for voting against the proposition, no portion of the citizen's tax dollar should be spent in supporting partisan politics by supplying any party with meeting facilities free of charge. Citizens pay school taxes to educate people, not to provide comfortable meeting facilities for meetings of partisan political groups.

Thirdly, any activity which takes place in a school facility should, by definition, be open to all taxpayers, regardless of their political affiliation. Political parties, being highly partisan and competitive, frequently discourage or prohibit non-members from attending their meetings. Thus, a taxpayer with no enrolled party affiliation or of Party B, C or D could not attend the meeting of Party A in a school facility, even though his dollars were paying for the electricity and heat consumed while Party A's meeting was in progress!

Fourthly, there are several townships in the Onteora School District. I find it impossible to satisfactorily answer why, for instance, all taxpayers in Olive, Hurley and Shandaken should be asked to help provide free meeting facilities for Political Party A in Woodstock.

I can sympathize with any political party which cannot find comfortable, spacious meeting facilities. However, I am convinced that this problem is minor compared to the multitude which would be created by forcing the Board of Education to provide its solution. Keep politics off our Board of Education's agenda. Vote against Proposition 2 on Wednesday!

Plan Services On Friday for Wendell Jones

A memorial service will be held at 2 p. m. Friday, May 8, in the Artists' Cemetery in Woodstock for Wendell Grant Jones, 21, who died last Wednesday in an automobile accident. The Rev. Lloyd H. Uyeki, rector of St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, will conduct the simple graveside rites.

The death of Mr. Jones—Wendy—a gifted young man with a "very special capacity for life," as one of his schoolmates put it, has shocked and grieved his many friends.

Wendell was killed instantly when the car in which he was driving alone went out of control and crashed in a field off Route 2 in Marshfield, Vermont. The village is near Montpelier ,not far from Goddard College which he had entered early in March.

The tall, sandy-haired, dynamic youth—who resembled his artist-father, the late Wendell Jones—had taken two years off from his education to start a promising career in the related fields of film making and newspaper work.

Joined Tribune

He had graduated from the Woodstock Country School in South Woodstock, Vt., in 1961, and had completed a semester at Columbia University. He left there to join the New York Herald Tribune staff as an editorial assistant, the first step in the newspaper profession. But the visual reporting of the contemporary scene began to intrigue him. He began studying film production at the New School in New York.

In Newspaper Field

Then in February of last year, Wendell went to the Brooklyn Daily Eagle to take on a variety of responsibilities. Working nights, he was an all-around assistant in the news room. He wrote the routine obituaries and graduated to reporting and writing byline stories that ordinarily are done by experienced newsmen.

The Eagle ceased publication in the summer, and Wendell returned to his Woodstock home to start a serious film production effort. His subject was the Hudson River. He spent the winter shooting the documentary, mostly around Rondout and Kingston, and doing research in the area's history.

He had taken 3,000 feet of the 16 millimeter film when he decided to finish his education at Goddard. The completion of the film will be undertaken by his friends and his older brother, Peter, as something he would have wanted. The broader projects Wendell had mapped with his rare enthusiasm — to help the peoples of the world — must fall to others he inspired.

Dozens of letters have come and are still pouring in to his mother, Mrs. Jane Hays Jones, and his brother, from his contemporaries and others of all ages who knew him or worked with him. One young friend mourned that "he should be taken from us, who needed Wendy and loved him." Royce S. Pitkin, president of his college, wrote: "The Goddard community and the world are poorer because of Wendell's death."

He had attended the West Hurley school, the Arlington District School in Poughkeepsie —where his father was an assistant professor of art at Vassar College — a school in Switzerland and Collegiate School in New York.

The family prefers that those wishing to send flowers should contribute instead to the newly-organized library of the Woodstock Country School in Vermont, which Wendy himself had hoped to help.

Sport Club Boosters Edge Albany, 2-0

Locals Move Closer to 4th Straight Title

Kingston Sport Club blanked a stubborn Albany Sports Club squad, 2-0, Sunday at Albany to move a step closer to the Central New York Soccer Association title.

The win was the second straight, both by close margins, since the team's 49-game winning streak was shattered by Schenectady Football Club. Four league matches remain and Kingston is a prohibitive favorite to nail down its fourth consecutive pennant.

Carlos Bustamente and Mike Newmerchnsky scored the winning goals, both coming in the second half. After a scoreless first half, the scoring drought was extended to the 65-minute mark when Bustamente crashed through with an assist from Jimmy Reinhardt.

Fifteen minutes later, Newmerchynsky scored the second and final goal with an assist by Peter Fuchs. The powerful Albany offense was completely bottled by the locals and the home team never seriously threatened to score.

Tony Alexander's second team scored a solid 3-2 victory over the Albany jayvees. Bill Newmerchynsky rammed home a pair of goals but Albany rallied to tie the score at 2-2 and set the stage for Shaun Northrup's game clinching goal for Kingston.

League action is suspended next Sunday when all-star picks from the league play a practice game at Oehler's Mountain Lodge field. The all-star squad to play at Randalls Island on May 17 will be selected after the practice game.

The lineups:

Kingston	Albany S. C.

RFB—Roberts	Schweichert
LFB—Luzzi	Land

Nine HRs Fly Out KC Park

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

What hath Charles Finley wrought?

When the incendiary owner of the Kansas City Athletics declared war on the American League, even he couldn't have envisioned the devastating effect his strategy would have on Kansas City's Municipal Stadium.

Twelve homers were hit Sunday as the Athletics swept a double-header from Minnesota 7-4 and 8-7. That output increased to 24 the number of homers hit in the four-game series between the teams.

The Twins connected for seven Sunday and 15 altogether while Kansas City pounded out five in the doubleheader and nine in the series.

Home runs are being hit at Municipal Stadium at more than twice the rate they were hit last season.

Of course, Finley's tactics have helped. He acquired home run sluggers Rocky Colavito and Jim Gentile during the winter and more recently constructed his Pennant Porch and shortened the fences generally.

Colavito leads the league with six home runs while Gentile is tied for second with five. The closer fences have resulted in eight homers—six by the A's.

Finley may not win the war or the pennant, but he may beat the stadium into submission.

Yankees Split

Elsewhere in the American League, there were three doubleheader splits. New York blanked Washington 4-0, then lost 6-5; Baltimore stopped Cleveland 5-2, then was shut out 3-0 and Chicago nipped Los Angeles 3-2, then dropped a 6-2 decision. Boston whipped Detroit 11-7 in the only single game.

Despite the home run attack, it took four walks in the ninth inning to win the nightcap for the Athletics. The Twins' Bill Pleis issued all of the passes, the last to George Alusik which forced in Nelson Mathews with the winning run.

Carl Yastrzemski joined the long ball parade with a grand slam homer that climaxed a run rally in the fifth inning and powered Boston past Detroit.

Dave Nicholson's three-run homer gave the White Sox their fifth straight triumph in the first game, but sterling elief pitching by Dean Chance helped the Angels halt the streak in the second.

Olsen Wins Feature At Victory Speedway

Bud Olsen became the first driver to chalk up two feature wins at the Victory Speedway in Middletown when he piloted his car across the finish line in last week's feature event.

Heat winners included Olsen, Griffin and Kruger. The flathead feature was taken by Doc Norton and heats by Yonker and Wood.

Midgets are slated at the speedway on May 16 with motorcycles set for the 17th and a demolition derby on May 30.

Milwaukee Has Solid Hill Corps

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Shove over Warren Spahn. You may not be the Milwaukee Braves' only pitcher after all.

Perched in third place in the National League standings, Manager Bobby Bragan's club today can look back on three complete game pitching victories in the last four starts.

Sunday's 1-0 two-hit masterpiece by Hank Fischer against the Phillies followed Bob Sadowski's five-hitter against Philadelphia and Tony Cloninger's one-hitter against the Pirates.

The only loss in the four game stretch was charged to a 43-year-old southpaw on the staff of youngsters. Fellow named Spahn.

Fischer, sprung from the bullpen, turned in his third straight route-going performance, retiring the last 16 batters he faced. The 24-year-old right-hander also produced the only run of the game in the second inning.

The shutout lowered Fischer's ERA to a flashy 1.93, best on the Braves' staff. "His best pitch was control," said catcher Ed Bailey. "He was hitting his spots and he made my job easy."

Mets Lose Pair

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh came from behind to whip St. Louis 12-8; San Francisco topped Los Angeles 6-3; Houston beat Chicago 5-3 and Cincinnati swept a doubleheader from the New York Mets 6-5 and 6-3.

Fischer surrendered singles to Tony Gonzales in the second and John Herrnstein in the fourth before shutting the door. He struck out four and walked two.

It was the first major league shutout for the $50,000 bonus baby who signed off the Seton Hall University campus in 1959.

Willie Stargell was the big gun for the Pirates driving in five runs with a home run and a single.

Juan Marichal had a shaky start before settling down and turning in his 10th straight victory for the Giants.

Willie Mays, socked a single and his 10th homer raising his league-leading batting average to .459. Willie Davis had a two-run homer for the Dodgers.

Jim Wynn's two-run homer in the sixth carried Houston to its victory, the first for Hal (Skinny) Brown after two losses. Jim Beauchamp also homered for the Colts.

The Reds came from behind in both ends of their double victory over the Mets.

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — (NEA) — Penn State baseball teams have made four appearances in the NCAA College World Series at Omaha in 1962, '57, '59 and '63.

McAndrew and Johnson Hurl 5-2, 10-1 Wins

Superb pitching by Lonnie McAndrew and Wayne Johnson plus some timely hitting carried Ulster County Community College to a doubleheader sweep of Keystone Jr. College of Pennsylvania, 5-2, and 10-1, Saturday at Dietz Stadium.

The first two victories of the season boosted the locals' record to 2-2 as they get ready to play a twinbill Wednesday at Delhi. The final game is slated at home next Monday night against Shelton College of New Jersey.

McAndrew, who with Johnson hurled last season for Kingston High, was in a scoreless duel in the seven-inning opener before his mates broke through for a four run inning in the fifth.

Dave Horton, another KHS player, singled and then swiped second and third. He scored on a balk. Ken Horne was plunked by a pitch and shortstop Bill Pratt singled. After Horne was forced at third, Bill Reid followed with a two-run triple.

Both teams scored in the sixth and the visitors added another tally in the seventh before McAndrew set down to nail the school's first baseball victory.

Lonnie allowed six hits while walking one and fanning a dozen.

As good as McAndrew was in the opener, Johnson was even better in the abbreviated five-inning second game. This one was called because of an 11:30 curfew.

The fireballer gave up a fifth inning single and it was the only hit and led to the only run the visitors managed. Johnson fanned 14 and retired the other batter on a comeback ball. He walked only two.

Coach Al DiBernardo's nine opened right up in the first frame as Horton was hit by a pitch, Herne walked and Jim Uhl reached base on an error.

Pratt then cleaned the bases with a ringing double. An infield out led to another run and the fifth scored when Bill Ried was walked, stole second, went to third on a passed ball and tallied on an out.

Horton put the lid on the win with a two-run homer in the fourth. The ball was hit deep to right center and Dave easily beat the relay home.

A Man With A Dream

Veteran Sports Figure Is Hailed For Long Career

"I will continue to promote baseball until I realize a dream I have had down through the years," Fred J. Davi of Glasco said in accepting he Joyce-Schirick Post, VFW's annual Citizen of the Year Award Saturday night at the VFW hall in Kingston.

Nearly 200 persons heard the prominent baseball promoter and sports figure praised for his many contributions to local baseball and for his work in youth sports.

Commander Gilbert Williams presented Davi with the scroll and medal symbolic of the award and said the VFW was proud to honor one who had done so much for baseball and the youth of the Kingston area.

John Crespino, president of the Kingston Patrolmen's Association, presented Davi with a transistor radio in behalf of the organization.

Praised by Farrell

Jackie Farrell of the New York Yankees public relations department lauded Davi as a great friend and boost of the Yankees. He said that Davi had been a part of the Yankee family for many years and is highly respected by the organization.

Davi's "dream", as he explained it was to see a Kingston area youth become a full fledged major league player. He also recalled some of the highspots of his career, including his wartime associations with Yogi Berra, Billy Johnson and other Yankees in the Connecticut area, where he promoted a powerful independent team that defeated four major league teams in one week in exhibitions.

Charles J. Tiano, Freeman sports editor and life long friend of Davi's, said that Davi had earned the title of "Mr. Baseball" through his long association with the game. He noted Davi's contributions to youth programs in recent years and recalled that the "Laughing Boy", as he is sometimes called, had helped numerous organizations in securing speakers for banquets, World Series tickets, equipment, baseballs and in numerous other ways.

Finest Record

"Some of the fine things that Fred has done over and above baseball have never been chronicled in the press," Tiano said. "He has devoted his life to his work and his sports promotion. His record of promoting baseball uninterruptedly for 35 years is unparalleled in independent baseball in the United States and his all-round accomplishments certainly justifies the high honor the VFW is bestowing on him tonight."

Tiano also praised the V.F.W. for the recognition extended Davi as Citizen of the Year and said this recognition would be highly applauded by sports minded persons throughout the Hudson valley where Davi has become something of a legend in his own time.

Mayor John J. Schwenk congratulated Davi for his interest in youth programs and baseball and said the city of Kingston was keenly aware and appreciative of the work he was doing.

Attorney Charles Saccoman was the toastmaster.

Halts Belated Rally in 9th To Insure Win

Plattsburgh stopped a ninth inning rally and scored a 5-4 win Saturday ever the Hawks of New Paltz State in a thriller at the upstate diamond.

The Hawks started their two-day road trip by losing a 5-1 decision Friday at Potsdam and show a 1-5 mark for the season. They will host Oneonta State on Tuesday at the college diamond.

Righty Tom Clarke was given a two-run margin in the first inning but he gave it back in the last of the first. Plattsburgh moved ahead with another run in the third and two in the fifth to take a 5-2 lead into the eighth.

A pair of singles and two errors gave coach Al Miller's club a run in the eighth. Then in the ninth, a walk and two hits netted a run and put men on second and third. However, the rally fizzled and the Hawks left the field still needing a run to knot the score.

Both sides had five hits and New Paltz was given 10 walks but couldn't get the bingles at the right time. Clarke walked and fanned three in losing the toughie.

Forst Needs One To Clinch Title

Forst Formost took a pair of pressurized games from Modern Vending Friday at the Campi-Tarsie Lanes in Newburgh to move closer to the title in the powerful Mid-Hudson Major league.

The locals have a 2½ game lead with one week left and have to win just one this weekend from Tompkins and Baxter Insurance, which was beaten once by Sangi's Bowlero. If Tompkins sweeps, that club will nip the locals by half-game.

All five keglers were over the 600 mark with the top series being a 662 by Larry Peterson and the low being a 615 by Jake Charter. Lou Campi blistered a solid 247-221-258-726 for Modern Vending but the defending champions could win only the final game and were eliminated from the race.

In the key first game, the locals overcame a two-mark deficit starting the final frame to score a 1076-1059 verdict. They shot 1110 to 1028 in winning the second game before bowing 1078-958.

Sangi's which three weeks ago won three times from Modern Vending, gave Tompkins and Baxter a good run, winning the first game, 1016-884 but then losing a pair of toughies, 1021-970 and 1015-978.

Tom Carlino belted 659 and Hal Broskie 650 for the locals while a 618 by Phil Versace and 609 by John Martini paced Tompkins and Baxter.

Dutchess County Court Probation Officer Dies

Elbert C. Ackerman, 65, of 35 Arnold Road, Poughkeepsie, a Dutchess County court probation officer, died Saturday at Vassar Hospital. He had suffered a heart attack while in his office in the courthouse on Wednesday.

Ackerman, a former chairman of Area 3, New York State Council of Probation Administrators, which encompassed 10 counties, entered public service as a deputy sheriff in 1922, and from 1930 to 1942 served as court crier. He began work as a voluntary worker in the county probation office on July 1, 1945.

Later that month he was appointed county probation officer. Ackerman served in World War 1 and long had been an active member and officer of Lafayette Post, American Legion. He was born in Poughkeepsie on Dec. 9, 1898, son of the late Frederick and Adelaide Washburn Ackerman. He was a member of Triune Lodge, F. & A.M., Tri-Po-Bed Grotto and the Masonic War Veterans. He also belonged to the New York State Civil Service Employes' Association, the 40 and 8 Society. He was an honorary member of the Poughkeepsie Parent-Teacher Association.

Saugerties Woman Struck by Auto

A Saugerties woman was injured at 2:45 p. m. Sunday when hit by a car as she was walking across Route 28 near Phoenicia, according to Kingston State Police.

Sergeant Henry S. Rhodes said Pearl I. Thyben ,77 of Market Street, Saugerties, suffered abrasions of the left ele and shoulder. Troopers said she told them she would see her own physician.

Troopers reported the car, driven by Walter Linhart, 38, of Albertson, was driving east just east of Route 214 when the woman reportedly stepped from in front of a parked car and was hit. Linhart was driving a 1963 car at the time of the mishap.

Kuchel Stakes Out Victory Claim Over Jury Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, a leader of the Senate's civil rights forces, staked out a victory claim today over the Morton jury trial amendment.

Not only will the proposal backed by Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., be defeated, Kuchel said in an interview, but the Senate will turn its back on more drastic amendments proposed by Southern opponents of the civil rights bill.

Under the Morton proposal a defendant would have the right of a jury trial in any case of criminal contempt of court arising out of the antidiscrimination provisions of the legislation.

The Senate is expected to vote on this amendment Wednesday —the first real test of the measure since the bill reached the floor March 30.

As the Senate headed into its 47th day on civil rights, Kuchel offered another prediction; the jury trial amendment backed by the Senate leaders will pass.

Kuchel, the assistant Republican leader, has teamed with his Democratic counterpart, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, to shepherd the civil rights bill.

Their chiefs, Democrat Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, are backing an amendment that would provide jury trials in criminal contempt cases only if the penalty exceeded 30 days in jail or a $300 fine.

Methodist Conference Still Dealing With Race Question

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Controversy over the race question continued on and off the floor today at the 1964 General Conference of the Methodist Church.

In the forefront was a report which endorses civil disobedience within "most carefully circumstanced limits." The report, "Christian Social Concerns," is scheduled for debate tonight.

Integrationist forces moved behind the scenes to bring back to the floor a plan which calls for integration within the church on a voluntary and gradual basis. Integrationists want the plan strengthened.

The "Christian Social Concerns" report was presented over the weekend by the Rev. Harold A. Bosley, pastor of Christ Church, Methodist, New York.

Part of the report said:

"Christians have long recognized that after exhausting every reasonable legal means for redress of grievances, the individual is faced with the moral and legal dilemma of whether or not his peculiar circumstances require obedience to God rather than men."

The report contended that individuals must make such judgment in certain instances in the current struggle for racial justice.

"In rare instances where legal recourse is unavailable for redress of grievances from law which are clearly unjust or immoral, the individual is justified in obeying God's authority rather than man's. Even then, meticulous care must be taken to prevent proliferation of civil disobedience beyond most carefully circumstanced limits."

During debate Saturday the Rev. G. Ross Freeman of Atlanta, Ga., moved for removal of the paragraph referring to obedience to God's authority rather than man's.

"It would be tragic for the news to go from this place that the Methodist Church endorses civil disobedience and, therefore, anarchy," the Rev. Mr. Freeman said.

Debate on the report followed an all-night vigil by Methodists from many parts of the country who came to Pittsburgh to protest what they said was a weak effort by the conference to end segregation in the church.

After the vigil, in two downtown churches, and a kneel-in at the city's modernistic Civic Arena, where the conference is in session, some delegates vowed to try and force a new vote on a plan to merge the church's Negro jurisdiction with its white conferences.

The demonstrators had been protesting the plan, saying it failed to provide speedy action.

Approve Amendment

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Congressional approval of a proposed constitutional amendment to permit children to say a prayer in public schools has been called for by the New York State Art Teachers Association.

The association called for the action Saturday in a resolution adopted at the final business session of its 15th annual convention, which opened Wednesday.
